Bomb Halt Puts Cambodia On Own

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — American warplnes left Cambodian skies for good at 11 a.m. today, Cambodia time, ending history's longest air war and leaving President Lon Nol's government to fend for itself against rebel forces lying in wait outside Phom Penh's jungled defense perimeter.

As the last B52 bombers unloaded their 30-ton bomb load and streaked back to their bases on Guam just before the midnight Tuesday EDT cutoff, Cambodians in the beleagured capital accepted the end of American air support as just another grim fact of war.

"We'll fight more, I guess," said a young veteran ho lost a leg in the fighting.

American pilots who returned after their last runs to U.S. air bases in Thailand shrugged it off as just another day's work.

But an hour before the cutoff, a final American drama was recorded in the air over Phnoom Penh.

The pilot of a U.S. OV10 observation plane reported structural damage on his left wing as he pulled out from a rocket pass.

Central control alerted a nearby aircraft to assess the damage and accompany the plane to base.

The OV10 at first headed for Phnom Penh then apparently decided to go back to its base in Thailand

American warplanes over the past six months of the intensified air campaign over Cambodia have dumped an estimated 240,000 tons of bombs on insurgent positions — nearly twice the amount of conventional explosives dropped on Japan in all of World War II.

To support the U.S. air campaign in Indochina that began in 1964, the United States has spent an estimated $21.6 billion, ordered more than 308,000 B52 strikes and some 1.8 million fighter bomber raids, and lost more than 800 fliers dead.

Another 860 U.S. Airmen have been reported missing in action since 1964.

Now the Cambodian air force — a meager fleet of about 100 prop-driven T28 bombers, 36 helicopters, eight C123 troop transports and a variety of small fixed-wing observation planes — must take up the slack.

The Pentagon has said it will keep its air arsenal at the Thai bases as a reminder to the Communist of the threat of U.S. air power.

"We want to leave the other side with some small degree of uncertainty as to what the United States might do," one official said. "That might discourage them from doing anything."

Mill Valley Little League Fails Bid For Tam Valley Ball Field

By BILL ROBERTS

Mill Valley Little League failed last night to secure a ball park in Tamalpais Valley for use next year as Tamalpais Community Services District directors decided to take a wait-and-see stand. (Another services district story, page 22.)

After a two-hour public hearing, which produced some heated debate, directors decided a master plan for five-acre Eastwood Park should be prepared before they get down to specific use such as Little League's offer to create a diamond in the park.

The league began to seek a new park when the Mill Valley City Council banned it from Boyle Park next year unless it allows girls on its teams.

Bruce Williams, league president, explained the league's plan for Eastwood Park to district directors. He said the proposed diamond would cover about one acre and would be created completely with volunteer labor and league finances at no expense to taxpayers.

After the majority of the about 100 persons present objected in some degree to the league's plan, directors voted unanimously to continue gathering data for a professional planner's feasibility study.

Directors never voted on the league's proposal but the prospective delay during master plan preparation thwarts the league's plan for leveling and sodding the site before winter rains.

Homeowners bordering the park were among the most outspoken against the ball field. Several complained about noise pollution and traffic congestion which they said would accompany the ball park.

Some Tamalpais Valley residents said the proposed use would benefit only a small number of residents and would not provide maximum utilization of the site. Little League had requested that it have use of the ball field from 5 to 8 p.m. week nights during its April to early July season.

And the issue which forced the league to seek a new field surfaced as some residents said they would not want the league to use a public facility unless their daughters could join its teams. A representative of the National Organization for Women gave the legal objections to sex discrimination by the Little League.

Williams and other Little League backers seemed unable to influence objectors with architectural sketches and overlays of the proposed ball field. And proposals that other uses such as a swimming pool and tennis courts share the site were doubted by opponents of the field.

The board acted in accord with a Tamalpais Park and Recreation Commission recommendation that it approve a conceptual master plan before granting specific uses of the park.

Less than half the audience remained after the public hearing to hear directors vote 4-2, with Glenn Lambacher objecting, to have the park and recreation commission recommend a firm to prepare the master plan.

The board also voted unanimously to finance a community survey in regard to possible uses for Eastwood Park.

Bagley Drops Washington Goal, Eyes Controller Job

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, has dropped plans for a federal post and launched his campaign for state controller next year.

The veteran legislator told the Independent-Journal Tuesday he has hired Jack McDowell, head of press relations for Gov. Ronald Reagan's 1970 reelection campaign, to help plan the long drive for the state's top fiscal office.

McDowell, a Pulitzer Prize-winning reporter formerly with the San Francisco Examiner, now has a campaign management and public relations firm in San Francisco.

Bagley said he also has rented a hospitality suite at the Republican State Central Committee's convention next month in San Diego, and has been lining up speaking engagements throughout the state.

He insisted he was not announcing his candidacy, however. Any such pronouncement would not come until the end of the year, he said.

Bagley said the incumbent controller, Houston I. Flournoy, a former colleague in the Assembly and a longtime friend, assured him in recent weeks that he should go ahead and act on his hopes for the office. Flournoy said his own push for the governor's seat was too far along to back out, Bagley reported.

The assemblyman said he has "abandoned any thought of going to Washington." He has been rumored near appointment to various high Nixon administration posts for years.

According to his friends in Washington, Bagley said, "there is such a pall over that town you can't get anything done." As a result, he explained, his enthusiasm for going there vanished.

The legislator, who announced last year before his reelection that he would not run again for the Assembly after next year, said he was looking for "broader horizons." He said he is attracted to the controller's seat, because he is an expert in fiscal matters.

Mailliard Thoughts On China

By MARY LEYDECKER

The thaw in China's official outlook toward the United States is mainly due to growing suspicion and fear of the Russians, Marin's congressional representative told a gathering in Larkspur Tuesday.

Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, recently returned from a congressional trip to China, recounted a conversation there with Chou En-lai.

Chou greeted the eight American legislators on the tour by warning them not to trust the Russians, Mailliard said. He said Chou went on to say that he hoped Americans were not putting too much stock in "those papers signed by Mr. Nixon and Mr. Breshnev. . . we have agreements with them (the Russians) and we have one million of their troops on our soil."

The Chinese leader also told the Americans that each new building in China now has a "fall-out shelter" as part of its plan, Mailliard said.

The local congressman, who is the ranking minority member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said "there is no reduction in the ideological differences between Washington and Peking." Rather, he explained, China is seeking the United States' friendship in a time when Russia and India are in closer alliance than ever and Japan is "in an era of uncertainty.

"What if the United States pulls out of the Western Pacific and Japan turns to Russia?" the congressman asked, saying this is a fear of the Chinese.

Mailliard, who last visited China in 1945, said he was "deeply impressed" by acccomplishments of the country in the past quarter century. "There are no beggars, no piles of dirt and refuse on the streets and no flies," all customarily part of the Asian scene, he said. "You just don't see poverty any more."

As for the flies, which he said he remembered vividly from his earlier trip, he was told they disappeared after "Chou said kill flies. . . when 800 million Chinese start killing flies, the flies don't have a prayer."

Mailliard, who said he primarily visited the "bread basket" of China, the hot, steamy heavily populated lowlands, where most Chinese live and which produce most of China's food, said "admittedly we saw what they wanted us to see."

He said, though, that the delegation made "the full gamut" of attractions, including visits to factories, communes, schools, hospitals and former palaces.

Magruder Reported Passing A Lie Test

Paper Claims Mitchell Helper Told The Truth

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jeb Stuart Magruder, who testified that his former boss, John N. Mitchell, gave the go-ahead for the Watergate burglary, was reported today to have taken and passed a lie detector test.

The Washington Star-News quoted reliable sources as saying Magruder submitted to the test between the time he first went to federal prosecutors April 14 and May 2, when he appeared before the Watergate grand jury.

The test was applied by a polygraph expert for the prosecutors, the newspaper said.

Magruder was said to have implicated Mitchell directly before the grand jury and publicly did so during testimony before the Senate Watergate Committee later.

Magruder, who was deputy director to the Committee for Reelection of the President when Mitchell was director, testified that the plan for bugging and wiretapping the Democratic headquarters at the Watergate got Mitchell's approval March 30, 1972.

Mitchell testified later and denied Magruder's allegation.

Mitchell, President Nixon's former attorney general, was in Washington today for undisclosed reasons. His successor at the Justice Department, Richard G. Kleindienst, testified Tuesday before a newly impaneled federal grand jury investigating matters related to Watergate.

The new grand jury plans to look into a wide range of matters such as so-called "dirty tricks" in the 1972 presidential campaign, abuses in fund-raising, and also possible perjury and obstruction of justice in connection with settlement of a government antitrust suit against International Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Magruder was reported to have planned to enter a guilty plea Thursday morning to a single charge of obstructing justice in connection with his Watergate role, but his lawyer said this was "not correct."

It had been disclosed previously that Magruder had agreed to plead guilty to a single charge in exchange for his cooperation with federal investigators, who agreed to drop a variety of other charges against him.

The Senate committee is in recess until Sept. 10 and there were some reports that members' mail was becoming more negative to the televised hearings. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, suggested this in an appearance in Madison, Wis., Tuesday in criticizing the hearings.

Chairman Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., was quoted by Knight Newspapers that his mail was "overwhelmingly in favor of the committee" and suggested there was an "artificially inspired mail-campaign" aimed at discrediting the committee.

Ervin's office has said about four out of five letters he gets are favorable, although about two of every five from his home state of North Carolina are critical.

Rufus Edmisten, longtime assistant to Ervin who is deputy chief counsel of the investigating committee, said some of the committee's mail cautions against any campaign to "get" President Nixon.

As for Ervin's home state mail Edmisten said, "Sam Ervin is home this week in Morgantown. He now knows that not everybody is thrilled abou Watergate."

NIXON ON TV, 6 P.M. TODAY

President Richard M. Nixon was to televise a "Watergate white paper" tonight, to counter allegations that he was in any way involved in the scandal.

The broadcast will be carried in the Bay Area at 6 p.m. over television channels 3, 4, 5, 7, 10 and 11.

The President will speak from his desk in the Oval Room of the White House.

Bedayan Snubbed By Youth Band?

The exclusion of Brent William Bedayan from the social circle of a band organized by Daniel R. Schallock may have played a part in Bedayan's killing of Schallock, and Schallock's mother and father, according to the band's equipment manager.

Curtis W. Lee, 21, said Bedayan's younger brother, Bruce was a member of the band and a close friend of young Schallock and as a result Brent Bedayan was drawn to the group but never able to become part of it. Lee called the group "very exclusive."

Lee, testifying for the prosecution, said hard feelings existed between Schallock and Brent Bedayan because the latter thought Schallock had gypped him on selling him a guitar.

The young equipment manager said Brent Bedayan used some LSD and marijuana, but that he used nothing near the amount of marijuana indulged in by Schallock who smoked 20 to 30 such cigarettes a day.

Lee's testimony was an interruption of the defense in the 14th day of the trial before Judge Henry J. Broderick.

Lee was unavailable when the state concluded its presentation last week and was permitted to be called out of order.

San Rafael psychiatrist Joseph P. Gutstadt yesterday told of the events leading up to the triple slaying and his attempt to have Bedayan returned to the crisis center on the day before the killings.

He said he issued an order for Bedayan to turn himself in to the center for an evaluation by 2 p.m. March 15.

The Mill Valley man is charged with murdering Melvin and Ruth Schallock and their son, Daniel, the next day.

Gustadt said he asked that the necessary papers be served on the former lifeguard after his mother reported that her son's behavior had become erratic and she again feared that he might harm himself.

The psychiatrist, who was later to learn that Bedayan never received the order, said the young man called his office on March 14 and said he would be in to see the doctor at 3 p.m.

Many Industries Are On Price Bandwagon

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Price increases began to surface in many industries today and New York City's seven million residents were told that the cost of food there had jumped 4 ½ per cent in a week.

The New York City Department of Consumer Affairs announced the surge in food prices over last week and said it was the largest increase recorded by the department since it assumed its "watchdog" role over supermarket prices early this spring.

The agency said that beef supplies in that period had been cut in half and that the hike in prices was due mainly to increases in such basic products as meat, poultry, bread and eggs.

In Chicago, wheat futures reached a record high of $5.14 a bushel on the Board of Trade.

The September futures for wheat broke the $5 mark for the first time in history, reaching the 20-cent limit permitted in one day's trading.

Other producects also were straining at levels announced this spring.

The nation's two biggest steel companies, U.S. Steel and Bethlehem, said Tuesday they had notified the Internal Revenue Service they plan to raise prices $8 to $12 a ton for sheet and strip steel prices. Under Phase IV rules, major companies must give 30 days notice before raising prices.

Other steel companies, Armco Steel, Republic, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Jones Laughlin, Wheeling-Pittsburgh and National Steel, also filed for increases.

The companies had announced increases in May. Major steel buyers, including automakers, said then they would mean higher prices for consumers.

The increases amount to about 4.8 per cent on strip and sheet steel products.

Two more auto companies asked for increases Tuesday on the 1974 models. General Motors asked for an increase of $102, or 2.7 per cent. Ford Motor Co. requested an increase averaging $106, or 2.4 per cent.

GM and Ford both said government safety and emission requirements were a factor in the increases.

A spokesman for the Cost of Living Council said more big companies were expected to file for Phase IV increases this week.

Birth In Space

HOUSTON (UPI) — With the need for a possible rescue flight growing more remote, Skylab's astronauts today kept watch over an aquarium which recorded the first birth in spaceflight history — a minnow.

The space agency Tuesday reset the rescue launch — if required — to Sept. 24, two weeks later than previously announced.

Owen K. Garriott reported just before bedtime Tuesday that one of 50 mummichog minnow eggs hatched.

Spy Charge

BELFAST (UPI) — A Roman Catholic political leader said today the British Army tried to force a youth to spy on the Irish Republican Army (IRA) against his will.

Gerry Fitt, leader of the Social Democratic and Labor Party, said he would fly to London today to present tape recorded evidence on the charge to Lord Carrington, British minister of defense.

Nuclear Warning

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Consumer watchdog Ralph Nader warned Tuesday that a "spectacular catastrophe" could result from an accident involving radioactive material used by nuclear power plants.

"One ounce of plutonium if dispersed could produce lung cancer for everyone on earth," Nader told a Pennsylvania Insurance Department hearing.

Insurance Commissioner Herbert Denenberg is conducting three days of hearings to probe the insurance risks posed by the operation of nuclear power plants. There are 30 plants currently in operation across the country.

Mayor Lied?

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Mayor Frank L. Rizzo lied in response to questions asked during a lie detector test, and a city councilman whose accusations against Rizzo inspired the test told the truth, a polygraph expert said Tuesday.

Rizzo said he was "sick to his stomach" over the results.

"My credibility might be affected by the headline 'Rizzo Lied,' " he said. "I have great confidence in the polygraph. I believe it is an excellent machine. But I know in my heart I told the truth. My God, something is wrong."

The city's Democratic party leader, Councilman Peter J. Camiel, had said Rizzo approached him in the men's room of a downtown hotel last February and offered to let him choose the architects for the city projects if Camiel would let Rizzo pick the party's choice for district attorney.

Lockheed Gains

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress after a bitter fight two years ago agreed to give government backing for a huge loan to Lockheed Aircraft Corp. Federal auditors now say the firm's financial situation is "promising."

The relatively optimistic report was issued Tuesday by the General Accounting Office (GAO), the investigative arm of Congress. GAO noted Lockheed has borrowed $150 million under the 1971 government guarantee. It said development of the Tristar L-1011 commercial airliner continues "to be crucial to the company's financial stability.

"Present indications are that Lockheed will, for some years to come, have to exercise considerable vigilance to control its economic health mainly because of its burdensome debt," the GAO auditors wrote.

Truck Ultimatum

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — The government of President Salvador Allende Tuesday gave striking truckers a tough ultimatum —end their 21-day walkout by midnight tonight or the armed forces will seize their idled vehicles.

The strike has virtually paralyzed parts of Chile's already precarious economy.

But even as the government delivered its ultimatum, the second in three days, leaders of Chile's 250,000 retailers and several medical associations said they would meet today to decide whether to join the walkout.

Political Torture

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — A young woman political activist was kidnaped and tortured over the weekend, police said Tuesday, and four other persons were abducted — bringing the number of kidnapings in Argentina this year to 115.

Police in the western province of Mendoza said Teresa Jesus Guardia, 23, a member of the left-leaning Peronist youth organization, was kidnaped Sunday night, beaten and tortured. Her wrists and ankles were bruised from being bound, they said.

There is rift between the leftist group and the more conservative, "orthodox Peronist" General Workers Confederation.

Auto Price Hike

TOKYO (UPI) — Toyota Motor Sales Co. said today that the price of Toyota cars exported to the United States will be increased by "about 5 per cent" next autumn.

Teen-agers Indicted For Texas Torture Slaughter

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Harris County grand jury Tuesday indicted Elmer Wayne Henley, 17, and David Owen Brooks, 18, for murder. The grand jury said the teen-agers took part in a three year sex and sadism spree that led to the nation's worst mass murder of the 20th Century.

BILLY RIDINGER
Hid under sack

Billy Ridinger, who filed to and from the grand jury room with a paper sack over his head, was the principal witness before the jury. Ridinger testified he barely escaped with his life from the torture chamber of Dean Allen Corll, 33.

Henley was indicted on three counts of murder, Brooks one. Each count carried a $100,000 bond attached to it.

Henley and Brooks have implicated themselves in at least 27 murders, making their homosexual-death ring the nation's worst mass murder since 1894, when Chicago police entered a burned out building, found the remains of 200 corpses in the basement and connected Herman Webster Mudgett to the deaths. Mudgett was executed on May 7, 1896.

The suspects, who freely told police the locations of three burial grounds in Texas where the 27 bodies were recovered, have quit talking. Attorney Percy Foreman, who has defended 1,200 cases and only lost one to the death penalty, said the boys demonstrated they did not understand their constitutional rights by showing police where the bodies were buried. Foreman has not been retained as counsel in the Henley-Brooks case.

Both Henley and Brooks have given police signed statements. They said they lured young boys with promises of sex, liquor and marijuana to the various homes of Corll who then sexually abused them, tortured them and killed them.

Henley has said he took part in the torture and slayings. Brooks said he helped bury the victims but never killed anyone.

Henley shot Corll a week ago today. According to Henley, he, Corll, Ridinger and a 15-year-old girl were at one of Corll's homes sniffing paint. He said they passed out and when they awoke their nude bodies were tied to Corll's torture board.

Corll, Henley said, was threatening to kill all of them, but Henley convinced Corll to set him free. He said he then shot Corll in self defense and called police, thus unraveling the bizarre tale that led to the uncovering of the 27 bodies.

It was later learned that the 15-year-old girl at Corll's home that night was Henley's fiance and that he and the girl were planning to leave Houston within the next few weeks.

Ridinger gave his version of what happened that night to the grand jury in secret testimony Tuesday. He went to and from the jury room with a paper sack covering his head and two holes cut out for him to see through.

A Middle Stand

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Caspar Weinberger, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, said Tuesday he is not discouraging efforts to promote him as a candidate for governor of California, but is not fostering them either.

CHINA

used as anaesthetic, he said.

The group saw a barefoot surgeon remove a thyroid tumor from a woman and repair an abdominal hernia on a young man, and Mailliard was convinced that acupuncture "is the way to go" after watching a patient get up and walk out of the room after the surgery.

The long isolation of China as well as the total regimentation were the most impressive characteristics of the country in Mailliard's view.

He said that when his group, flying in an American Air Force plane, landed at the Shanghai International Airport, "it was totally empty — no planes, no people, nothing," indicating the lack of traffic into and out of the country.

In Shanghai they picked up a Chinese flight crew (replacing the Americans who had worn civilian clothes for the flight into China.) The radio man seemed thoroughly briefed on the equipment in the American plane, Mailliard said, but the navigator "kept tapping the pilot on the shoulder, saying a little bit this way — a little bit that way, and we were afraid we'd land in Tokyo, not Peking."

In contrast to the poverty Mailliard remembered from his 1945 visit to China, he said he found people well-fed, fairly well clothed and with adequate housing, even though it was often crowded. "Many are also able to manage to own a sewing machine or a bicycle," he added.

"Total regimentation" has been the way the country has uplifted itself economically, though, and the congressman wondered if a younger generation, reared without hunger, will rebel at some point against the totalitarianism of their system.

He said people travel little because they work six days a week and get no vacations, nor do they have a choice of where they will work.

There are no bars in China, Mailliard said in answer to a question from the audience, and little entertainment. His group was served beer with meals on ordinary occasions but there was a quantity of wine and a drink described as "liquid fire" at banquets.

"Tea or orange soda pop" inevitably preceded official briefings at the various institutions visited by the delegation.

As for the future of China, Mailliard theorized that because most of China's leaders are "getting old," and there seems to be no plan for succession, "a potentially unstable" situation could occur.

Mailliard spoke at a luncheon gathering of the Larkspur and Corte Madera chambers of commerce at the Blue Rock Inn in Larkspur.

Phone Building Move Approved

The concept of a new 11,000-square-foot building to house the Mill Valley offices of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. was approved Tuesday by the Mill Valley Planning Commission.

According to Robert J. Hanna, associate planner, the building will be part of a new shopping center on East Blithedale Avenue in the Alto Bowl area where Alpha-Beta Markets and Thrifty Drugs are planning new stores. The site is now occupied an abandoned Purity market.

The commission also approved the precise plans for a 104-unit apartment on Shelter Ridge overlooking Highway 101. The developer, Securities of America Inc., had agreed to take the top floor off the three-story apartment buildings in order to reduce density in the project by about 50 units. The plans now go to the city council for its consideration.

Bordello Raid Charges Denied

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Two Marin residents pleaded innocent Tuesday in San Francisco Municipal Court to charges stemming from a July 31 raid on an alleged bordello in Pacific Heights.

Andrew J. Waite, 26, of Sausalito, and Patricia Hebert, 21, of San Rafael, entered the pleas before Judge Eugene F. Lynch. Jury trial for both is scheduled to begin Sept. 26.

Waite has been charged with being a visitor to a house of prostitution, and with being in a place where narcotics was dispensed.

Mrs. Hebert was charged with being an inmate in a house of prostitution, soliciting for purposes of prostitution, and possession of marijuana.

Nudity Case Conference Is Scheduled

A Marin Municipal Court judge will meet Aug. 29 with attorneys for eight persons charged with being nude on Marin beaches in an attempt to settle the cases before they go to court.

The eight pleaded innocent Tuesday to violating the county's antinudity law. If convicted they could be jailed for as long as six months and fined up to $500.

Judge Gary W. Thomas then set pretrial conferences, or plea bargaining sessions, with four attorneys representing the defendants.

On Monday Municipal Court Judge Robert A. Smallman rejected a move by the attorneys to dismiss the charges on the grounds they are unconstitutional, that the county antinudity ordinance is invalid since state law already forbids nudity and that the criminal complaints charging the eight are too vague.

Judge Smallman rejected the attorneys' arguments without comment.

The eight are Stephen Francis White, 22, and Susan Mehrings White, 23, both of Oakland, and Walter Voight, 33, of Strawberry, arrested July 21 on Muir Beach; Roland Jacopetti, 37, Elizabeth Kreusler Ehmann, 39, Nancy Joan Denmark, 26, and Theodore Harvey Saladin, 36, all of Bolinas, and Peter Holmes Davidson, 30, of Colorado, all arrested July 24 on Bolinas Beach.

Crash Victim Is On Critical List

A San Francisco woman was reported in critical condition today in the intensive care unit at Novato General Hospital with injuries suffered Tuesday in a single-car crash on North Novato Boulevard.

Mary Ellen Wilson, 22, suffered fractures of the spine, ribs and skull, according to a hospital spokesman, when she was thrown from an auto driven by Douglas C. Smith, 28, of San Francisco.

The California Highway Patrol said Wilson was northbound on the street about 4 p.m. when the vehicle veered into the opposite lane while rounding a curve.

Officers said Wilson lost control of the car while trying to return it to the proper lane and it went into a drainage ditch and rolled over. Smith, Miss Wilson and another passenger, Jeffrey Temme, 21, of San Francisco, were thrown from the car.

Smith was treated for bruises at the hospital.

Fourth Arrest In Novato Case

A fourth man wanted in connection with a drug raid Friday was arrested Tuesday night by Novato police.

Booked into Marin County Jail and held in lieu of $5,000 bail was Joseph Antone Homen Sr., 42, of 1500 South Novato Boulevard. He was arrested on suspicion of cultivating marijuana and on suspicion of possessing marijuana for sale, and is to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said Homen was not in the house Friday evening when officers raided the home, arresting three and confiscating more than 200 suspected pot plants.

When police returned Tuesday night, Homen was in the residence and willingly surrendered to officers.

Burglary Charge Trial Date Set

A San Rafael man will stand trial in Marin Superior Court on charges of burglary and possessing stolen property, Judge Gary W. Thomas of Marin Municipal Court ruled Tuesday.

Thomas held that there is enough evidence to try John David Anderson, 48, on the counts.

San Rafael Police said they saw Anderson unloading a television set, a stereo, tools and guns stolen Aug. 5 from the Thomas G. Torres apartment in San Rafael.

Jobs Available In Recreation Program

About 25 part-time positions are available in connection with San Rafael's fall recreation program, according to Ralph Dannenberg, assistant recreation supervisor.

Residents wishing to apply for the jobs may do so at the park and recreation office in city hall, he said.

BEDAYAN

March 16.

"I was concerned about maintaining a productive relationship with Brent, being able to help him," Gutstadt said. "So I decided to do nothing about his missing the Thursday appointment and wait until he came in of his own volition Friday."

He said disturbed persons cannot be picked up and forced back to the crisis center until they have been given a chance to come in voluntarily. "We have to give the patient what is essentially an RSVP invitation. Most people take off or just don't come in and then we call the sheriff.

"But the law says we have to give them the opportunity to come in voluntarily," Gutstadt said. "It doesn't make sense but that's what the law says."

The psychiatrist was in his office with a patient about 9 a.m. on March 16 when he received a call from Marcea Bedayan. "She told me that she'd heard a rumor that the Schallocks had been killed. 'I think it's Brent,' she said. 'What do you think we should do?' she asked me.

"I told her 'I think you're probably right and you should call the police.' " Gutstadt said.

The psychiatrist said he spent the next few hours in fear that Bedayan might next try to kill him or Mrs. Bedayan. "I was a bit uneasy. I was scared. One thinks of all kinds of possibilities. The members of my family were out and I didn't want them coming home to an empty house and being surprised."

Gutstadt said he next saw Bedayan after his arrest and that the young man had included the doctor in his delusions. "His first question to me was: 'Who do you want me to kill next?' He apparently thought he had been acting under my orders when he killed the Shallocks."

In answer to questions about Bedayan's state of mind at the time of the slayings, Gutstadt said that "all the evidence I have indicates he had again become quite ill and was reaching the point of acute paranoid insanity.

"The murders would never have taken place if he hadn't been pscyhotic. There would have been no reason for them. I think there is much that is psychotic in the act itself."

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales attempted to chip away at the psychiatrist's contention that Bedayan was legally insane and thus not responsibile when he shot the three.

"Wouldn't the elaborate plans (purchasing the gun, ammunition and gasoline at different places) leading up to the killings indicate he knew the law prohibited killing?" he asked.

"Not necessarily," Gutstadt replied, noting again that Bedayan was convinced that Daniel Schallock was causing him to experience exptreme pain in his genitals.

"He would have had to plan a defense against this 'persecution,' " the psychiatrist said. "If you feel your life is threatened, you do something about it."

Bales asked the psychiatrist if he had "a big machine" for measuring what is going on in an individual's mind and Gutstadt admitted he didn't.

The district attorney also contended that the psychiatrist had the power to have Bedayan picked up and returned to the crisis center the week of the killings and Gutstadt argued that he did not. "If I'd had my way, I would have gone out myself and picked up Brent that day (Thursday)," he said.

He said he believes his patient was legally insane when he killed the Schallocks. "I feel this psychological state interfered with his consideration of the consequences."

Accident Victim Off Critical List

A man injured Monday in an auto accident on Highway 101 south of Tiburon has been removed from the critical list but is in serious condition, a spokesman for Marin General Hospital reported today.

Douglas Boles, address unknown, was walking across the freeway when he was struck by a car driven by Larry E. Gilman of San Francisco.

According to the California Highway Patrol, a friend of Boles told officers that the victim had been drinking before the accident.

10 Downing Street Gone, Temporarily

LONDON (UPI) — Puzzled tourists wandered up and down Downing Street Tuesday looking in vain for number 10, the home of the British prime minister.

Officials explained. The door, which has nothing else to distinguish it from other houses on the street, is being painted, and the number has been removed temporarily.

Patrolmen Save Woman On Bridge

A San Francisco woman made an unsuccessful attempt to jump from the Golden Gate Bridge today.

California highway patrolman Ralph Pierotti, on his first night on patrol in Marin, and Patrolman Walt Williams were on the span at 2:30 a.m. Witnesses told them a woman had just run to the railing and jumped.

Pierotti and Williams went to the railing and saw a woman prone on the girder 10 feet below. Since she appeared to be awake and moving around, Pierotti climbed over the railing and down onto the girder to prevent her from jumping or falling the remaining 220 feet to the water.

Williams joined Pierotti and the woman on the girder and all three were hoisted up the bridge in safety harnesses provided by the bridge tow truck.

The woman, Elizabeth Ann Paro, 30, was taken by ambulance to a San Francisco hospital according to the highway patrol after the rescue. A hospital spokesman said there was no record of her admittance.

Sex Attack On Teen-Age Boy

A 17-year-old San Rafael youth was overpowered and sexually assaulted in Gerstle Park in San Rafael, police reported today.

The youth was walking through the park at 9:50 p.m. Saturday when a man grabbed him and dragged him into the bushes, police reported. The boy screamed and fought back, but the man choked him unconscious and subjected him to homosexual rape.

The man was described as a Caucasian in his early 20s, six feet, one inch tall, weighing about 150 pounds with blonde medium length curly hair, sideburns and mustache, fair complexion and wearing a long sleeved blue pullover sweater. He then left the park in a station wagon, possibly a 1970-71 Chevrolet, according to police reports.

Elective Smog Panel Opposed

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Both of Marin's state legislators oppose any bill which would add directly elected members to the board of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley and Sen. Peter H. Behr, both R-San Rafael, told the Independent-Journal Tuesday they will vote against two such bills pending in each house.

Bagley and Behr siad direct elections to such a large special district could permit industry and other special interests to dominate the board because they could afford the expensive elections.

Waterfront Ordinance Bogs Down

The Sausalito City Council, struggling with a new zoning ordinance proposed for the central waterfront, stalled Tuesday night on how to limit the size and number of houseboats, rejected a bid by one councilman to dump the proposal altogether and set yet another meeting to polish the waterfront plan.

In a four-hour session characterized by marked disagreement, councilmen did agree that principal uses for the area should include boat harbors for pleasure and commercial craft excluding floating homes, boat rentals and sales, and piles, floats and dolphins for the mooring of small craft. They requested, however, that staff provide them with a clear definition of "small craft."

They also agreed that marine fuel service facilities should be considered a conditional use.

This portion of the proposal concerns outboard uses, defined by Planning Director Herb Case as applying to lands on the bayside of a line that runs roughly along Humboldt Street, dropping to Donahue Street between Johnson and Pine streets and again between Turney and Litho streets.

They set what they said would be the final session on the ordinance for 7 p.m. Monday in city offices.

A major clash during the meeting came over the issue of controlling the size and number of houseboats allowed on the waterfront.

The ordinance as proposed would restrict houseboat floor area to 1,200 square feet and height to 16 feet from water level. It would limit the number of houseboats to five per cent of the berths in a marina or to a total of 35,000 square feet, whichever is greater. To protect bay view, houseboats would have to be separated by an average of about four berths.

Councilman Stephen A. Fraser's suggestion to drop restrictions from the ordinance, leaving any limits on houseboats up to the community appearances advisory board and the planning commission as a requirement for conditional use permits, was rebuffed by Mayor Robin Sweeny.

She said it was up to the council to set guidelines, and not to do so would be to open the waterfront to increasing numbers of people seeking cheap floating homes.

A motion by Fraser to hike the maximum number of houseboats allowed per marina to 10 per cent died for lack of a second.

Apparently frustrated by the council's lack of progress and disturbed that the ordinance would not coordinate development plans for the entire waterfront, Councilman Evert H. Heynneman moved that the proposal be abandoned.

Instead, he suggested a joint effort by waterfront developers, city staff and the council to work out an overall plan that would encompass the entire waterfront area, from Spinnaker Drive to the northern area of the Schoonmaker lands.

"This ordinance has been hanging up for six years," Fraser told Heynneman. "Your proposal would delay everything until kingdom come." The remaining three members of the council supported Fraser's position.

Angered that the council was to continue consideration of the proposal, property owner Sam Zakessian, who has vigorously opposed the ordinance as "unworkable and unjust," announced that he was selling his land tomorrow and stormed from council chambers.

Councilmen also stumbled over whether to allow docks and landings as a conditional use. They asked city staff for a clear definition of what constituted a dock, as opposed to a pier or float. They also asked staff for a recommendation on a proposal by Steve Siskind, representing the Schoonmaker Co., that boat construction and repair facilities be included as a principal use.

In other business, councilmen appointed Terry Iyama, Mary Ann Sears and Dr. Jules Weiss to the city's tree committee. Preceding the public meeting, councilmen met in closed session to discuss a suit against the city over a previous council action.

Killer Describes Telepathic Urge

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) — Herbert V. Mullin, who has admitted killing 13 persons, testified at his trial Tuesday he received a "telepathic message" in a Catholic church, walked to a confessional and stabbed a priest to death.

The 26-year-old defendant also told the jury he dissected one victim, Mary Guilfoyle, 24, and "inspected her liver, kidneys, lungs and heart."

In another killing, Mullin testified he riddled four boys camping in a state park with bullets after he told them telepathically, "If I don't kill you, four other guys will have to die."

The four victims responded telepathically, Mullin continued in a clear voice, telling him: "Go ahead and kill us, man, go right ahead. Please don't back out of it—don't get scared, man —we're not scared."

Fiesta Events Set For Adobe

Vallejo's Old Adobe at Petaluma will spring to life Sunday for the 12th annual fiesta featuring craftsmen demonstrating the skills of early pioneers.

Gen. Mariano G. Vallejo's ranch headquarters, now a state park, was built in the 1830's and is a national historic site.

Demonstrations of rustic skills will begin at 11 a.m. and will include hand-dipping candles, leather work, bread baking in outdoor ovens, brick making, blacksmithing, horseshoeing, weaving, carpentry with 19th century tools, wool dying, looms and spinning wheels.

As in past years, Pomo Indians will be on hand for a dancing demonstration at 3 p.m. and a basketmaking presentation.

A horseshoe tournament for both men and women will get underway at 10 a.m. along with games for children. A deep-pit beef barbecue luncheon, sponsored by the Nicasio Parlor of Native Sons of The Golden West, will open at noon.

The Candido Morales Band of Healdsburg will play authentic Mexican music throughout the day. The Petaluma senior riders club will operate pony rides for youngsters along with hay wagon rides.

The traditional "whiskerino" contest will begin at 3 p.m. with awards for full beards, moustaches, goatees and sideburns. Judges will be Petaluma Mayor Helen Putnam; Peggy Borges, district dairy princess; and Hannele Damon, Miss Sonoma-Marin.

The massive two-story adobe will be open as usual for tours along with special exhibits.

Winning entries from the Old Adobe fiesta association art and photography contest will be on display.

No charge will be made for fiesta activities or parking.

Year In Jail On Worthless Checks

A man, who admitted passing worthless checks, has been sentenced to one year in jail and placed on probation for two years by Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court.

Ronald Wold, 33, of no fixed address, was sentenced Monday.

He pleaded guilty July 9 to cashing a check for $480 on the account of Jean Goni of San Rafael. The check had been stolen from Goni's apartment.

Wold also admitted writing checks totaling $90 on his own account, which had been closed. That offense was a misdemeanor.

Best ordered Wold to pay back the $90 to the Pier 15 restaurant, where he had cashed the checks, and to reimburse Crocker Bank for the $480 check he cashed.

Wold's probation report says he "attributes all his criminal misconduct to his heavy drinking" and concedes he has a "severe problem with alcohol."

"He lives primarily in a world of fantasy," the report says.

Swim Class Set In Terra Linda

Registration for tiny tot swimming lessons at the Terra Linda Recreation Center will be held at the center from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 27, according to the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department.

Eight 30-minute lessons for children aged three through five will begin Sept. 4 and end Sept. 14, a department spokesman said.

More information on the program, as well as lessons for older youngsters and intermediate swimmers, is available at the recreation center or city hall, said Andrew J. Snyder, parks and recreation director.

Reading Test Set

A diagnostic reading test for prospective students will be given Aug. 29 at 7 p.m. in Baker Hall at Santa Rosa Junior College. The test replaces the ACT and SAT entrance examinations and is a prerequesite for many courses offered at the college. The test will take one hour to complete.

Discussion Set On Airport Conversion

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — Conversion of Hamilton Air Force Base to a major commercial airport, proposed last month by state consultants, will be debated Thursday by the Association of Bay Area Governments.

The association's executive committee will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Hotel Claremont. The proposal by consultants to the State Aviation Board will be detailed by the board's planner, Spyridon N. Sideris.

An ABAG spokesman said the report on the proposed master plan to expand California aviation probably would come up by 8:30 p.m. The agenda also includes a proposed resolution calling for limited population growth.

The aviation plan envisioned at least 235 airliners a day serving Hamilton, with a total of 3,300 landings and takeoffs a week. This would be equal to more than half of all the air traffic now at San Francisco International Airport.

Passengers would total 9.5 million a year, compared to about one million suggested in ABAG's own regional airport plan.

Novato Council To Eye Trend Away From One-Family Building

With construction in Novato shifting from single-family detached homes to townhouses and apartments, the Novato City Council agreed last night to set a public hearing on "attached versus detached" dwelling units.

Mayor Fred F. Ruegg said he was concerned about the planning staff "pushing" developers in the direction of attached dwellings rather than single family detached homes.

Then, when such plans reach the council and the developer has gone to expense to prepare them, "I don't have the gall to say go back."

Ruegg said residents have moved to Novato to live in a community of single-family homes.

Planning director Brian W. Mattson said city policy is to have a mixture of housing types and single-family detached homes "have a place in proper locations."

Councilman Dorothy P. Young said, "I think we have sufficient townhouse units and I think we should encourage more single family detached homes."

No date was set for the hearing.

The Novato City Council also:

FLOOD ZONE — Introduced an ordinance to extend the moratorium on construction in the flood plain area west of Highway 101 from Scottsdale to Nave Gardens, around Yukon Way and Warner Creek for 180 days.

ZONING — Introduced an ordinance setting six feet as the minimum distance between single family detached homes.

HIGHWAY MEETING — Reported the city planning commission will meet with staff Highway Division representatives at 8 p.m. Sept. 27 at the Novato Community House to discuss highway noise and scenic highways.

LEAVE — Granted City Mgr. Charles A. Brown a one-week leave next week, as a vacation.

BUILDING INSPECTOR — Approved hiring a full-time building inspector for fiscal 1973-74 at a cost of $10,855.

LYNWOOD PARK — Authorized the parks and recreation commission to interview a landscape architect to provide preliminary plans and cost estimates to develop Lynwood Hill park.

REGIONAL PLANNING — Supported a bill by Assemblyman John Knox to establish a Bay Area regional planning agency, with provision that the agency board have both appointed and directly elected members.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 8 p.m. today at the Novato Community House for a joint meeting with the Marin County Aviation Commission on land use at Gnoss Field, and to complete items not completed on last night's agenda.

Councilman David Price Jones was absent.

Odds Are Set On Nixon's Future

LONDON (UPI) — President Nixon has been given 3-to-1 odds of surviving the Watergate scandal and staying in office by the British bookmaking firm of Ladbrokes and Co., Ltd.

Ladbrokes also offered odds today of 2 to 1 against Nixon's removal from office or resignation before his term ends.

This means persons betting that Nixon will remain in office have to put up $3 to win $1, and persons betting the President will either resign or be removed from office could win $2 for every $1 they wager with Ladbrokes.

"We think that impeachment of an American president would cause such an upheaval that it is very improbable," a Ladbrokes spokesman said Tuesday.

Novato Growth Ordinance Urged

Novato City Council, at the urging of residents, agreed Tuesday night to prepare a growth control ordinance limiting residential development to 500 units a year.

During a two-hour public hearing, about 10 speakers representing various groups, pressed the council to put the growth limit policy, adopted two months ago, into effect as soon as possible.

The council voted 3-1 to secure such an ordinance and said it will meet with the city planning commission on how to proceed. Councilman David Price Jones was absent.

Mayor Fred F. Ruegg, foreseeing legal problems, dissented, saying City Atty. Clark M. Palmer should tackle the matter rather than the city planning staff.

Ruegg referred to Petaluma's court battle over its growth limit, and said, "I'd like to see Clark Palmer take a whack at drafting an ordinance."

Councilman George C. Quesada said, "It's going to be challenged no matter how you write it. We should get something on the books ... at least it's a positive step."

Speakers stressed that growth control is the key to the future of the community, a necessity in view of the water supply problems and a commitment made by the council.

Calling for an ordinance were Virgil M. Birdsall, chairman of the North Marin unit of the Marin Conservation League; Robert Burke, a director of the San Marin Improvement Association; John Richardson, vice president of the Forest Park Homeowners Association, and several residents.

Other organizations seeking an ordinance included the North Marin Federation of Homeowners, Bel Marin Keys Community Services District, Lynwood Park Improvement Association, South Novato Homeowners Association and the League of Women Voters of Central Marin.

Planning Director Brian W. Mattson, reporting on expected growth in the next few years, said 1,382 dwelling units are under construction and another 1,391 have been approved and have been assured water.

"We're stuck with almost the equivalent of about six years of development, and won't realize this 500 limit instantaneously," he said.

Approval has been granted but water agreement not perfected for 107 units, Mattson said. Master plan approval has been granted for 1,019 units and master plans filed on another 1,544 units, but water availability for those is in question, he said.

The ad hoc committee on growth control recommended hiring a consultant to draft the growth control ordinance, because of the heavy workload on the city planning staff.

Mattson said unless the staff were relieved of some work, it would be a long process.

Councilmen said all choices would be considered at the joint meeting with the planning commission.

Check Spree Nets Three Month Term

A Richmond man has been handed a three-month jail term. Michael Joseph Mayfield, 25, is the third person to be sentenced for cashing eight checks totaling $675 on the account of a San Rafael woman.

Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court on Monday also told Mayfield to pay $50 to Anne Montbriand of San Rafael, on whose account the checks were passed.

Two other men, Dennis Alvin Johnson, 34, of San Rafael, and Nelson Cloude Thomas, 26, have been given six-month jail terms for their parts in the check cashing spree.

Mayfield's probation report lists a long criminal record for theft, auto theft, armed robbery, assault, burglary and drug possession.

The report concludes that Mayfield "finds indolence and criminal misconduct the lines of least resistence." He seems "unimpressed by various sanctions imposed on him in the past," according to the report.

Agnew Files Offered To U.S. Prober

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has offered to turn over all his financial records and meet personally with federal prosecutors looking into allegations that he accepted kickbacks from government contractors.

His position, in marked contrast to President Nixon's refusal to turn over presidential documents to Watergate investigators, was outlined in a letter Tuesday to U.S. Attorney George Beall in Baltimore.

Beall had informed Agnew Aug. 1 that he was under investigation for possible tax fraud, extortion, bribery and conspiracy violations during the period before he became vice president and asked that financial papers dating back to Jan. 1, 1967 be made available to investigators.

"I am prepared to do so immediately," said Agnew. A week ago he told a news conference that the allegations were "damned lies."

The Washington Post, quoting informed sources, said today prosecutors in Baltimore have been told by several Maryland engineering contractors that they made regular cash payments personally to Agnew in return for choice state contracts while Agnew was Maryland's governor.

The newspaper also said it had been told that since Agnew became vice president some funds collected from businessmen ostensibly as campaign donations had been used to influence the awarding of federal contracts.

Agnew flies to Colorado today for two public appearances—to help dedicate a dam near Littleton and address a union meeting in Denver.

Aides to Agnew said he had informed the President of his plans to fully cooperate with the investigation before making his letter public.

In the White House, meantime, spokesman Gerald L. Warren said suggestions that President Nixon opposed Agnew's decision to turn over his records because of the unfavorable comparison with his own actions were "totally wrong."

Warren said Nixon was "disturbed" by news stories suggesting he had lost confidence in his vice president.

He said the fact of the investigation had done nothing to change the President's confidence in Agnew. He branded as "totally untrue" published reports that White House aides already were preparing a contingency list of possible successors if Agnew resigns.

Amendment of the Constitution provides that if the vice president leaves office for any reason the President may appoint a successor subject to confirmation by a simple majority of the Congress.

Farm Czar Hikes Federal Milk Bill

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz announced an increase in price of milk for the rest of the year and repeated his stand that the freeze on beef prices should be lifted immediately.

Butz made the announcement of the milk hike here Tuesday at a news conference. The text of the order was made available in Washington, D. C.

Price supports for milk will be increased by 32 cents per hundredweight for the remainder of the marketing year which ends March 31, 1974.

The increase is effective immediately and goes from $5.29 to $5.61 per hundredweight. The previous support level was announced March 8.

Butz said in order to carry out the increases, buying prices of the Commodity Credit Corp., will be raised 3 cents for cheese and 3.9 cents a pound for nonfat dry milk. Butter buying prices will remain unchanged.

The increase is in accordance with the Agriculture and Consumers Protection Act of 1973 which President Nixon signed into law Aug. 10. The act requires that the support price for manufacturing milk be increased to 80 per cent of parity, effective the day of enactment and for the remainder of the 1973-74 marketing period.

Chrysler Rebellion Broken Up By Police

DETROIT (UPI) — Police entered a key Chrysler Corp. plant early today, arrested two dissident workers who sparked a rebellion that halted production for more than 30 hours and brought to an end the third such plant seizure in recent weeks.

Production at the Mack Avenue Stamping Plant, where 4,800 workers manufacture body parts, did not resume immediately because the arrests came between shifts.

The takeover started at 5 a.m. Tuesday when about 200 men refused to work in one section of the sprawling plant and blocked production elsewhere.

By the time police entered the plant today, the number of dissidents had dwindled to 30.

Among them, police said, were William Gilbreath, 25, and another man accused of attacking two plant officials with a metal pipe. That incident touched off the revolt.

Police entered the main gate, parked a patrol wagon at one entrance to the plant and removed the remaining dissidents.

The demands ranged from amnesty for the dissidents to improved working conditions.

The police moved in after hours of negotiations during the night by Douglas Fraser, a United Auto Workers vice president who earlier told the company not to bow to the dissident demands, and the rebellious workers.

UAW leaders had accused "radicals and extremists" of seizing the plant.

Workers inside had said they would not leave until a list of 11 demands were guaranteed by Chrysler.

Working Birthday

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Anne celebrated her 23rd birthday today by competing in one of the events that will determine whether she wins a place on the British team for the three-day European Equestrian Championships at Kiev in September.

Sect's Home Set Ablaze; 30 Rescued

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A three-alarm fire started by an arsonist today at the sister house of a religious order sent 30 residents, mostly women, fleeing and caused $75,000 damage to the Victorian structure.

A six-year-old child was hospitalized in critical condition because of burns, and a 7-year-old girl was listed in serious condition. Twenty-one adults were treated for smoke inhalation and minor burns and released.

The blaze broke out shortly before 5 a.m., a time when some novices were preparing for communion.

The fire department snatched 10 persons to safety with an aerial ladder. Deputy Chief Joseph Daly credited his men, who also removed several persons still inside including the chidren, with saving several lives.

The fire occurred in a sister house of the Holy Order of Mans, a group which in a decade has developed about 70 stations across the nation and a black-garbed membership of nearly 1,000.

The order is non-denominational Christian, models its discipline after St. Paul, and is attractive mostly to young people.

Larger pieces of frying chicken can be partially cooked by parboiling before frying. It's a way to keep chicken tender inside and crisp outside. Let pieces cool before you dip in egg and cracker crumbs to fry. Straining beaten egg before dipping helps the crust adhere better during cooking.

Supervisors Say No To Road Policy

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Tuesday unanimously refused to reopen the controversy over a proposed connector road between White's Hill west of Fairfax, and Upper Lucas Valley.

Instead, supervisors told San Anselmo and Fairfax that the two cities should adopt their own general plans before the county will act on a potential traffic problem in the Upper Ross Valley.

The board stand was in response to a letter written Aug. 1 by the San Anselmo City Council, asking the county to modify the Countywide General Plan development predictions for the area just west of San Anselmo and Fairfax.

City officials argued that unless the population in the unincorporated area is held down, city streets will become glutted because the controversial connector was deleted from the transportation element of the countywide plan in June.

County Planning Director Werner von Gundell advised supervisors that the development revision could be delayed "a year or two" without creating any "serious" problems for San Anselmo. He recommended no action until the cities complete their own general plans.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

FAIRGROUNDS — Authorized spending up to $950 for soil tests as part of the study of the feasibility of building a swimming pool on the county fairgrounds rather than at the North Bay Front Park.

HAYFIELDS — Granted the appeal of the owners of the 574-acre Abbot ranch north of Bel Marin Keys, against the requirement for an environmental impact report to maintain and reraise sinking levees to protect the field against flooding. The work had been halted, pending the report.

MILL VALLEY — Accepted reports from the Army Corps of Engineers and county public works officials that stream flow through Mill Valley is too small to make Army flood control structural projects feasible.

PARKING — Granted members of the Marin County Bar Association request for special permits to allow courtroom lawyers to park for brief overtime periods in 15-minute zones at the civic center, while making routine court appearances.

NOVATO FLOOD BOND — Approved plans to hold a $4.5 million flood control bond election Nov. 6 in the Novato Flood Zone. Board Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste said a Novato town meeting would be held next month to publicize the issue.

AUDITORIUM — Agreed to Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere's proposal that he meet with Marin nonprofit groups that rent the Veterans Memorial Building, to see if a parking fee system can be worked out to offset the high rentals for the building.

PLANNING — Accepted Von Gundell's recommendations that in-house planning staff be used to provide environmental impact reports on most development applications; accepted reports from Von Gundell and the planning commission's budget and work program committee on manpower use for 1973-74, in light of budget reduction of the planning staff by 300 man-hours for the year.

DRUG ABUSE — Approved an $18,000, one-year contract with Andrew Mecca to head the Treatment Alternative to Street Crime program, federally funded drug abuse program, a $10,870 contract with Naomi Weinstein and a $10,565 contract with Shirley Marsters as project directors.

SLIDE — Awarded a contract to repair a slide on the Fairfax-Bolinas Road to Bresnan-Dalecio Inc. of San Rafael, low among four bidders at $36,714.34. Engineer's estimates were $47,700 for the job.

PATHS — Approved a policy proposed by Supervisor Michael Wornum that whenever the county acquires flood control easements, recreational rights such as bicycle or hiking paths also be obtained if possible.

Frostbite Found In A Heat Wave

LONDON (UPI) — Doctors were astounded.

There, among patients suffering blistered skin and sunburn in a Tuesday heatwave in Britain, was a frostbitten toe.

"The doctor I saw could hardly believe it," said Alan Hirst, owner of the toe.

He said he was marooned for fourteen hours while climbing Mont Blanc in France but didn't seek medical attention until he returned to London.

A hospital spokesman said, "It's the last thing you'd expect. But I'm sure Alan doesn't think it's funny. Frostbite can be painful."

Israeli Warplanes Cause Sonic Booms

BEIRUT (UPI) — Israeli warplanes flew over the south Lebanon city of Sidon and other residential areas today, causing at least nine sonic booms, witnesses said.

The Israeli aircraft overflew in patrols of two or four, the witnesses said. The aerial passes took place over a period of one hour.

Land Preservation Plea Is Victorious

A special county service area was formed Tuesday to prevent development of marshlands near the Marin Catholic High School that neighbors want preserved as open space.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors unanimously approved formation of County Service Area No. 17, and began the formalities needed to hold a special election Nov. 6 to finance buying the land through an $850,000 bond issue and a tax rate of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Citizens of the Hillview Gardens area of Larkspur and the Kentfield School District area had successfully petitioned the City of Larkspur and the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission for approval of the county service area. The citizens want public ownership of 27.5 acres of land belonging to the Archdiocese of San Francisco, site of a proposed housing development.

Neil M. Park, chairman of the Committee for a Creekside Park, urged the supervisors to approve the service area. Proposals are to return 17 acres alongside Corte Madera Creek to marsh open space, and improve another 10 acres as "an unstructured park-play area with minimum improvements."

The supervisors set Sept. 18 for a hearing on the area to be benefitted by the proposed bond issue and tax rate.

Many Species

There are from 60,000 to 80,000 species of flies in the world.

Planners Backed On Subdivision Position

Marin County supervisors Tuesday upheld the planning commission denial of a 31-home, small ranch subdivision on a 350-acre farm just east of the cheese factory in West Marin.

Developer Worth Bayles unsuccessfully appealed the planning commission denial of his tentative map for the Council Oaks Farms project.

The supervisors' 4-1 vote was considered by the supervisors themselves the first real test of whether Marin County would stick to the open space and agriculture preserve concept established by the Countywide General Plan for the central corridor and West Marin. Conservation spokesmen and West Marin dairy farmers joined in opposing the Council Oaks plan, on grounds the 350-acre ranch, if subdivided into 10-acre homesites, would boost the rural area's population by "more than 300 per cent."

All the surrounding land is zoned for one dwelling per 60 acres. The Council Oaks property is a former dairy farm that was left in 10-acre zoning because the owner already had begun plans for its development at the time of the sweeping rezoning of rural West Marin last year.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere cast the lone vote backing the developer, calling the denial "flip-flop decision making." He accused the county of bad faith, leaving the land in A-10 zoning but barring the owner from developing it. Attorney Albert Bianchi, representing the owner, stressed that "we are not asking a rezoning . . . the applicant has abided by all the rules."

John Kelley, president of the Nicasio Landowners Association, typified opposition voiced during the two-hour hearing. He said his fellow landowners for years expected that they would subdivide and sell their land when development reached the central corridor. "But now we're keeping our ranches going. The countywide plan is our greatest hope" of an agricultural future for the area, he said.

Ranchers Earl Dolcini and Peter Dolcini as well as spokesmen for the Environmental Action Committee of Marin and Marin Conservation League also opposed the development.

After denying the appeal, the supervisors ordered the planning staff to prepare to rezone the acreage to A-60.

Board Wants Assurances Of Intertie Go-Ahead

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Tuesday officially asked the Marin Municipal Water District not to delay building the proposed intertie pipeline between Central Marin and the North Marin County Water District.

The request was part of a four-part board stand hammered out after two hours of debate. A series of letters written by supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and Robert A. Roumiguiere, critical of water district delay on the intertie, sparked the action.

The water district directors' reaction is expected to be heard at their meeting at 7:30 p.m. today in the district office in Corte Madera, when they will discuss the intertie, its environmental impact, a proposed bond issue for long-range water supplies to Central and Southern Marin and other issues.

"I can't speak for the (water district) board," district director Jack R. Felton warned the supervisors during the debate. "I'd not say there are any assurances" the district would agree to the supervisors request to press ahead with the intertie, and not tie it into an overall bond issue.

District voters in 1970 approved a bond issue for the intertie, but later turned down a larger issue designed to supply Russian River water to the district through a Sonoma-Marin aqueduct.

Urged by Roumiguiere and Arrigoni, supervisors asked the water district to stage its plans for future water supply so as not to throw the Countywide General Plan's growth rate goal out of kilter nor exceed the supply needed for the envisioned 1990 population. Supervisors also asked the district promptly to consider the recently completed environmental impact report on the intertie, and if the report is favorable, to build it soon to alleviate the threat of rationing existing users.

Felton reported that the water district board voted Jan. 12 to postpone the intertie because it is only the first stage of long-range plans, can be built any time to avert dry-year shortages and was being redesigned to geatly increase its capacity.

Arrigoni, who had urged the increase, said he was unaware of the district actions, despite participating in a series of supervisors' workshops with district officials. He said that the critical letters he and Roumiguiere wrote seemed to have produced "more answers" in recent days than all the months of discussion.

Compromise On Airport Road

Marin County supervisors said they want a full freeway interchange in the neighborhood of Marin County Airport — but will settle for a new access road to the airport, providing the state gives "high priority" to the future interchange.

In return, the supervisors Tuesday authorized closing the present Airport Road intersection at Highway 101 and signed a freeway agreement with the state for the stretch north of Atherton Avenue in Novato. The Airport Road closing was opposed by aircraft firms at the airport and by owners of adjoining land.

Attorney Joseph Forest, representing the landowners, said his clients would refuse to dedicate property to the access road, being designed to run parallel to Highway 101 to Atherton Avenue, unless a northerly interchange is built. Attorney Albert Bianchi, representing other landowners both east and west of Highway 101, said his clients don't want Airport Road closed until the access road is completed, and they oppose crossing the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks with the access road.

Ray W. Foreaker Jr., county public works director, said his office hopes to avoid crossing the tracks, but is faced with a flood plain problem that may not be soluble without angling the road across the tracks.

Novato Mayor Fred F. Ruegg, Supervisor Anold M. Baptiste and others said the existing interchange is a deathtrap because it slopes steeply from the railroad to the freeway. There probably isn't enough room to build deceleration and acceleration lanes from northbound 101 to the Airport Road, Baptiste said.

In any event, airport-bound drivers from Petaluma, and anyone leaving the airport for destinations north of Novato will have to drive to Atherton Avenue and take the future access road, because the median will be closed when the Novato Bypass is completed, speakers said.

Ruegg warned this could increase the number of hazardous left and U-turns at the opening in the median strip opposite the Redwood dump further north.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. moved that the board approve the freeway agreement requested by the state only if the Division of Highways gave top priority to a future interchange in the airport area.

Supervisor Michael Wornum, however, objected that other Marin freeway work previously assigned higher priority would suffer — including widening 101 from Greenbrae southward to serve "millions of commuters."

He was mollified when Arrigoni modified his motion to call only for making the North Marin interchange the highest priority of any future freeway interchange in Marin, but not necessarily as the most urgent of all freeway projects.

Senator To Ask High Ranks Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., said today the military is so topheavy with high-ranking officers that its grade structure is shaped like a balloon rather than a pyramid.

He said that when Congress reconvenes in September he will ask to cut back those positions, and at the same time save taxpayers more than $2 billion.

Mondale listed these points to back up his argument:

There are more three and four-star generals and admirals in uniform today than in World War II when the military was four times as large.

The Army, which 25 years ago had 7 recruits for each sergeant, now has more sergeants than recruits.

All advertised meat items are offered for sale subject to availability from our suppliers. Advertised beef prices are effective only if the beef price ceilings remain in effect. Should the beef ceilings be removed, we may be forced to change retail prices in line with changes in wholesale costs during the period that this ad is effective.

Again last week, we compared food prices with the major supermarkets in this area.

"Specials", "total discount", and most other kinds of prices were compared. In this survey of August 3 to 4, Mayfair's overall food prices were lower than eight other top supermarket chains'.

To try to be fair, the comparisons were again with Uncle Sam's list, the same full list of items that the U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, uses every month to measure food prices as part of the cost of living.

These comparisons show you could have saved from $.09 to $6.26 on the some $60 worth of basic foods in this list.

With the high cost of living these days, really, can you afford not to buy your food at Mayfair?

LOTS OF PROTEIN

A Cook Book On Sproutings

KAREN CROSS Whyte displays sprouts growing in jars and shallow containers. The sprouts add nutritive values and flavor to bread, casseroles and other dishes, the Mill Valley woman explained. She has written "The Complete Sprouting Cook Book."

By BETTY FROST

When Karen Cross Whyte of Mill Valley began research for "The Complete Sprouting Cook Book" two years ago, she had no idea that its publication would coincide with the current meat shortage.

A vegetarian herself, Mrs. Whyte experimented with sprouting seeds to add more protein to her diet. The slim woman maintains that she has always had a weight problem, and that the sprouts, while high in protein, minerals and vitamins, are low in calories.

In these times when meat, seafood, and poultry are expensive and in short supply, Mrs. Whyte observes, "Grains, seeds, and nuts contain from seven to 40 per cent protein, while meat averages about 25 per cent protein content. Germination of the seeds increases their water content. Foods high in water content are more easily broken down and assimilated by the body."

The Mill Valley woman's book is a "how-to-do-it" book, and takes the reader through practical steps from where to buy seeds, to best methods of storing them, and methods of sprouting. Twenty-four categories of edible seeds suitable for sprouting are arranged in alphabetical order from Adzuki beans to wheat.

THE SECOND half of the book is devoted to recipes, all of which offer ways to include the sprouts in finished dishes for breakfast, casserole meals, salads, desserts and breads.

"These recipes are just to get people started," the author emphasized, "then I hope that they will go on to experiment for themselves."

"Seeds, too, have gone up in price," Mrs. Whyte said. "A few months ago, alfalfa seeds cost me $1.30 a pound. Now they can be purchased for $1.60 per pound. Still, they are economical, since a pound of alfalfa seed sprouts will fill a 10-gallon container. Alfalfa sprouts are rich in vitamins and minerals and the seeds contain 35 per cent protein."

Learning about sprouting could be useful to young families and older people, the writer suggested. Since results are seen so quickly with harvesting of the tiny crops in two to five days, and very little space is required for storing the jars and shallow containers in which the seeds are germinated, sprouting can become both an interesting and useful hobby.

MRS. WHYTE did much of her research at the Marin County Civic Center Library and at the University of California at Berkeley. Using the kitchen of her home as a laboratory, she cultivated the sprouts and tested recipes for many months.

She is the wife of Malcolm K. Whyte, a publisher. They have three children, Malcolm, 13; Kirsty, 12, and Andrew, 7.

The inspiration for one of her earlier cook books, "Fat Cat's Cook Book," a children's cook book and coloring book, was a cooking course one of the children had taken. "Each day they learned to make a different kind of cookie," the mother explained, "I thought children should have some alternatives." She devised a book of simple, nutritious recipes.

She has also published "The Complete Yogurt Cook Book" and "The Fat Cat's Craft Book" for children. The sprouting compendium was illustrated by Richard Stortroen of Mill Valley.

A native of Arizona, Mrs. Whyte attended the University of Oregon at Eugene and San Diego College for Women. The Whytes have lived in Mill Valley for 13 years.

Some of her suggestions:

VEGETABLE CHEESE CASSEROLE

1½ cups pea sprouts
1 onion finely chopped
1½ cups mung bean sprouts
¼ cup finely chopped pimento
¼ cup grated carrot
2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
1 cup white sauce (medium thick)
1 cup grated cheese
¼ cup dry bread crumbs

Blend all ingredients except bread crumbs. Pour into a casserole. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and dot with butter. Bake in 325-degree oven for 35 to 45 minutes. Serves four.

BREAD STICKS

1 tablespoon dry yeast
¾ cup warm water
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon honey
1 cup rye or wheat sprouts, ground
2 cups wheat flour
¼ cup margarine
1 egg
1 tablespoon water
Sesame, poppy or chia seeds

Dissolve yeast in a bowl of warm water. Add honey, sprouts, 1 cup flour and margarine. Beat until smooth. Mix in the rest of the flour. Knead on floured board until smooth, about eight minutes. Place in large greased bowl. Cover with wax paper and a clean towel. Let rise in a warm place (80 to 85 degrees) for one hour or until double in bulk. Punch down and cut dough into 28 pieces; roll each into a stick eight inches long.

Place on a greased cookie sheet one inch apart. Beat egg with one tablespoon of water. Brush sticks with egg mixture and sprinkle with seeds. Bake 18 minutes or until golden brown in preheated 375-degree oven.

CRISPY CRUNCHY SALAD

2 large tomatoes
1 cup alfalfa sprouts
1 cup wheat sprouts
1 cup mung bean sprouts
1 cup sunflower seed sprouts
3 tablespoons oil, olive or sesame
2 tablespoons lemon juice or vinegar
Salt and pepper to taste

Mix tomatoes and sprouts in a large bowl. Pour over oil and toss until sprouts are evenly coated. Add lemon juice and seasonings. Toss lightly and serve immediately. Serves four to six.

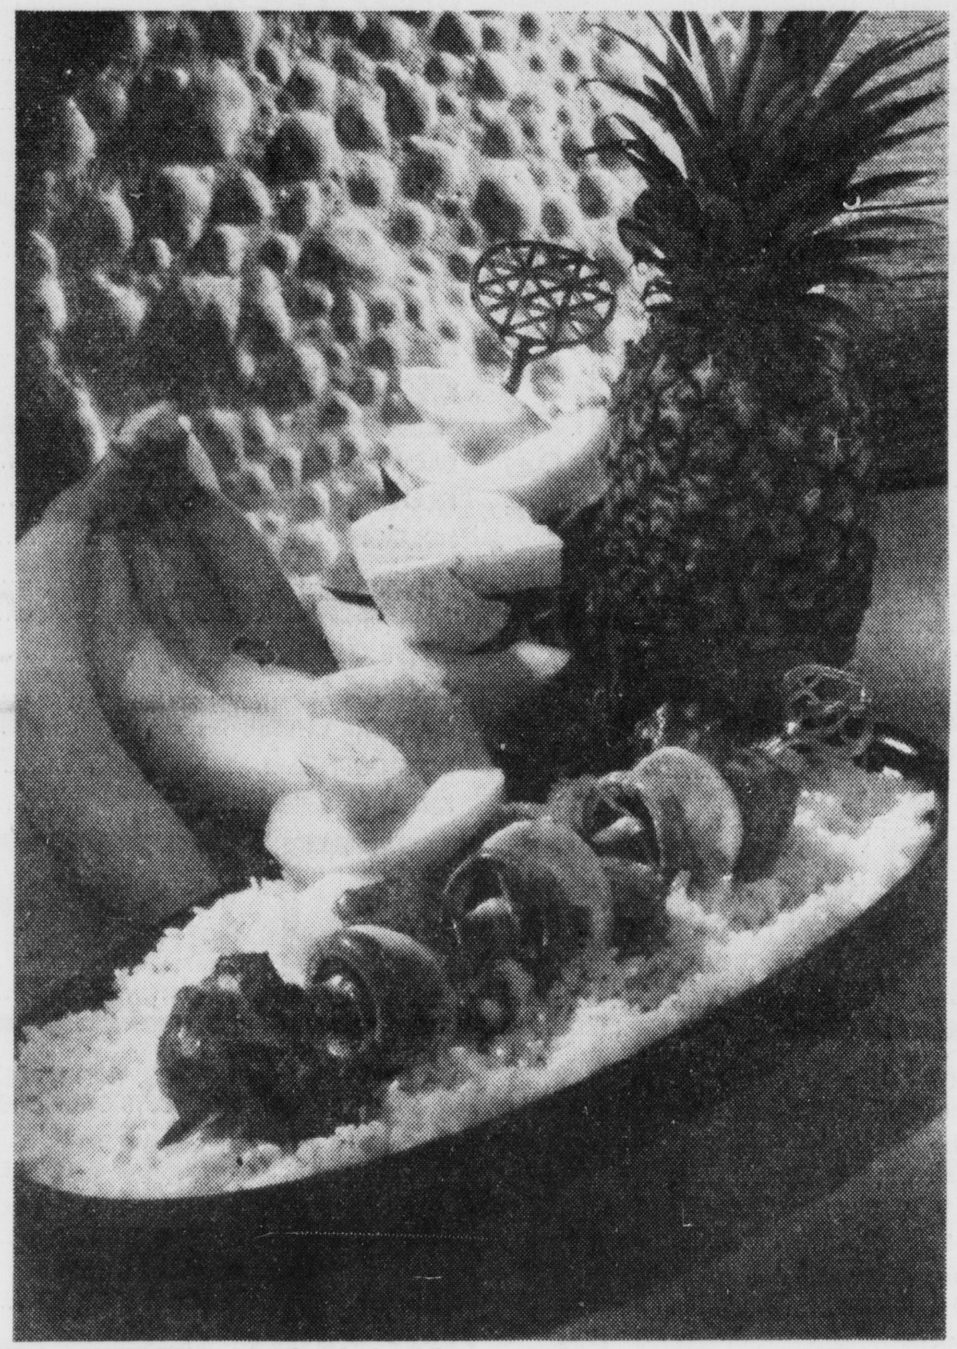
For Special Events Try Kabobs

No summer should go by without you and your family enjoying shish-kabob at least once, if not several times. This skewered dinner originated in Armenia, but has become almost an American summertime tradition too, as outdoor cooking enjoys more popularity.

Tender and juicy cubes of marinated lamb are grilled to crusty perfection. Alternately skewered with mushrooms and lemon slices for flavor, they are as interesting to look at as they are delicious to eat.

To enhance your end-of-summer dining, skewer large wedges of fresh summer fruits separately. Fresh golden pineapple, ripe flavorful bananas and brightly colored cantaloupe are perfect accompaniments to your lamb kebobs. Mix a little of the leftover meat marinade with honey and brush the combination over your beautiful fruit skewers. This extra flavor and golden color make the fruit delectable. Grill these skewers just long enough to warm through.

Serve your charcoal grilled duo on hot fluffy rice.



TWO SKEWERS, one loaded with tender lamb and mushrooms 'and the other with juicy fresh fruits, make a tantalizing outdoor grill duo.

CALIFORNIA SKEWER DUO

2 pounds lamb, cut into 1½ inch chunks
1½ cups dry red wine
1 cup salad oil
¾ cup lemon juice
¾ cup tarragon red wine vinegar
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1½ teaspoons dried tarragon
1½ teaspoons onion salt
1½ teaspoons garlic salt
1 teaspoon pepper
½ pound mushrooms
1 lemon, thinly sliced
¼ cup honey
8 large bananas, peeled and chunked
1 cantaloupe, peeled, seeded and chunked
1 fresh Pineapple, peeled, cored and chunked

Place lamb chunks in one layer in a large flat glass dish. Combine wine, oil, lemon juice, vinegar, mustard, tarragon, onion salt, garlic salt and pepper. Mix well and pour over lamb. Cover and refrigerate several hours or overnight, turning meat occasionally to marinate evenly. About two hours before grilling, brush mushrooms clean and add to marinade.

Skewer meat alternately with mushrooms and lemon slices. Grill about five inches from hot coals 15 minutes, turning to cook evenly. Meanwhile, blend one-half cup reserved marinade with honey. Alternately skewer banana, cantaloupe and pineapple chunks. Brush with honey mixture and grill alongside meat for about two minutes — just long enough to brown fruit. Makes six to eight servings.

Simple Poaching Brings Out The Flavor Of Plums

Plum growers, gourmets and fresh plum lovers all agree that poaching is the ideal way to cook plums. The simple poaching treatment brings out their distinctive flavor, makes them even juicier — yet leaves their vivid color intact. Plums can be poached in a variety of liquids. These two recipes are examples:

PLUMS IN PORT SAUCE

Combine in a heavy saucepan two pounds of California plums, each plum slashed on one side to the pit, two cups port, one cup sugar, one-half an orange peel, grated, six cloves and a cinnamon stick. Bring to a boil and simmer about 10 minutes or until plums begin to soften. Refrigerate plums in port sauce a day or two to give the flavors a chance to mingle.

PLUM SAUCE

China, the ancestral home of the plum, has contributed a delicious plum sauce to international cuisine. The Chinese use plum sauces with their pork and duck; you'll find this updated version of Chinese plum sauce, with California plums, a piquant and zesty baste and sauce for barbecued spareribs.

In a saucepan, cook one wedged onion in oil until soft. Mix two tablespoons cornstarch with three-fourths cup vinegar and three-fourths cup sugar; add to the onion. Cook, stirring until thickened. Add two pounds pitted and quartered plums, one-half teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon almond extract. Continue cooking until plums are tender. Brush sauce on spareribs after 'ribs have been partially cooked; continue basting as they grill. Heat remaining sauce and serve it with the ribs.

Good Snacks

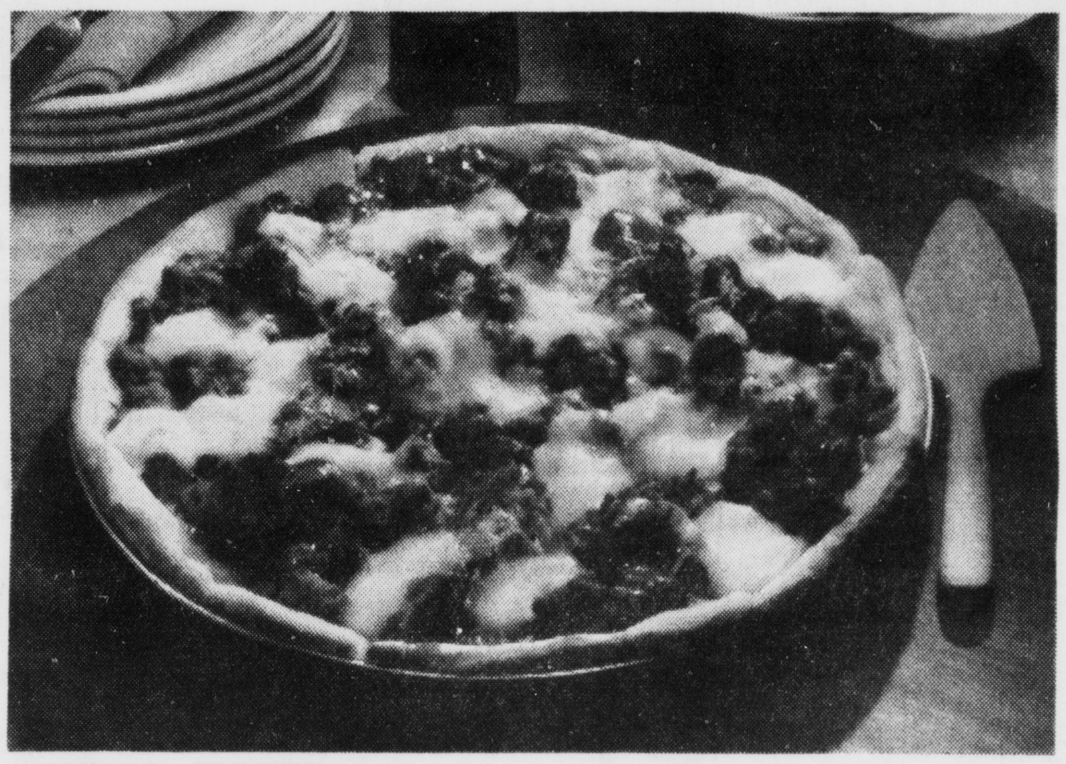
Roll out cheese pastry and cut into small squares. Make a turnover out of each square filling with a little currant jelly and sealing and crimping edges. Bake in a hot oven until browned.

Next Time Concoct A Turkey Pizza

Two of America's favorite foods, pizza and turkey, team up in this easy recipe. The secret of success is the new ground turkey meat now available at your market. Ground turkey browns as fast as ground beef and is perfect for packaged dinners, casseroles, and new-style 'burgers.' Its high nutritional value and low cost make it one of today's best meat buys.

"Turkey pizza" takes only minutes to prepare, the crust pre-baked for 10 minutes before meat, sauce and cheese are added. The finished pizza, is ready to serve 20 minutes later. Ideal for quick summer suppers, young get-togethers, patio or pool parties. If the crowd is big or extra hungry, better make several. The recipe feeds four to six depending upon appetites.

Prepared from thigh and drumstick meat of fresh young turkeys, this new ground product assures a wealth of good eating at a budget price.



GROUND TURKEY meat, now available at the meat counter of your supermarket, makes an exciting new pizza. Turkey pizza is quick and easy to prepare which makes it an ideal recipe for summer meals.

TURKEY PIZZA

1 (8 oz.) package crescent dinner rolls
1½ tablespoons oil
1 to 1¼ lb. ground turkey meat
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon basil, crumbled
1 (6 oz.) can pizza sauce
4 ounces sliced Mozarella or Jack cheese
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese.

Unroll and separate rolls. Arrange together in lightly greased 11-inch pizza pan to form a crust; pinch seams together well. Brush with one-half tablespoon oil. Bake on lowest shelf of 425 degree oven eight to 10 minutes, until edges brown lightly.

Meanwhile, heat remaining tablespoon oil in skillet, add turkey meat, and brown lightly, stirring to break up into chunks. Season with salt and basil. When crust is about half baked, remove from oven, and spread with two tablespoons pizza sauce.

Top with turkey meat, and spoon on remaining sauce. Cover with sliced cheese, and sprinkle with Parmesan. Return to hot oven, and bake about 20 minutes longer, until cheese is melted, and edges well browned. Let stand three or four minutes, then cut into wedges to serve. Makes four to six servings.

Now Is The Time To Treat The Family To Top Favorite—Pears

Pears have been a favorite fruit with Americans for generations, and now is the time to buy them. Bartlett pears — the most popular variety — always come to market ahead of other pear varieties. Right now in stores across the country Bartlett pears from the new crop in California, Oregon and Washington are abundantly available.

Most of us, when we take home the first pears of the season, probably eat them fresh out-of-hand, or perhaps put them in a fresh fruit salad or in fruit cups. With their bland flavor they go well with tart and juicy fruits.

But for a change of pace in summer eating, baked pears are a delightful dessert. Why not try these interesting recipes.

BAKED PEARS

6 firm pears
½ cup boiling water
¼ cup brown sugar
2 teaspoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons brown sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
Whipped cream garnish

Wash and pare the pears; cut in half, core, and put into a shallow baking dish with the hollow side up. Combine boiling water, brown sugar, and lemon juice. Pour over pears and sprinkle with brown sugar mixed with cinnamon. Bake, uncovered, in 400 degree oven until tender, about 45 to 60 minutes. Serve pears hot or chilled, garnished with whipped cream. Makes six servings.

BARTLEE BREAD PUDDING

3 or 4 fresh Bartlett pears
¼ cup lemon juice
2 cups stale bread cubes
⅓ cup melted butter
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon allspice
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup raisins
Whipped cream or ice cream

Pare, halve and core pears; dice to measure three cups. Mix with lemon juice. Mix bread, butter, sugar, salt and spice. Place half of the combination in buttered one and a half quarter casserole; top with pears, raisins and remaining bread. Bake, covered, in 350 degree oven 15 minutes. Uncover; bake 20 minutes longer. Serve with whipped cream or vanilla ice cream, if desired. Makes four or five servings.

Turkey Can Help Solve Meat Costs

Turkey is always a treat, and in these days of soaring meat prices, there's more reason than ever to turn to turkey for delicious meals.

If you're having another couple over for dinner, you might build the menu around turkey alfredo. This glamorous recipe features marinated, Parmesan cheese-coated "steaks" of turkey breast, crunchy, sauteed almonds, and hot fruit simmered in wine.

With turkey alfredo, you might serve a risotto casserole, a cold marinated vegetable such as zucchini or broccoli, a tossed green salad and crisp bread sticks. Spumoni or sherbet and cookies would round out this elegant meal in an Italian mood and with a minimum of work. For the wine, select a full-flavored white or one of the lighter reds such as Zinfandel or Gamay beaujolais.

Some stores will pre-cut turkey steaks. If you don't find them where you shop, you can slice them yourself as the recipe directs. Leftover pieces can be used for turkey salad or sandwiches. Crisp, roasted slivered almonds, incidentally, are delectable in turkey salad and sandwich mixtures.

TURKEY ALFREDO

Turkey breast (about 1½ lbs.)
½ cup olive oil
½ cup dry white wine
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cracked black pepper
½ teaspoon Italian herb mixture or dried sweet basil, crushed
Flour
½ cup grated Parmesan or Romano cheese
¼ cup slivered almonds
½ large firm-ripe papaya or 2 medium-size firm-ripe pears

With a very sharp knife, remove skin from turkey breast and slice breast into four "steaks" about one-quarter inch thick. Combine one-quarter cup of the oil with two or three tablespoons of the wine, the salt, pepper and herbs; pour over turkey and marinate an hour or more.

Lift turkey slices out of marinade, dip in flour and then in grated cheese. Heat remaining olive oil in heavy frying pan. Saute' turkey in hot oil, turning several times, until golden brown; set aside on hot platter. Add slivered almonds to hot frying pan and cook, stirring, until lightly browned and crisp. Scatter over turkey steaks. Slice fruit and add to drippings along with remaining wine. When simmering, spoon fruit and pan sauce over turkey and almonds.

Makes four servings.

Breeding Ranch Begins As Adventure

By PAT BALMES

Long-time Belvedere residents Luetta Graham Michael and her grown children Janetta and Fletcher spend most of their time now breeding the nation's second largest herd of Peruvian Paso horses at their ranch in Guerneville.

JANETTA MICHAEL of Belvedere strokes one of the rare Peruvian Paso horses that her family raises on their horse breeding ranch in Guerneville. The Michael family has the nation's second largest herd of Paso numbering less than 800 in the United States.

Fifty of the rare, lateral-gaited horses romp in the corrals of Hacienda de la Solana, the Michael's Spanish-Moorish home on 64 wooded acres near the Russian River.

There are less than 800 Paso in the United States, according to Mrs. Michael, whose parents owned ranches in Texas.

"I remember as a child getting up before dawn, saddling horses and going riding with my father," Mrs. Michael said.

Her father, Fletcher Graham, retired from Texas' department store industry in the late 1940s, moved his family to a Belvedere Lagoon duplex and bought property in Healdsburg which is now Lake Sonoma Wilderness Area.

Graham bought his "House of Bright Sunshine" in 1951, the week before Bing Crosby was to inspect the property, Lu Michael mentioned.

"Janetta and Fletcher grew up coming here or going sailing on the Baruna," said Mrs. Michael, naming the yacht they once moored at Corinthian Yacht Club and sailed to Honolulu.

Janetta, 24, attended Dominican's lower and upper schools and was graduated from University of Texas, her mother's alma mater. Fletcher, 22, who studied at Marin Country Day School and St. Ignatius High School was graduated from the University of California at Davis in June.

"The kids have had their friends up. That is what's fun; I miss it when they do not come around. When Janetta was a debutante we had a party at the hacienda," said Mrs. Michael.

OVER COFFEE in the comfortable tackroom, Mrs. Michael explained that their breeding operation began years ago in a small way with American Shetland show ponies.

"It took a little doing to get Janetta to raise ponies instead of horses. Until she went away to college she was proving that she had the love and ability to run a good breeding operation with the ponies," Mrs. Michael said.

In 1970 the Michaels decided to become serious Peruvian Paso breeders and helped the workman pour foundations and nail shingles for more stables.

They chose the unusual horse for its gentle disposition and floating gait. "Once you ride it you stop and think that you want to breed a horse that people will grow to enjoy and want," said Lu Michael, who works around her four stallions.

Janetta and her mother traveled to Peru to buy "a few mares and a stallion," but returned with 18 Pasos.

Janetta was offered only poor horses at first. "The Peruvians were not going to sell her their good horses if Janetta did not know what she was doing," Lu Michael explained.

"Things changed when Janetta recognized a top horse and brought out things about blood lines that checked out. Then the word went around that she was a serious breeder," she said.

Offers of prized Pasos came from all corners of Peru.

Many Pasos were brought to Lima for the women to inspect, but sometimes they had to go to remote, mountainous areas.

Along one lonely road their driver bought dried fruit at every stand, explaining that the road became a cowpath through an area where they could be lost for days if they had car trouble, Mrs. Michael related.

While they were on the most remote part, their car's transmission fell out. A Volkswagen containing seven people and a dog rescued the Michaels and their driver.

She told of another adventure at Lima International Airport. While their Pasos were being loaded, one mare escaped and for a half hour ran loose on the runway. Take-offs and landings were suspended while every available man pursued her.

When captured, the mare broke loose again and the whole episode was repeated.

A MYSTERY unfolded when the Michaels landed in Miami with their first load of horses and received a call advising that one of their mares still in Peru was missing, she said.

It developed that the stable boy had borrowed the valuable horse to ride into town for a spree. He turned up in jail and the mare, for lack of a better facility, had been jailed too.

The first year at the hacienda with the imported horses was hectic because, according to Peruvian breeding custom, the mares foaled at different times during the year.

"We got awfully tired of watching for mares in labor all year round," said Lu Michaels.

This year 18 mares were scheduled to foal in the three spring months, so Janetta and Lu installed beds in the tackroom where they took turns watching closed circuit TV for mares in labor.

"We didn't get much sleep for three months," Mrs. Michaels said.

Janetta and the chalan (Peruvian horse man) train in traditional Peruvian fashion, using imported authentic equipment and devices, such as the leather eye covers worn on the horse's forehead which can be lowered over his eyes whenever the rider wants to leave him, eliminating tying.

STROLLING IN the sunshine among the corrals, Mrs. Michael pointed out their top stallion Hercules, one of the few really superior breeding stallions ever allowed to leave Peru, she said.

As each inquisitive paso came to the fence for attention, she told his background.

Afterward in the cool hacienda, built in 1939 with heavy beamed ceilings, floor tiles from Spain and foot thick walls, conversation turned to the Pacific Coast Peruvian Paso Horse Club show held last month at the Santa Rosa Fairgrounds. Mrs. Michael helped plan it, copying the relaxed atmosphere of Lima's horse show.

The foremost Paso authority, Senor Fernando Grana Elizalde, came from Peru to judge the Americans' horses.

Exhibitors wearing white ponchos and straw hats rode Pasos carrying authentic Peruvian trappings.

After the show the judge and the Fletchers dined at the San Francisco home of Peru's Ambassador to the United States, Fernando Berckemeyer.

"We had invited them to the show. The Berckemeyers are interested that people here are interested in Peruvian Pasos," said Lu Michael.

Janetta learned Spanish so she could learn more from older Peruvian horsemen about bloodlines and training, and she has traveled to Peru three times.

"The Peruvians are just as nice and helpful as they can be. She learns more and more every time she goes," she said.

The three Michaels plan to attend the horse show in Lima in October and renew friendships.

Be Careful With Handwash Clothes

Wool clothing labeled "handwash" indicate the garment should be laundered as if it is being hand washed. The hand wash cycle on an automatic washer may be labeled as "gentle" or "delicate."

Always wash with plenty of water. Water is a cushioning agent. When a full tub of water is used for a small load of delicates, the garments come cleaner because the water circulates gently and freely around the clothes.

Family Conflicts Said To Be Normal

Family conflicts and angry discussions are normal says Abraham Lurie, director of social work service at Long Island Jewish-Hillside Medical Center in New Hyde Park, N.Y.

"Family conflicts are to be expected and serve a useful purpose, releasing tensions and helping family members to interact and adjust," he said. "It is best to talk things over, even if it means having angry discussions at times."

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Man Told To Enjoy The Food But Find Females Elsewhere

DEAR LOVELY LADY:

I am a bachelor, aged 64, live in a nice apartment and have three sweet, good looking lady neighbors, two divorced and one single.

They know I live alone and am a poor cook, so they each bring me hot dinners. Some weeks I hardly cook at all.

My problem? I am not oversexed, but I find it hard to resist hugging and kissing them for being so good to old Georgie-Porgie. However, as they're about half my age, they assume the relationship is purely platonic.

I do not want to lose their friendship or those fine meals but, Helen, I got more kisses in grammar school than I get now.

I use mouth wash, deodorant and lime aftershave, and while I don't particularly want a wife, I would like female companionship. Should I move to an apartment house where the women wouldn't say I remind them of their father, or stay with food? — GEORGE

DEAR GEORGE:

Anyone who would move away from three sweet, good looking, undemanding cooks hasn't got his head on straight!

Keep them platonic if this is what they wish, but don't just sit there and eat. Look for a heart interest at a singles dance club, night school classes, hobby groups. . .you'd be surprised how many lonely middle-aged widows and divorcees show up at these. With your gift of gab, etc. you'll surely get lucky.

But, you'd better pick a girlfriend who is also a good cook. Hot dinners may stop when the apartment gals discover you are no longer lonely. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

My son and his wife didn't want their children. I cared for them off and on. Practically raised the youngest girl. She had to get married at 18, but the man left two weeks later.

When my darling great granddaughter arrived, I was her "mother" while my granddaughter went back to school. She showed no interest in the child, not even enough to feed her or change a diaper.

Then she remarried and took the 10-month-old with her. She and her husband joined a religious sect and spend all their time ringing doorbells.

They never cuddle the baby or show love, but raise her by the whip, as if you could chase the "devil" from children by beating them! I'm a Baptist, but they call me a pagan, so you can see how strict their "religion" is.

They've told me not to visit my great granddaughter. but I went there anyway this week and found her outdoors crying, sitting dangerously near a red ant hill. She had diarrhea and instead of getting medicine, they'd punished her. The stepfather used a mulberry limb for a switch, and the mother bragged that she'd "blistered her behind 14 times that day." She had welts all over her.

Helen, I can't stand what's happening to a once healthy, happy, good-natured child. Though I'm 70, I'm spry and would gladly take her, but I don't think the authorities would step in until she's really "battered," and then it may be too late. This couple has had her just three months, and already she has lost weight. How could anyone beat and neglect a 13-month-old baby?

What can I do? — GREAT GRANDMOTHER

DEAR GREAT GRANDMOTHER:

Don't assume the authorities will do nothing until you visit the Child Welfare Agency and tell them your story!

No report of battered (or potentially threatened) children is ignored. If your great grandchild is receiving the kind of neglect and punishment you describe in your long letter, she won't be left in this dangerous environment long. Count on it! — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? A fun idea? You can talk it over in hr column if you write to Helen Bottel, care of the Indpendent-Journal.

FIRST YEAR

Play Helps To Awaken Infant To Surroundings

(Ninth in a series)

You and your baby, and your baby and his father, get to know and understand one another as you play together. He learns about his own body and about the world around him as he plays by himself. He reaches out and examines things, first with his eyes, then with his hands and then with his whole body. He listens, then responds, then imitates as you talk to him in play.

In the first months, baths, feeding times, and diaper changes give you the opportunity to handle each other, to listen to each other and to watch each other. You can stretch him out, pull him into a sitting or standing position and get to know the real strength he has in his grip and his muscles.

At first, he will play mostly with his eyes. looking at objects and following them as they move A few objects dangled on a string from his crib will give him something to watch. and so will the view out the window or the sight of you carrying on your usual household tasks.

By the time he is two to three months old, he will spend a great deal of time watching his hands as he reaches out and brings them back in front of his face. He will begin to laugh and squeal so you know when he really enjoys his own games and the games you play with him.

A TOY IS anything the baby plays with. He doesn't care whether it was purchased in the most expensive children's shop or is a cardboard tube from a roll of toilet paper. Spoons, boxes, pie tins, pieces of cloth, or clothespins will give him just as much to explore and just as much pleasure as expensive silver rattles.

To be safe, any toy you give your baby should:

Be sturdy enough that it will not splinter or break;

Be large enough so that he can't swallow it;

Have no sharp points or edges;

Have no parts that can come loose and be swallowed such as whistles on rubber toys, or buttons or eyes on stuffed animals and dolls;

Be painted with a safe paint.

The child needs only a few things to play with any one time – his crib shouldn't be stuffed with a great number of toys and household objects. However, the more different things he can look at, handle, bite, squeeze, scratch, bang, rattle, and throw, the more he will learn about what things are like. So change his toys frequently. Any household contains plenty of safe objects for even the most curious baby.

By three to four months, your baby will probably demand a little more excitement than he gets in his crib and in his usual daily care. He may let you know by screaming and crying from boredom or he may just be a little fussy.

HE WILL be happier spending a few hours a day sitting in an inclined infant seat watching you do your housework or cooking. He will also want to spend some time on the floor where he can roll, kick, and begin to learn to crawl. Keep a close eye on him when he is on the floor; he has enough strength to pull down a lamp or a small table and he can move amazingly far and fast even before he learns to crawl or creep.

A playpen can be useful because you can leave him there out of your sight for a few minutes while you carry on your household tasks. Later on he can use the bars or net of the playpen to pull himself up. And a playpen can make a handy crib for naps or even for all-night sleeping.

When he is quite small, you can make a playpen by blocking off a corner of a room with furniture or boxes. As he gets stronger, you will need something stronger that he can't move. As he grows older, he should be given some time each day when he is free to move about on the floor outside of the playpen. The older he gets the more carefully you will have to watch him to keep him out of trouble.

Council Rejects An Appeal For Building On San Anselmo Ridge

A controversial proposal to develop the ridgecrest along Oak Springs Drive was rejected Tuesday night by the San Anselmo City Council.

Councilmen voted 4-1 in opposing Kurt Kissman's appeal of planning commission denial of a plan to build eight single family homes along the ridge to complete an existing subdivision. Councilman Warren R. Perry opposed the move.

The council majority said no decision on additional homes on the ridge can be made until after the city's general plan is completed. The planning commission had denied the proposal on a 3-3 deadlock vote.

Councilmen denied the appeal despite a warning from James McKinney, Kissman's representative, thqt the city is headed for a "legal confrontation" over the matter.

McKinney rejected a compromise plan proposed by Perry, who said the council might accept fewer units along the ridge. McKinney called the proposal uneconomical.

"Make a decision and clearly state your reasons," he said, drawing the lone support of Perry.

The San Anselmo City Council Also:

ANGELA AVENUE — Extended to Sept. 11 the time by which owner Frances Merrill must remove or rehabilitate a dilapidated house at 89 Angela Avenue.

SEWER PROJECT — Urged the Ross Valley Sanitary District to speed completion of its downtown sewer improvement project, after learning the project is already two weeks behind schedule due to cave-ins and other delays. Merchants have complained the work is responsible for lagging business.

APPOINTMENT — Appointed Thomas R. Biesheuvel to the city planning commission and called for applicants for the seats of parks and recreation commissioner Jay Stovall and design review committeeman James Farnkopf, both of whom resigned.

BIDS — Awarded a $20,853 contract to W. K. McClellan Co., low bidder, for tennis courts at Red Hill School, pending bid approval by the San Anselmo School District. The project will be jointly funded.

PARK — Told D. H. Goltz and Johnson and Leffingwell Associates to prepare final drawings for Creek Park.

PARKS — Approved a recommendation by the parks and recreation commission tightening park and playground rules, including prohibiting park use between 9:30 p.m. and 6 a.m. unless otherwise posted. Blinder opposed the move.

GATE — Said the city will install a pedestrian access gate for hikers between 164 and 172 Oak Springs Drive.

PAY — Set the pay of newly appointed assistant fire chief Robert Beedle at $1,244 monthly, a 5 per cent boost from his pay as fire captain.

PERSONNEL — Appointed Donald Whitney as fire lieutenant at $1,079 monthly, and Larry Combs as fireman at $845 monthly. The council also said police clerk-dispatchers may shift from the miscellaneous to the safety personnel category, a move that cost the city about $360 annually and beefs up dispatcher fringe benefits.

STUDY — Said the county will conduct a geologic and slope stability study of the city for a $2,000 tab.

PURCHASE — Told City Atty. Hadden W. Roth to negotiate purchase of two parcels at Greenfield Avenue and Sequoia Drive needed for realignment of Greenfield Avenue.

SEWER — Approved an ordinance tightening city control of septic tanks and individual sewage systems.

HOUSING — Decided to wait until the city's general plan is completed before coming to grips with the problem of nonconforming, second dwellings on single family lots.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Aug. 28.

Testing Service Is Scheduled At Fair

A blood pressure testing service will be offered August 30 through Sept. 3 at the Marin County Heart Association booth at the Marin County Fair.

Everyone tested will receive a car to give to his physician and anyone with an abnormally high reading will be advised to consult his doctor as soon as possible.

Campaign Fund Limit Rejected

A bid by San Anselmo City Councilman Martin G. Blinder to put a lid on campaign spending was rejected by his colleagues Tuesday night.

Fellow councilmen told Blinder that the state elections code already regulates campaign spending and public disclosure of expenses, obviating any local law.

Blinder had proposed that no candidate be allowed to spend more than the sum derived by multiplying the number of registered voters in San Anselmo by 12 cents, or about $800 at present.

Candidates would also be prohibited from accepting a donation of more than $100 from any single contributor under Blinder's proposal, or from accepting from all contributors money totaling more than the $800 tabulation.

Willful failure to report contributions would result in a $500 fine, and anyone convicted of violation of the ordinance would be removed from office, according to the proposal.

Colleagues felt the ordinance was too tough, said the city has never been plagued by big spenders, and claimed existing state law provides the necessary regulation, anyway.

In addition, the ordinance discriminates against those without previous public exposure who must rely on advertising, and limits free access to the press to respond to last-minute smers and electioneering, said Councilman Warren R. Perry.

Registration Set For Tennis Classes

Registration for classes in beginning, intermediate and advanced tennis will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday in Albert Park and at the Terra Linda recreation center, the San Rafael Parks and Rcreation Department announced yesterday.

Each resident registering must contribute a new tennis ball to the department according to Ralph Dannenberg, assistant recreation supervisor. Classes begin Aug. 27, he said.

San Anselmo Council Gets Tough On Dogs

San Anselmo city councilmen Tuesday night approved tough new dog controls that will require dogs to be leashed or "at heel" when on public property.

The council also endorsed a new regulation that will limit to two the number of dogs allowable per household, with "some provision for a variance" for dog owners having or wanting more than two pets. Mayor Lewis W. (Skip) Stewart opposed the two-dog limit.

The council, in giving informal approval to ordinances provided by colleague Martin G. Blinder, directed City Atty. Hadden W. Roth to prepare the new measures for adoption Aug. 28.

Blinder's proposal for a leash law amendment to the existing animal control law — which merely says animals must be under the control of a responsible person — won prompt support from fellow councilmen, but the two-dog lid sparked some disagreement.

"That has overtones of 1984," said Stewart. "I don't like to limit the number of animals any one person can have."

Blinder's suggestion that owners having more than two dogs pay a $25 fee and present certificates of sterilization for each additional animal was decried as "a lot of bunk" by one angry dog lover.

"This ordinance is nuts," declared Attilio Segale of 20 Holstein Road. "This is stupid. Pay $25 for an extra dog? That doesn't make sense. There ought to be some way of controlling the people, not the dogs," he exclaimed.

Councilmen sidestepped the fee and sterilization issue, telling staff to wrestle with a variance procedure allowing more than two dogs.

"We humans and our pets are taking over the world," said Blinder, claiming that dogs threaten the existence of other living things since dog food "comes from whales and wild mustangs." The tough new dog controls, he said, will assure that the burden as well as the pleasure of owning a dog is assigned to the dog owner, and not distributed to the rest of the community.

Trans-Gate Bus Tube Argued; Study Set

A study of expanded transit between Marin and San Francisco was broadened Tuesday night to include a tube under the bay to Sausalito.

Adding the tube to the study was branded "really a wasted effort" by Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco, president of the Golden Gate Bridge District board of directors. He nevertheless joined in the unanimous vote by the board of control for the study.

The action by the board, which includes representatives of the district, the counties of Marin, Sonoma and San Francisco and Metropolitan Transportation Commission, also was over the objections of Sausalito's planning director, Herb Case. He appealed unsuccessfully for delay because Marin citizens only recently learned about the push for the tube.

The push, he noted, came from the citizens panel advising consultants doing the study. The citizens primarily are from San Francisco, Case said, and oppose any alternative that would call for tunnels through San Francisco neighborhoods.

Leonoudakis said all previous transit studies have found the tube "completely impractical" because of opposition from Sausalito and its cost, which he said was "hundreds of millions."

(Sausalito Mayor Robin Sweeney warned the citizens panel on July 26 that "this is a village of 6,000 people who will not be destroyed.")

The board's approval of some $36,000 to expand the study was urged by the chairman of the citizens advisory panel, Peter McCrea of San Francisco. The study's original budget was $945,000.

Gifford Randall of Kaiser Engineers,, the prime contractor for the study, said tubes studied previously were for trains. The extra money was needed because the system now being considered would use buses, thus new engineering is needed to provide ventilation, he said.

San Francisco Supervisor John Molinari said preliminary plans, which showed the tube coming into Sausalito's downtown, could be changed to extend it under Richardson Bay to Marinship. He did not offer an estimate of the additional cost.

Uncle Sam Seeks Tranquilizer Control

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Drug Enforcement Administration moved today to place federal controls over the nation's two largest selling prescription tranquilizers, Librium and Valium, to prevent the drugs from reaching the illicit market.

John R. Bartels Jr., acting administrator of the drug agency, said the move to put the antianxiety drugs under guidelines of the Control Substances Act climaxes a seven-year fight by federal drug enforcement agencies to prevent abuse and diversion of Librium and Valium to the illicit market.

Tam CSD Tax Rate Is Lowered

Granting taxpayers a three-cent decrease in the tax rate, Tamalpais Community Services District directors Tuesday night approved a $226,548 budget for 1973-74. (Another services district story, page 1.)

The budget is up $67,746 over last year's $158,802 spending plan. Some $46,555 of the increase comes from the district's entrance into the garbage collection business, according to Dist. Mgr. Leonard M. Mitchell.

The drop in the tax rate in spite of the additional budget burden resulted from a large increase in assessed valuation within the district. The tax rate was lowered to 32 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The board discovered it had about $6,000 excess over the proposed budget after the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District submitted its bill for sewage treatment for Tamalpais Valley.

After considering allocating the excess to the park and recreation budget, directors voted to pass the savings along to taxpayers with a tax rate decrease.

With an assessed valuation of $1.7 million, the three-cent cut decreased district tax revenues by $5,100. The other $900 of the $6,000 excess was funneled into trail easements in the park and recreation budget.

Budget allocations with this year's figure in parenthesis are salaries, $35,752 ($32,652); sanitation, $80,141 ($77,800); garbage and debris $46,555 ($0); park and recreation $43,500 ($31,350), and administration $20,600 ($17,000).

Skate-A-Thon Set At Marin Skateland

An all-day Skate-A-Thon for the benefit of Muscular Dystrophy, will be held starting at 10 a.m., Sept. 2 at Marin Skateland in San Rafael.

Members of their skate club and others interested in helping, will get pledges for the time they skate, said David H. Bergson, owner-manager of the skating rink.

Assembly Action Delayed On Reviving Death Penalty

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A showdown vote on bills reviving the death penalty in California was abruptly delayed for one week by a key Assembly committee Tuesday in hopes secret negotiations will result in a compromise measure.

Assemblyman Julian C. Dixon, the deciding vote on the Criminal Justice Committee, asked for the postponement to give him more time for private talks with Sen. George Deukmejian, the legislature's leading advocate of capital punishment.

"I think it would be safe to say I will vote for some death penalty bill if it contains the proper ingredients," Dixon told newsmen. He declined to specify what the ingredients would be.

The Los Angeles Democrat also predicted for the first time that "some form" of capital punishment legislation will be signed into law this year. Most observers agree that if a death penalty bill clears the liberal-dominated committee it will pass the entire legislature.

Assemblyman Frank Murphy, GOP caucus chairman, protested that the negotiations were being conducted secretly and demanded that the issue be decided soon by the seven-man committee.

"I'd prefer to have our business done in public," the Santa Cruz lawmaker said, complaining that Republicans were not "cut in" on the negotiations.

But to the amazement of a standing room-only crowd which included a platoon of prison guards, committee chairman Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles, adjourned the hearing "to allow those negotiations to continue to see whether agreement is possible."

The discussions between Dixon and Deukmejian only began Monday, although the issue had been before the committee for three months. Dixon said he waited because he "had not made up my own mind on what the essence of the bill should be."

After their initial meeting, both lawmakers expressed "cautious optimism" that they could iron out their differences. Dixon declined to say what type of crimes he wanted to be covered by the supreme penalty.

Deukmejian's bill (SB450) considered the most significant of nine rival bills before the committee, would mandate capital punishment for hired assassins, torture slayers, mass murderers and killers of peace officers.

Deukmejian said he will begin an initiative drive to reinstate the death penalty if the legislature fails to pass a bill by Sept. 15, the day when the legislature is scheduled to adjourn.

Last year, prison guards led an initiative campaign which led to voter approval of Prop. 17, a measure which gave the legislature power to reinstate capital punishment, which had been struck down by court decisions.

Judge To Hear Nazi Crime Case

DUESSELDORF, West Germany (UPI) — Hermine Braunsteiner Ryan, a New York housewife extradited to West Germany on charges of Nazi concentration camp atrocities, will appear before an investigating judge next week.

"We are waiting for Mrs. Ryan's American lawyer to fly over," a spokesman for the prosecutor's office said Tuesday. "Mrs. Ryan has already been down for questioning but refused to speak, taking advice from her German lawyer."

Mrs. Ryan, 53, faces a possible life sentence if convicted on charges she sent more than 2,000 women and children to their death in German and Polish concentration camps where she served as a guard. The Austrian-born woman entered the United States in 1961 after marrying Russell Ryan, a New York construction worker.

Woman Loses $10,000 Bill

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A 63-year-old woman says a $10,000 U.S. Treasury bill disappeared from her purse Tuesday in the lobby of the First Western Bank.

Marie Walker told police she was jostled by two young men when she entered the bank and later noticed her purse open.

The federal note was purchased late Monday, said Mrs. Walker, after she learned that it paid an annual interest rate of 8.94 per cent.

Treasury bills are "easily negotiable," a Federal Reserve spokesman said, adding that it simply takes a signature on the reverse side.

MEMENTOES — The past and the present stand in painful contrast for Walter and Anna Strikker of Mill Valley, surrounded by their son's trophies as they peruse the latest report on his condition in a Napa hospital. Their 21-year-old son, Leonard, injured two years ago while practicing the horsemanship he loved, has lain ever since in what seems to them a long, long sleep from which they wonder if he will ever wake.

FELL FROM HORSE IN 1971

Parents Keep Vigil With Son Unconscious For Over 2 Years

By REBECCA LARSEN

Every day for more than two years, Walter and Anna Strikker of Tamalpais Valley have made the two-hour round trip to a hospital in Napa County where their only son Leonard lies in a coma.

As long as he doesn't give up, we can't either," said Mrs. Strikker.

At their home on Bell Lane, the two native Hollanders described their lives as a closely confined world of visits to the hospital, a few hours spent on part-time jobs and rare hours with friends.

"You learn to live with it," said Mrs. Strikker. "But once in a while it hits you bad again. You never feel really good."

An accomplished horseman, Leonard, now 21, was injured in 1971 in a fall from a horse.

After winning dozens of blue ribbons and trophies in horse shows in his years at Tamalpais High School, young Strikker had decided when he graduated that he wanted to become a horse trainer instead of going to college.

So he got a job on a big cattle and horse ranch near Geyserville. Then on June 19, 1971, while rounding up cattle, his horse slipped throwing him to the ground. "Those little falls used to happen all the time," said his father. "But this time it was summer, and the ground was hard."

Ever since, Strikker has been at Queen of the Valley Hospital in Napa where he has shown no signs of consciousness.

"To look at him you wouldn't think he was sick," said Mrs. Strikker. "He just looks like he's sleeping."

At first, the Strikkers spent entire days at the hospital. But for the past few months, they've been breaking up their visits. They go in the morning for a few hours, then leave to shop, eat or visit for the afternoon and return to the hospital at night.

On days when Mrs. Strikker works at her delicatessen job in San Rafael, her husband goes to the hospital alone in the mornings, and the two visit Leonard together at night.

Strikker also works occasionally as part-time yacht maintenance jobs. He gave up a full-time job just after the accident.

The trip is strenuous and costly. Their 1967 Pontiac now has 134,000 miles on it.

Because of the mileage and bad rains they drove through last winter, they have now put up for sale their tidy pale green stucco and frame house where they have lived for nine years. "I'd like to find some place to live halfway between Napa and Marin," said Strikker, "so we could at least take off half the distance."

Most of the medical expenses are covered by Leonard's insurance. "They're very, very nice at that hospital," said Strikker. "The care is marvelous."

Nurses now let the Strikkers bathe and feed their son and change his bedding. "We talk to him we put the radio on, we exercise his arms and legs, we try to wake him up," said Mrs. Strikker.

Sometimes the hospital doctors talk about moving Leonard to a convalescent home. "But it seems like every time they do, he gets a high fever or develops complications," she said.

The complications have included pneumonia, a collapsed lung and infected kidneys. One hopeful sign is that Leonard is breathing on his own again after 18 months of using a respiratory machine. He is fed through a tube.

Mrs. Strikker said that rather than move Leonard to a convalescent hospital, she would bring him home even though he would need 24-hour-a-day care.

There are still moments of deep grief. "Once in a while you go to bed and say, 'I hope I don't get up in the morning,' " said Mrs. Strikker. "You shed a lot of tears."

But they still have some hope that Leonard may recover. Mrs. Strikker was encouraged by another boy in a coma for nine months at the same hospital who slowly came out of it. "His mother had given up hope too."

Would it be better if Leonard had died in the accident? "If it had happened in the beginning, we couldn't have gotten over it," said Mrs. Strikker. "If something happens now, we would. He's a sick boy. If he comes out of it, we don't know what kind of person he would be. We would accept it better if something happened to him today or tomorrow."

But as long as Leonard breathes, they will keep their vigil. "He was always a pretty good kid," said Strikker. "He was hardworking and he respected us. So he deserves that we take care of him the best that we can."

Airing Of Larkspur's Plan Set

The Larkspur Planning Commission has set 7:30 p.m. Aug. 23 for a public hearing on the text of the proposed general plan for the city, according to John Roberto, city planning director.

Copies of a draft of the text will be available at noon Thursday at city hall for interested residents, he said. The tentative map for the general plan already has been approved.

The text will deal with the nine elements required by state law, including such factors as housing and open space.

The public hearing will be in the city hall.

In other action Tuesday, the planning commission turned down a proposal by the Larkspur Square Shopping Center for a reader board on the center property, saying it might obstruct vision at an intersection and possibly would conflict with a proposed service station on the property.

The commission also approved a tentative map for conversion of about nine apartments at 45 Corte Real to condominiums.

Cancer Society Slates Benefit

A benefit barbecue, concert and dance for the Marin Unit of the American Cancer Society will be held 4 p.m. Sunday at the Deer Park Villa in Fairfax.

Entertainment will be provided by a 19-member band of Bay area professionals assembled by Cuz Cousineau of Mill Valley. Square dancing and palm reading will also take place.

Information is available from the American Cancer Society, 18 Mary Street, San Rafael.

Man Bound Over On Forgery Charge

A Santa Venetia man Tuesday was bound over to Marin Superior Court for trial on a charge of credit card forgery. Joseph William Bradford, 32, of 10 La Brea Way, was ordered to appear Monday.

Municipal Court Judge Gary W. Thomas ruled there exists sufficient evidence to try Bradford on a charge he tried to buy $231 in stereo equipment from Pay Less Drugs in the Northgate Shopping Center Aug. 4 using a credit card belonging to John Peabody of Corte Madera.

Redevelop Panel Votes Contracts

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency Commission on Tuesday approved contracts totaling $24,000 for two attorneys and a real estate consultant, according to Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director.

Commissioners approved amended contracts for the remainder of 1973 for Douglas C. Myers, land and real estate consultant, for an added $8,000, (bringing his total pay to $34,000 for two years) and granted attorney Benjamin James an additional $8,000 bringing his total 1973 salary to $16,000.

They also renewed a contract for attorney Leland H. Jordan which expired Aug. 8. Jordan will be paid $8,000 for legal services through August 1974.

Shepherd was authorized to hire a consulting firm to complete an environmental impact report for a proposed access road connecting Marin City and Tennessee Valley.

The executive director was also told to hire the firm of Gonzalez and Oberkamper to design stairs and a walkway to connect Donahue Street and Guy Circle and to prepare plans for widening the road leading to the sewage pumping station off Donahue Street. Cost of the design work is not to exceed $4,000.

Woman, 75, Is Fair From Crash

A 75-year-old San Rafael woman was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with injuries incurred Tuesday in an automobile accident.

Zelma MacKenzie, of 1120 Nye Street, suffered a fractured shoulder blade, multiple rib fractures and multiple bruises, according to a hospital spokesman.

No details of the accident were available from the California Highway Patrol.

Shops Polled On Tiburon Street Plan

Main Street in Tiburon should remain a two-way road, according to businessmen on that street who answered a survey of the Tiburon Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber board heard a report Tuesday on the survey, from director Rod Taft.

According to Taft, 33 businessmen out of about 40 on the street answered the poll. Of the respondents, 27 wanted the street to remain two-way, four wanted it to become one-way running towards Tiburon Boulevard, one wanted it one-way running away from Tiburon Boulevard, and one favored making the road a pedestrian mall.

Also at the board meeting, directors selected vice-president Charles Patterson to be president until regular chamber elections are held in November. He will fill the chair of Gerald Cullinane who has resigned

'Public Hearings' Not For The Public

What is a public hearing, anyhow?

Almost anyone probably would reply, "Why, that is a meeting held to hear from the public."

We'd agree. That's what a public hearing is — but not in the eyes of bureaucracy, which has a way of twisting meanings to suit its own purposes.

THERE AS AN example last week in San Francisco. The Environmental Protection Agency set a public hearing on a federal plan to force Bay Area residents out of their automobiles and off their motorcycles. The plan calls for cutting off gasoline sales on smoggy days, restricting the number of motorcycles to those already registered, banning motorbikes with two-stroke engines during the daytime, reducing the amount of public parking by 20 per cent, and limiting the mileage we'd be allowed to drive our cars. All this could be done, according to EPA, under authority of the Clean Air Act of 1971.

And so, having announced this drastic plan for a new dictatorship, EPA set a public hearing. Some 200 people showed up for it at the San Francisco Federal Building.

And then the hearing officer, a gent named Charles Eckerman who is assistant regional counsel for EAP, announced that members of the public who wanted to be heard would have to wait until all state and local officials finished testifying.

The state and local officials took all day. Most of the members of the public had to leave — they had to get back to work, since they can't afford to miss a day when one day's work out of five goes to support those state and federal officials anyhow.

PUBLIC HEARING? Only in bureaucratese. Here were all these public officials, from Mayor Joe Alioto of San Francisco to District Director Thomas R. Lammers of the California Department of Transportation to assorted underlings of a flock of other state, regional and local agencies, all being paid for their time by John Q. Taxpayer — and taking up the time that was supposed to be allowed John Q.. to sound off about a proposed federal regulation!

This EPA performance was a particularly disgusting one. But the same kind of thing happens week after week in Sacramento, at the Marin County Civic Center, and wherever "public hearings" are set.

The bureaurcrats, who are paid to be there, take all the time they want. John Q. Taxpayer, who is losing money for every hour he spends at the hearing, waits and stews — and maybe gets a chance to get a few words in, maybe not.

All these bureaucrats and politicians could set forth their views in official statements (prepared in at least quadruplicate, of course) and file 'em with the hearing officer as Exhibits One through Umpty-seven.

Public hearings should be to hear from the public.

Nixon Rates 'Scotch Verdict' On Watergate At This Point

WASHINGTON — If the Senate Watergate committee were a court of law, the presiding judge would have been asked to dismiss the accusations against President Nixon as "unproved," and undoubtedly would have done so and dismissed the jury.

But dealing with the jury of public opinion is different and more difficult. According to all the polls, it has already at this point brought in a majority verdict against the President of "guilty to some degree." Mr. Nixon will have to persuade his audience, including many who earnestly hope he can do so, that he is innocent of any attempt to cover up the Watergate crimes.

As the testimony before the Ervin committee now stands, he has considerable material to work with. Of the 35 witnesses who appeared before the committee during its 37 days of hearings before recess, only one — former White House Counsel John Dean — testified that Mr. Nixon knew of and either condoned or assisted in the coverup.

Several witnesses who were not beholden to the President and had nothing to gain by holding back information testified that they had no evidence that the President was involved in the coverup and did not believe he was involved.

One important part of Dean's documentation, that Mr. Nixon responded favorably to Dean's remark that it might take a million dollars to "take care" of the convicted Watergate burglars, was contradicted on the basis of the tapes. H. R. Haldeman testified that after the President had said it would not be difficult to raise that amount, the completed sentence included, "but that would be wrong."

Part of Mr. Nixon's difficulty is that he cannot make his case from a position of much credibility. He has had to withdraw previous statements authorized by him.

Further, the evidence is now on the record to show that officials responsible to the President committed noxious crimes against the law and the American people, discrediting their government and despoiling the democratic process.

The sum of these crimes is greater than their separate parts:

1 — Illegal collection of campaign funds.

2 — Misuse of campaign funds.

3 — Violation of election campaign fund reporting laws.

4 — Illegal breaking and entering of a psychiatrist's office without a search warrant, and attempted theft of private papers in an effort to convict another of the theft of the government's private papers.

5 — Burglary and bugging of Democratic National Committee headquarters by employees responsible to the White House and the Committee for the Re-Election of the President.

6 — Committing perjury and suborning perjury.

7 — Attempts by White House aides to obstruct justice.

8 — Grievously improper attempts to use such nonpartisan agencies of the government as the CIA and the FBI to deter the investigation of crimes already committed. Example: requests that the CIA illegally use its secret funds to pay the bail and salaries of convicted Watergate criminals.

9 — Attempts to use the Internal Revenue Service to punish critics and reward friends of the Administration.

10 — Theft of Sen. Edmund Muskie's stationery and the fabrication and distribution of letters imputing offensive crimes against another Democratic candidate, thus hurting them both.

11 — Fabricating diplomatic cables to try to show that President John Kennedy procured the assassination of Ngo Dinh Diem of South Vietnam.

Those in the White House and in the Committee for the Re-Election of the President who committed or procured these acts had a tremendous stake in covering them up.

Simpler Solution To Sales Tax Surplus

I have read with interest the length to which the State Legislature has gone to cut that nasty 6 per cent sales tax that went into effect July 1, 1973.

Our highly paid, well-endowed Legislators have, after weeks of night and day negotiations come up with three possible solutions. One would be a six-month suspension of the one per cent tax boost beginning Oct. 1. Another plan, by our own Assemblyman William T. Bagley, would cut the present 6 per cent tax by a half cent for at least a year beginning Jan. 1, 1974. The third plan is similar to the Bagley plan but would begin in October.

I would like to propose a fourth solution to the 1 per cent sales tax hike — cut the sales tax back to 5 per cent immediately! Doesn't that seem logical, Mr. Bagley?

Thanks To Motorist Who Responded Quickly

I would like to express my deep appreciation to the young woman who was driving a light grey car on Highway 101 on Aug. 8 at approximately 12:05 p.m. near the entrance ramp southbound at Corte Madera. As my car entered the freeway at approximately 35 mph the station wagon in front of me suddenly braked for no reason. There was a young boy of about 5 years of age sitting at the rear of the wagon with his head and arm hanging out the window.

I slammed on my brakes to avoid hitting him and my car went into a spin and turned around and straddled the first two lanes. The young woman in the second lane reacted immediately and most fortunately stopped in time to avoid hitting the driver's door. I know she saved my life and I would like to take this opportunity to thank her. I would also like to warn parents against allowing children to hang out of car windows. As the mother of three children, I can't understand why parents permit their children to be in such a hazardous situation.

Coalition Forms To Battle Collective Bargaining Bills

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Last Nov. 7, an initiative proposition which would have mandated union collective bargaining for state employees was buried under a two-thirds "no" vote.

Despite that resounding public turndown, two bills to permit exclusive union bargaining for public employees in California are being pushed in the legislature. They are Assembly Bill 1243 by Assemblyman Bob Moretti, D-North Hollywood, and Senate Bill 400 by Sen. George R. Moscone, D-San Francisco. (It is perhaps not mere coincidence that both Moretti and Moscone aspire to win the Democratic nomination for governor next year, and both hope for union support to get it.)

AB 1243 would specifically authorize the "agency shop" — under which payment of union dues is a requirement for holding a job — in all California public employment. SB 400, which applies only to school employees, inferentially permits the "agency shop."

DESPITE THE overwhelming rejection of last November's Proposition 15, which would have imposed such collective bargaining on state employees (but not other public employees), opposition to AB 1243 and SB 400 has been spotty and ill-organized.

A coalition now has been formed to fight both bills.

Called the Coalition for Public Rights, it was put together by the Professional Educators of Los Angeles, Secondary and Elementary Teachers Organization of Los Angeles, Professional Educators Group of California, and Friends of Education.

The coalition is headed by Robert H. Monson, with a mailing address of P. O. Box 403, Calabasas 91302.

ALTHOUGH THE opposition so far appears to be centered mainly in Los Angeles County, the effect of either SB 400 or AB 1243 would be as devastating in Marin, Sonoma or even Alpine County.

Under AB 1243, all public employees would be subject to exclusive union representation. State and federal laws now prohibit such exclusive bargaining — although they do not prohibit union organization of public employees. Getting the laws changed along the line of AB 1243 is a national goal of the American Federation of Labor-Congress of Industrial Organizations. The reason is simple: Public employment is the fastest-growing portion of the job market; getting dues from all public employees therefore would vastly enrich union treasuries.

Teachers would be included, along with policemen, social workers, court clerk and the rest, under AB 1243. But SB 400 is for teachers and school employees only. It would bring union control in the most sensitive area: the eduction of children.

SINCE SB 400 would make just about everything relating to conduct of the schools — except how to pay the bills — subject to union negotiation, it would in effect turn control of the public schools over to the dominant unions.

School trustees, unlike directors of private corporations, do not have the options of closing plants, cutting back production, or taking other means to counter rising labor costs. They must operate under a multitude of laws which require them not only to keep the schools open for a specified number of days each year but also restrict class sizes, impose transportation costs, and otherwise reduce their ability to maneuver financial resources. And the finances they have are not theirs; they are taxes wrung from the public by compulsion.

IN ITS CAMPAIGN against the two bills, the Coalition for Public Rights quotes State Sen. John Stull, R-Encinitas: "Public employment is not a proper arena for such labor-management negotiations, because tax dollars are involved."

An elected official of quite different political persuasion from state Senator Stull said it better nearly 40 years ago, when President Franklin D. Roosevelt declared:

"All government employees should realize that the process of collective bargaining as we understand it cannot be transplanted into the public service."

Being 'On The Take' Vs. Conspiring To Rob, Punish, Malign Opponents

WASHINGTON — Fifteen years ago, a senior Democrat sat across the table from me in a restaurant near the state house at Annapolis, Md., and delivered a late evening civics lecture I have never forgotten.

It has stuck because then, no doubt, I was more innocent, or anyhow idealistic. I had never heard a politician let out such an unguarded self-revelation before. Ever since, it has been part of the frame in which I see Annapolis, a capital that by reputation houses one of the more venal state legislatures in recent history. And more specifically, it says something that needs saying about political assumptions in the booming Baltimore suburbs where Spiro T. Agnew came into politics, before he was governor or vice president or under investigation by federal authorities.

IF YOU REPORTERS are so smart, this legislator said, why do you go around quoting and publicizing all these do-good jerks around here? They're not making any money, just making speeches. I made $40,000 last year and I'm going to make a hell of a lot more. If you're so smart, why don't you run for something yourself? That's where the money is.

Since then, that legislator has served a prison term — convicted of taking money he should not have. In the past decade, a young Democrat who was then a freshman in the same county legislative delegation, known as the golden boy of his party in Maryland, has risen to the U.S. Senate — and has been convicted of taking a bribe there. Over the years, the investigations have been many, the convictions several, and more legal action is yet to come in Baltimore County.

The tremendous growth of the county in the postwar period, when rezoning, paving and construction spread crazily, placed thousands of annual opportunities for shady profits before politicians and contractors. The opportunities have been the same in most of the great suburban jurisdictions of the country, but in Baltimore County they coincided with a political atmosphere in which boodle seemed as standard as sample ballots, an attitude expressed in that conversation remembered above.

MR. AGNEW CAME into politics through the board of zoning appeals, where fortunes are involved and high-rollers in land speculation are made and broken. Then he was county executive, then governor. The opportunities were everywhere around him.

The intention here, in recalling the atmosphere from which Agnew sprang, is to do the opposite of prejudging his situation. He is not even indicted, much less convicted, and he says he will not be.

In our country we have and should insist on absolute standards for people on the public payroll; it will be a sad day when we start congratulating officeholders just for being innocent of crime. Yet, considering the possibilities that have surrounded him, the vice president may deserve more than routine credit if he turns out spotless in all this. Against his background, this could help instead of hurt his presidential ambitions.

AGAINST HIS BACKGROUND, that is, as well as his foreground — the atmosphere from which he sprang, and the one he sprang into. Baltimore County, where not every politician is on the take but everybody assumes everybody else is, is just the kind of place so many apathetic Americans were thinking of when they shrugged in the early stages of the national election scandal and said, "That's just politics. They all do it."

But there is a qualitative difference between the acceptance of tainted money, even in sizable sums, and the creation of burglary squads, eavesdropping, blacklisting, retaliating, conspiring to keep one man in the White House. Amid a secret-police apparatus, a man who is merely suspected of pocketing dollar kickbacks may look downright wholesome by comparison.

Plenty Of Costly Pork In That Big State Budget

By RUS WALTON

Your money is burning a hole in the politicians' pockets.

And through that hole has poured a big, fat ($9.4 billion) state budget marbled with the fat of excess and extravagance.

Verne Orr, state director of finance, admits the 1973-74 budget is full of "pork."

That "pork" is costing taxpayers hundreds of millions of extra dollars. It comes in various chunks and sizes. Here are a few:

—A $200 million increase, this year over last, in the operational and capital costs of state agencies;

—Another $226 million for an average 12 per cent increase in salaries for state and employes. (As California Taxpayers Association suggests, an increase of 6 per cent would have been equitable. State workers have received a 42 per cent pay increase over the past five years.);

—An increase of $68 million for U.C. and the state colleges and universities in the face of declining enrollment;

—$42 million for a down payment on Sen. Randolph Collier's twin towers (or, whatever form new legislative quarters take), and —At least another $50 million in new park and recreation projects to "buy" the budget votes to sustain Collier's seed money for those memorial towers.

Those excesses and extravagences were made easier, if not possible, by that $826 million surplus hanging in the Sacramento packing house. By the end of the year that carcass may be bloated to $1 billion.

Politicians would have you believe that surplus was unexpected. Back in December, 1971, and again in March, 1972, this column predicted the huge surplus and suggested it might go as high as $1 billion.

A surplus is no excuse for increased and unnecessary spending. Surplus or no, any politican with a sense of responsibility should approach each expenditure, each increased or new program, with this question:

"If I had to vote for a tax increase to pay for this appropriation, would I have the guts to do it?"

SB 90, the "tax reform" package of 1972, is a monstrous measure. Within the next four years, it will increase the cost of state government by at least $1 billion a year.

This year's "trailer" bill to correct SB 90's deficiencies and technical discrepancies is almost as voluminous as the original legislation. That's what happens when politics supersede reason and ambition overrides responsibility; the cost of political passion is paid by the taxpayer.

That one-cent state sales tax increase? It's part of that damnable tax reform package.

Heat from the taxpayers has singed the tails of the politicians and they rush to delay or temporarily reduce that $650 million tax take. They have the gall to claim they are "saving" us $320 million by temporarily repealing or reducing the one-cent increase. How can the remaining increase of $320 million be considered a saving?

Opponents of Governor Reagan's tax-and-spend limitations complain such restriction would put state government in a strait-jacket. After this year's wanton extravagence and hanky-panky with the surplus and the budget and the sales tax, who but a politician would deny such a strait-jacket is essential?

Score One For Friendly Computer: No More Long Lines At College

"They" have had a particularly bad year — "they have seen that almost everything is worse than it used to be.

One exception, though, is the doing away with a longtime nuisance at College of Marin; the endless lines that used to accompany fall registration at the school. A friendly computer is being used now so that students can choose their classes during quiet, scheduled conferences with their counselors.

The computer tells the counselors each day what classes are still open — and even suggests that "they" can schedule additional ones if necessary. When school starts, students just go to classes, hand in cards if they intend to stay, and that's it.

WHEN I-J REPORTER Pat Perry moved back to her native England earlier this month, she received a send-off from her colleagues at a party where a cake baked at San Quentin Prison was the highlight of the evening.

The convict-baker who frosted it decorated the cake with a ship, even though he knew Mrs. Perry was taking a plane. "I need the practice on ships," he said. When asked why the frosting was not yellow as he had promised, he replied, "Listen, I didn't get in here by doing things right."

WATCHING THE Bank of America parking lot on a quiet summer morning, one sees the Whistlestop Wheels bus pull up, a young man hop out, help three elderly women out and then wait while they do their banking.

This service for Marin's senior citizens, described in a recent I-J article, is an especially worthwhile enterprise — these women probably could have banked by mail, but how much nicer to be out in the world and go in person to one's bank!

This thought led to further speculation. The food situation is bad enough for all of us, but most of us who live in Marin can get by eating more casseroles and less steak — or whatever.

But for the elderly on fixed incomes, who probably could afford precious little meat even before the prices started to soar, the inflation is particularly awful.

In some communities, operators of moderate-priced restaurants or cafeterias offer a "senior citizens' special" each day. This set menu, usually including soup or salad, home-type entree and vegetables, dessert and coffee, is priced cheaper than other offerings, but it is sold in off-hours — such as between 1:30 and 5 p.m.

This gives the elderly a chance to have one good hot meal a day — and since many are not big eaters, anyway, sufficies for a combination lunch and dinner.

Wonder if some local group could get such a plan going in Marin?

Reagan Takes Middle Road On Contenders

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan announced Tuesday he could support any of the five major Republican contenders for governor in 1974.

Reagan also gave Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, who has been beset by political problems, another vote of confidence for the job he has done as his understudy.

Asked at a news conference whether he thought Reinecke had fully lived up to his expectations as lieutenant governor and whether he could support him in a gubernatorial race, Reagan replied: "I certainly do."

Reagan then also was asked whether there were any major GOP gubernatorial contenders he could not support. The reporter mentioned the names of former Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch, Controller Houston I. Flournoy, Attorney General Evelle J. Younger and HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger, the target of a "draft" movement by some of Reagan's "kitchem cabinet" campaign contributors.

"No," Reagan replied. "We've got an abundance of riches on our side. It may turn out to be a problem for us."

Reagan reiterated he was staying neutral in the race, and had so informed the wealthy contributors who were trying to draft Weinberger.

The two-term governor disclosed he met with one group of GOP financiers at a San Francisco airport hotel Aug. 6. Reagan said he called the meeting to discuss financing of this tax limitation initiative campaign, but some in attendance also informed him they were promoting Weinberger for governor.

Those attending the meeting, sources said, included Los Angeles auto dealer Holmes Tuttle, Los Angeles drugstore executive Justin Dart, former Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard of Los Altos Hills and San Francisco industrialist Jacquelin Hume.

Reagan also discussed these topics at his news conference:

Death —He said he would be "inclined" to sign a bill restoring the death penalty for only a few crimes, then seek capital punishment for other crimes later.

Indian —The governor said Timm Williams, formerly of Fairfax, his Indian affairs adviser, was fired because he thought "we could get a better rate of achievement" from another Indian.

Future —Reagan reiterated he will not seek a third gubernatorial term next year.

Mansion —People who talk about building a governor's mansion downtown are "thinking about a tourist attraction," Reagan said. "They're not thinking about the governors who are going to live there and have children." He said two Presidents' wives have told him they went "stir crazy" after one week in the White House, which is located in downtown Washington, "because you can't even go downstairs and you can't even walk on the grounds."

Reward —Reagan posted a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the assailants who fatally beat and shot Los Angeles police officer Fred Early.

Will retire

Water Chief Puccinelli Will Retire

Hector P. Puccinelli, superintendent of construction and maintenance, and assistant chief engineer for the Marin Municipal Water District, will retire Sept. 1 after 18 years with the district.

Puccinelli's career with Marin Municipal included a wide variety of jobs, from engineering design to director of all construction and maintenance.

The 65-year-old Fairfax man joined the district as an assistant engineer in 1955 and was appointed superintendent of construction in 1964. In August of last year, he was appointed special assistant to Gen. Mgr. William A. Seeger.

Puccinelli and his wife live at 47 Belmont Avenue. The couple has two grown children.

A retirement dinner for the superintendent is planned for 8 p.m., Aug. 31 at the San Geronimo National Golf Club.

Senators Set Talks At Dinner

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., and Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, will speak at a fund-raising dinner for Marin Alternative on Aug. 25.

The dinner, limited to 200 persons, will be held from 5 to 10 p.m. at the Kent Woodlands home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Watkin, 10 Acorn Way.

Cranston will be present from 5 to 6:30 p.m., and speak at 6 p.m. during no-host cocktails. Behr will speak after dinner.

Reservations for the $8.50-a-plate dinner are being handled by Marin Alternative, Kentfield.

20-Day Term Given For Welfare Fraud

A Corte Madera woman said by the Marin Probation Department to be a highly unlikely candidate for legal trouble in the future has been sentenced to 20 days in jail for welfare fraud.

Marilyn Joyce Gaudet, 29, of 16 Harbor Drive, also was placed on probation for two years Monday by Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court.

Best ordered Miss Gaudet to repay the money she fraudulently took from the Marin Department of Social Services when the amount has been determined.

She pleaded guilty July 3 to receiving welfare payments even though she was working at a restaurant at the time.

The Marin Probation Department said of Miss Gaudet, "few people are less likely to repeat an offense."

Her probation report says Miss Gaudet never has been in trouble before and claimed the welfare money due to "additional expenses and pressures brought on by her child's medical problem," hypertension.

Judge Best, noting that Miss Gaudet is employed, said she may serve her sentence on weekends.

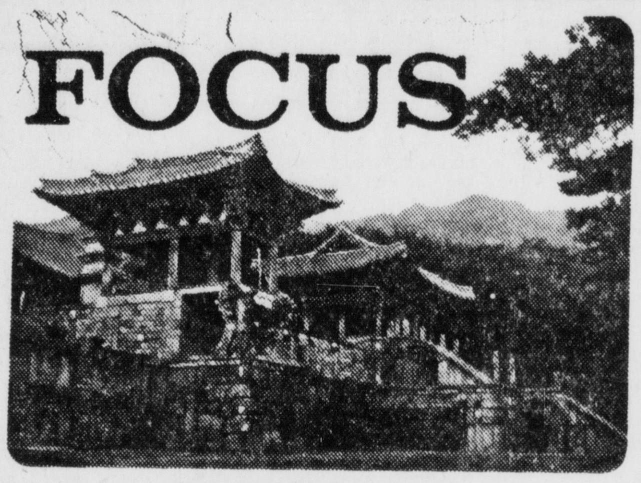
The Marin District Attorney's Office had recommended Miss Gaudet spend three or four months in jail.

Tryouts Are Set By Ross Players

Tryouts for the Ross Valley Players fall production of Ronald Alexander's comedy, "Nobody Loves an Albatross," will be held at 8 p.m., Aug. 21, 22 and 23 at the Barn in the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross.

There are parts for seven men, five women and one 12-year-old girl in the play which will start Oct. 19 and run Friday and Saturday night through Nov. 17.

FOCUS



Country With A Seoul

Korea, as this Buddhist temple suggests, is the Land of the Morning Calm. It was divided after World War II, and the South Koreans officially proclaimed the Republic of Korea 25 years ago today. South Korea was once primarily an agricultural area with little industry. The main crops are rice, barley, wheat, tobacco and beans, but poor farming conditions limit Korea's agricultural potential. Large amounts of foreign aid have helped the South Koreans build an industrial base in mining. South Korea supplies 6 per cent of the world's tungsten needs. Other industries such as electronics, rubber, and shipbuilding have expanded rapidly.

DO YOU KNOW — Who was the first President of the Republic of Korea?

TUESDAY'S ANSWER — The gypsy moth's caterpillar stage is the destructive one.

Jail Term For Welfare Fraud Set

Hopefully, we'll never see you again under similar circumstances," a Marin Superior Court Judge told Imogene Riley, 47, as he sentenced her for welfare fraud.

Mrs. Riley, of 67 Merrydale Road, San Rafael, was ordered Monday by Judge Charles Read Best to spend 20 days in jail and to pay back $5,000 to the County of Marin.

Her term can be served on weekends, Judge Best said.

Mrs. Riley pleaded guilty June 14 to claiming $5,000 in welfare benefits from January 1967 to August 1972 though she was not entitled to the money.

Her probation report says she is "unlikely to reoffend" and says she used the money to pay for medical care required by a handicapped son.

Few Marriages

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Out of Singapore's more than two million population, 18,217 couples were married in 1972, according to Chan Shee Seng, senior parliamentary secretary, social affairs.

Photos Displayed At Civic Center

A photo essay on Marin County by Mill Valley photojournalist Tim Thompson will be on exhibit through Sept. 14 in the foyer of the supervisors' chambers at the Civic Center.

Thompson has done work in the Bay Area for Sunset Magazine, Sierra Club and Friends of the Earth. He spent two months last year in Europe photographing expatriate jazz musicians for Rolling Stone magazine.

Exhibit hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Agreement Near On Sales Tax Rollback

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A two-house conference committee trying to work out a plan to delay the unneeded one-cent sales tax increase is near agreement, according to a top Democratic negotiator.

Assemblyman Joe A. Gonsalves of La Mirada Tuesday said the six-member committee was "leaning in favor" of Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposal to roll back the penny increase for six months and grant an income tax rebate on a sliding scale.

"We have almost come to the conclusion that you've got to accept the governor's terms or you're not going to get a sales tax delay," Gonsalves said in an interview.

He said the conference committee also was considering another plan which would grant the same sales tax relief and provide a straight 20 per cent income tax rebate. The second alternative is a variation of another proposal Reagan once made.

Reagan's proposal for a one-time income tax rebate on a sliding scale would grant a total exemption to families with incomes of $8,000 or less and single persons with incomes of $4,000 or less.

Those incomes from that point up to $15,000 would be given a 35 per cent reduction; from $15,000 to $20,000, a 30 per cent cut; from $20,000 to $25,000 a 25 per cent credit; and everything over $25,000 a 20 per cent reduction.

Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ojai, said the major obstacle to agreement on a plan continues to be Reagan's tax limitation initiative scheduled for a Nov. 6 election. The initiative would grant a straight 20 per cent income tax cut and would conflict with the sliding scale approach.

If agreement could be reached quickly, the sales tax would be reduced back to five cents on the dollar for six months beginning Oct. 1.

SALMON FINE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A $45,000 bill requiring the state to establish safety standards for compressed air used by SCUBA divers has advanced to the Senate floor.

The measure (SB578) by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-Tiburon, was approved Tuesday by the Finance Committee on a 7-6 vote, the minimum needed.

Behr told the committee there was "considerable concern among some SCUBA divers that the air they get is not as good as it could be."

Under the measure, the state Health Department would set and maintain the standards. After the first year, costs would be borne by the sale of licenses to air dealers.

BART CURB DIES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill restricting the way the Bay Area Rapid Transit District (BART) can spend its money was killed Tuesday by the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee.

The measure (SB160) by Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, would have required BART to first meet its own commitments for service before spending district funds for extensions beyond current boundaries. It died on a 2-9 vote.

Nejedly contended BART should spent its funds to complete the system in the three charter BART counties— San Francisco, Alameda and Contra Costa—before the district spends funds for service to other areas such as down the Peninsula.

However, Assemblyman Leo T. McCarthy, D-San Francisco, said such a move would be a "contradiction of everything we've done with BART" to promote unity of the Bay Area instead of creating artificial boundaries to limit BART service.

PENSION DEFEAT

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A multimillion-dollar bill reducing the amount government workers pay for retirement benefits has been defeated by the Senate Finance Committee.

Rejected on a 3-8 vote Tuesday, the bill would have cut the amount state and some local workers put into the Public Employes Retirement system from 7 per cent of their wages to 5 per cent at an estimated yearly cost of $19.3 million.

Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, author of the bill (SB1013), contended it was needed in case state workers do not get all of an 11.9 per cent average pay increase voted by the legislature. The raise has been challenged by the federal government as violating antiinflationary wage guidelines.

REAGAN REBUFF

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's controversial proposal to change the rules of courtroom evidence by eliminating the so-called "exclusionary rule" has been rejected by the Senate Finance Committee.

In place of the "exclusionary rule", the bill would establish a procedure allowing persons to sue for damages or suffering as a result of an illegal police search or seizure but would allow the evidence obtained to be used in court, which is now barred.

The measure failed Tuesday on a party line 6-5 vote, with Democrats casting the dissents and Republicans voting "aye." It needed at least seven favorable votes for passage.

Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ojai, author of the bill, asked for and received permission to seek to have the measure's defeat reconsidered.

DIVER SAFETY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A $45,000 bill requiring the state to establish safety standards for compressed air used by SCUBA divers has advanced to the Senate floor.

The measure (SB578) by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-Tiburon, was approved Tuesday by the Finance Committee on a 7-6 vote, the minimum needed.

Behr told the committee there was "considerable concern among some SCUBA divers that the air they get is not as good as it could be."

Under the measure, the state Health Department would set and maintain the standards. After the first year, costs would be borne by the sale of licenses to air dealers.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, August 15, the 227th day of 1973 with 138 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

American novelist Edna Ferber was born Aug. 15, 1887.

Also on this day in history:

In 1914, an American ship passed from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, officially opening the Panama Canal.

In 1935, humorist Will Rogers and aviator Wiley Post were killed when their plane crashed in Alaska.

In 1966, the New York Herald Tribune went out of business after 131 years of publication.

In 1971, President Nixon ordered a 90-day wage-price-rent freeze and announced imposition of a 10 per cent surcharge on foreign imports.

A thought for the day: British novelist George Meredith said: "Who rises from prayer a better man, the prayer is answered."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.

Other areas:

San Francisco, Clean air.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Growth Pains Are Real, But Not Always Of Physical Origin

Guilty by association is a convenient legal term, but it also has many medical implications. Teething gets the blame for almost anything that happens to a child when the teeth are erupting. The same can be said of the aches and pains while a child is growing. The best example of this is "growing pains," especially when the aching occurs in a rapid growth period. By definition, these are intermittent limb pains that tend to recur and are not specifically located in the joints. They develop most often in the legs and late in the day or night.

BUT PHYSICAL growth is not painful. It is for this reason that other causes are considered. For many years, we have blamed fatigue, overexertion, poor posture, and damp living conditions. Most growing children play hard; they run, jump, fall, climb, twist their legs, and do many other physical feats. If an adult did this, he would ache all over at the end of the day.

But many physicians believe that the pains are of emotional origin. In other words, emotional growth may be very painful. Many of these children also have abdominal pains, headaches, or both. But before this diagnosis is made the doctor excludes organic causes, such as acute rheumatism, orthopedic disorders, bleeding (hemmorhagic) conditions, and cardiac distrubances that affect the circulation to the legs. When remote possibilities are ruled out, an emotional reason is considered.

ODDLY, a condition known as restless legs in adults is closely akin to growing pains in children. This distrubance is thought to be of circulatory or nervous origin. The restlessness usually begins after going to bed. Many of the victims develop an intolerable creeping internal itching sensation in both calves and lower legs. The sensation is so unpleasant that the individual is compelled to keep moving his limbs because movement brings relief.

Questions on medical topics will be answered if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, P.O. Box 330, San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

ALL ARMS AND LEGS

E. M. writes: My 15 year old son seems to be normal in every respect except that his arms and legs are so long. He is 6 feet 3 inches tall and weighs 116 pounds. Should I take him to a doctor?

REPLY

Yes, because of the possibility that he has an hereditary disorder known as Marfan's syndrome. These individuals are tall and have very long arms and legs with loose jointedness and stooping shoulders. They may also develop eye and cardiovascular defects. Abraham Lincoln is believed to have inherited this condition. On the other hand, your son may look as if he's all arms and legs but the proportions could change. After all, he is only 15 and a few more inches and a dozen more pounds may improve his appearance.

MENIERE'S TEST

C. D. writes: Are there any tests to determine the existence of Meniere's disease or must diagnosis be made from symptoms alone?

REPLY

Diagnosis usually can be made from symptoms. A simple test for doubtful cases consists of putting cold water into the ear canal. This produces dizziness in those who have Meniere's disease. Sent stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this disorder.

Special Tax Election Passes Hurdles; Set

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — An election in Marin next spring to hike the property tax limit of the county's transit district appears certain.

Distressed county officials found the election could not be held without authorization by special legislation, but that problem apparently was cured Monday by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The legislator amended the authorization into an unrelated bill that is within about a week of final passage. The obliging bill was SB 272, a minor bill by Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ventura, relating to harbors and navigation. A spokesman for Bagley conceded there was "a little germaneness problem" since the tax has nothing to do with harbors and navigation, but said it will make no difference "if no one objects."

Under legislative rules, amendments are supposed to relate to the same purposes for which the bill was introduced.

Directors of the county transit district voted Aug. 7 to hike the limit from a nickel to 25 cents per $100 assessed valuation to expand local bus service. The rate would raise about $2,250,000 next fiscal year alone.

If it becomes law, the bill would permit the election to be held either next April or June.

Call Made For U.N. Membership

SEOUL (UPI) — South Korean President Park Chung-Hee called on North Korea today to accept his proposal that the two Koreas seek simultaneous membership in the United Nations.

Park made the call in a speech delivered at a ceremony marking the 28th anniversary of Korea's liberation from Japanese rule at the end of World War II in 1945.

Six-Month Terms Given Burglars

Two men who pleaded guilty to breaking into a San Rafael home have been sentenced to six months in jail.

Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court passed the sentences Monday on Frank Dennis Bautista, 20, of 95 Medway Road, San Rafael, and John Joseph Mueller, 19, of 1222 Cambridge Street, Novato.

Bautista also was placed on probation for a year, and Mueller for two years. They also were ordered to pay $27.75 back to Robert E. Eby, whose house they burglarized.

Mueller, according to his probation report, has an attitude of "verbalized reform and contrary behavior. He will do as he pleases in spite of what he says."

Bautista "fails to see the consequences of his behavior" and what he "fears most in life is being returned to an institution," his report says.

Behr Wants Electricity Commission

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Far-reaching legislation creating a new state commission with extremely broad powers over electrical energy has been drafted by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

The proposed California Commission on Electrical Energy would have exclusive power over rates and power plant siting, including nuclear plants.

It would be empowered to adopt by regulation any prohibitions, restrictions or other measures "as it deems necessary or desirable to control the consumption of electrical energy." In all actions, the legislation declares, the commission "shall be guided by the ethic of conservation of energy."

The tough language will be amended within a week into a skeleton bill by Behr, SB 1063, his staff said. The amendments, worked out with the Planning and Conservation League, give the propsoed commission far broader powers than would other bills previously introduced.

The Behr amendments would strip the Public Utilities Commission's jurisdiction over power plants. Conservationists long have claimed the PUC does not pay sufficient attention to the environmental consequences of continued power development.

The five-member, full-time commission would include one person qualified in the field of electric power production, one economist in the field of energy rates, one in environmental health, one in resource conservation and one without any required experience. One would be appointed by the governor, two by the Senate Rules Committee and two by the speaker of the Assembly.

Annual salary for the members would be $31,500, and $33,075 for the chairman. Terms would be six years, and limited to two consecutive terms.

Conflict of interest provisions would disqualify from membership anyone who received income from a company subject to commission jurisdiction in the preceding two years.

The commission would have one year to draw a state electrical energy policy stating what rate of power growth is reasonable "considering the limitations on the energy supply, environmental effects of power plants and the health, safety and welfare of the general public."

Any company planning an electric facility would have to file its plans for a permit six years before beginning construction, and pay a $25,000 fee. It also would have to offer three alternate sites.

The commission would be financed by a surcharge on power generation, a fee that would cost the average household 75 cents a year, according to the Planning and Conservation League. This would raise about $15 million a year, the league estimated.

During its first five years, the commission would require utilities to expand existing power plants and create a task force to recommend how to avert a power crisis.

Votes By Lawmakers Are Listed

WASHINGTON — Here is how California's senators and Marin and Sonoma County congressmen voted in roll calls just before the current congressional7recess:

Rep. William S. Mailliard voted for an amendment to require judicial review of the environmental impact of the Alaska pipeline. Rep. Donald H. Clausen voted against. The amendment failed, 198 for to 221 against.

Mailliard and Clausen both voted for a bill to allow continued use of chauffeured limousines by federal agency heads, killing a Senate prohibition on such use. The measure passed 222 to 189.

Senators Alan Cranston and John V. Tunney both voted to override the President's veto of the emergency medical services bill. The veto was overridden 71 to 16.

Cranston and Tunney also both voted for an amendment to immediately end the beef price freeze. This passed 84 to 5, but will have little effect since Congress recessed before the House acted on it, and the price freeze will expire next month anyhow.

Burglar Of School Gets Jail Term

A Fairfax man who admitted burglarizing Hill Junior High School in Novato June 14 has been sentenced to four months in jail and placed on probation for two years.

Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court also ordered George Roberts Jr., 18, to pay $60 to the school for damage done to the school during the break-in.

The Marin District Attorney's Office had recommended the jail term, saying Roberts needed a "jolt to wake him up."

Roberts, of 31 Willow Avenue, Fairfax, "gives little thought to the consequences of his behavior and demonstrates a lack of concern for other people," according to his probation report.

The report also calls him "a young man without any real sense of direction who avoids using any constructive potential he possesses."

Roberts pleaded guilty July 19 to the June 14 burglary as part of a plea bargain in which a second count of breaking into the same school April 14 was dismissed.

Show Series On Abortion Goes Ahead

NEW YORK (UPI) — CBS-TV said Tuesday it sold only one of six commercial spots for the rebroadcast of a controversial "Maude" show dealing with abortion and more than two dozen of its affiliates refused to carry the rerun.

CBS did, however, rerun the show Tuesday night and will air a second portion dealing with the same subject next week because to take it off the air would restrict the "creative process."

The shows, originally broadcast last November to an audience estimated by CBS at 30 million, has been criticized by Roman Catholic leaders and antiabortion organizations. In the show Maude, a middle-age housewife played by Bea Arthur, finds out she is pregnant and there follows a debate on whether she should get an abortion, which she does.

A spokesman for the network said that only one of the six 30-second segments reserved for commercials had been sold, indicating a reluctance by sponsors to be involved in a segment of a series normally sold out long before its airing on television.

The CBS spokesman said Tuesday the latest count showed that 25 of its approximately 200 affiliates had turned down the two segments. He added that the affiliates had the right to use or reject the "Maude" segments as they saw fit but that in the past the show had been broadcast by as many as 190 affiliates.

In Washington, the United States Catholic Conference reiterated a statement issued last week by its general secretary Bishop James S. Rausch, which in effect branded the two episodes as advocating abortion.

Rausch said that advocacy may not have been the intention of the producers "but it certainly is the result." He said, "There is room for serious discussion of controversial subjects on television but that was not the issue. The issue is advocacy of one side of a controversy presented under the guise of situation comedy and aired at a time when children make up a substantional part of the audience."

The bishop's statement was mailed to 20,000 parishes for public dissemination Aug. 8. The conference spokesman said that "presumably" 48 million Catholics were made aware of the statement.

"CBS feels comedy and satire have always been used to treat a wide range of situations," the spokesman said. "If these segments were excluded it would impose restrictions on the creative process and hinder the development of television."

He said the network was not taking a position on the subject.

Student Files Papers For Vacancy On College Board

Marc Conlan, 19-year-old student who lives in Belvedere, has filed candidacy papers for the vacancy on the Marin Community College District board.

He is the first candidate for the board in the Nov. 6 election.

Former San Rafael Board of Education member Lawrence I. Kramer has taken out papers but has not filed them, according to the county elections office.

Conlan has been a College of Marin student for the past five semesters and a student government officer for the past three. He has served as student body president and editor of the College of Marin Times.

His home is at 189 Beach Road.

He said in a campaign statement that through his "service in the college committee system, which represents administrators, teachers and students," he has become "acquainted with the problems and ideals of all those groups."

He termed the role of the trustee "a very precarious one, caught between the ever-increasing student demands on the college for new, innovative and expensive programs and the ever-increasing taxpayer demands not to have to pay for them. . ."

"But the college is not just a simple business enterprise," Conlan said, "and many trustees do not realize this. They elevate statistics to the status of the 'revealed word,' ignoring the felt needs of the community, and forgetting they are dealing with people, not soup cans."

Conlan said he is running "to balance this point of view on the board."

He also said he thinks it important with a second campus opening scheduled in Novato, it is important "to have someone on the board who will not just blindly vote for a whole host of new expensive administrative positions of questionable necessity. . ."

Man Found Sane; Fire Case Is Set

A man accused of setting fire to a home near San Rafael has been bound over to Marin Superior Court to stand trial.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court ordered Stephen Eugene Arnold, 22, of no known address, to appear in the higher court Monday after finding there is enough evidence to try him.

Arnold's case had been interrupted until he could be examined by psychiatrists, but proceedings were begun again when the reports showed he is sane.

Arnold is accused of setting fire to a home at 31 Manzanita Avenue in Bayside Acres belonging to Florence Brown.

X-Ray Unit Scheduled At College

A mobile X-ray unit will be available at the College of Marin several days next month to give teachers and other school employees free chest x-rays, the Marin County Board of Education was told Tuesday

School employees are required to furnish proof they are free of tuberculosis when they are hired and again at least every four years.

The county health department still provides patch tests but no longer is giving chest x-rays, according to Robert E Spain, assistant county superintendent Since the patch tests are not considered completely reliable, the county schools office made arrangements for the mobile unit

The cost is being prorated in the various school districts, he said, with private and parochial school employees also able to use the unit on the same basis.

The mobile unit will be in the college physical education parking lot from 10 a.m to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m Sept. 5, 6, 7, 11, 12, 13 and 14.

New Reward In Murder Of Ranger

Two California hunters organizations have offered rewards totaling $1,500 for information leading to the conviction of the killer of National Park Service Ranger Kenneth C Patrick at Point Reyes National Seashore

The California Rifle and Pistol Association on Tuesday offered a $1,000 reward and the California Wildlife Federation agreed to provide $500 for the information

The Independent-Journal has already offered a $1,000 "Secret Witness" reward for information leading to apprehension and conviction of the slayer

Patrick, shot to death near the Mount Vision Overlook Road on Aug 5 is the first National Park Service ranger slain in the line of duty since 1916

The Marin County Sheriff's Department and Federal Bureau of Investigation have proceeded on the theory that Patrick had been shot by a poacher whom he surprised in the early morning.

The case remains unsolved.

Development Control Ground Rules Reviewed In Petaluma

Ground rules for the 1973-74 Petaluma Development Allotment Control Board underwent only minor changes in review today before the Petaluma City Council

The citizen's board will again review all applications for residential developments and recommend to the council which should be built under the limit of 500 new living units per year

The council made few changes from procedures followed by last year's board on the advice of its special legal counsel, Robert T Anderson of Oakland.

Anderson advised the council not to make major changes because a lawsuit against the growth control plan is still pending in federal court The construction industry association has charged the growth limitation plan violates constitutional rights.

The council agreed the 500-unit limit is still valid, but said the number should remain flexible since many of the 422 units awarded last year have not yet been built

Councilman Robert E Daly said the council should consider requiring a good faith bond from developers to assure construction within a reasonable period to avoid the crush of 1,000 units being built in one year "That's where we got into trouble before, when everything was built at once," he said.

Senior planner Frank B Gray said only two allotments totaling 37 units have not yet made any preparation for building He said others have been held up by lack of financing, procedural or legal problems

The council said the board should also consider allocating more single family housing units for the east side since developers already have approval for 347 potential apartment units.

"We should definitely go with more single family homes," Councilman Robert A. Brunner said. "The apartments are all filled up, but maybe that's because people can't find homes to buy "

Police Chief Larry D Higgins and Fire Chief Joseph F Ellwood said they would submit more detailed recommendations to the board this year on what to look for in safety features of developments

Higgins said he would send prospective developers questionnaires on security systems they plan for houses along with recommendations for improved locks on windows and doors, lighting and house number identification

A resolution incorporating the new procedures will be formally considered at the city council meeting Monday at 7 30 p m at city hall

Giants Hurt By Luzinski

SAN FRANCISCO—If Greg Luzinski played all his games against the San Francisco Giants, he might some day break Babe Ruth's home run record.

The powerful Philadelphia outfielder blasted a pair of homers to beat the Giants 4-3 at fog-swept Candlestick Park Tuesday night.

Luzinski, a muscular 220-pounder who turned down a flock of college football scholarships to play baseball, now has hit five homers in seven games against San Francisco this season.

"I can't explain it," Luzinski said. "I also hit pretty good in Wrigley Field against the Cubs."

Both of Luzinski's homers were to right field. One was aided by a 19-mile per hour wind.

"That's only four off-field homers I have hit this season," he said. Luzinski has 21 homers.

In the seven games against San Francisco he has a .464 batting average and has driven in 13 runs.

Luzinski's slugging made a winner out of Jim Lonborg for the 10th time this season. He gave up 11 hits but the Giants left nine runners on base, including three in the ninth.

Lonborg said he has had to learn to pitch all over again since coming to the National League.

"You have to learn the hitters. That's what hurt me early in the season. But I'm making progress," he said.

He got great defensive help from catcher Bob Boone, who made one out at the plate and threw out pinch-runner Mike Phillips in the eighth inning.

He tagged San Francisco's Dave Rader out at the plate in the fifth and then gunned down Phillips on a short wild pitch. Had Phillips been safe, he would have scored the tying run on a long fly by Gary Matthews.

Jim Barr, now 9-12, was the losing pitcher and was the victim of both Luzinski homers.

Manager Charlie Fox blamed the defeat on mistakes.

"We're not doing the fundamental things," he said. A missed sacrifice in the ninth inning cost the Giants another chance to score the tying run.

The Giants and Phils play again this afternoon with Juan Marichal (9-8) pitching for San Francisco against Wayne Twitchell (11-4).

Nastase's Mind Back On Tennis

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ilie Nastase, the impetuous Romanian who left Cincinnati, last weekend fighting over money, has his mind back on tennis.

He began practicing Tuesday with his Romanian Davis Cup teammates for the Interzone Finals matches against the favored United States squad. One reason the Americans are favored is that the three-day competition starting Saturday at nearby Alamo will be on cement courts at Round Hill Country Club.

"Traditionally, we're not used to hard courts," Nastase said at a news conference here Tuesday, speaking on behalf of his countrymen who favor clay courts.

A draw at 3 p.m. EDT Friday will determine when Nastase will face U.S. star Stan Smith in singles. The old rivals will play either Saturday or Monday, and it will be their first meeting since last December, when Nastase won a five-set match at a tournament in Spain.

U.S. team captain Dennis Ralston said Tuesday that Smith and Erik van Dillen will be his doubles team but that he hadn't decided yet who would be playing singles along with Smith.

Tom Gorman and Marty Reissen are the other players eligible for the matches against Romania. Nastase's teammates include Toma Ovici, Ionel Santeiu, Vierel Marcu and Dumitru Haraduau.

Two singles matches will be played Saturday, the doubles match will be Sunday and the final two singles Monday. Starting time will be 4 p.m. EDT daily.

The winning team will reach the Davis Cup championship round and face either Australia or Czechoslovakia. The U.S. team won the Cup the past two years with final round victories over Romania.

Reed Gets Starting Nod Vs. San Diego

GOLETA (UPI) — Joe Reed of the San Francisco 49ers will start Sunday against the San Diego Chargers at Candlestick Park.

As No. 3 quarterback, Reed was picked by Coach Dick Nolan to open ahead of regular John Brodie and backup Steve Spurrier. In the 49ers' 20-7 win over New England, Reed completed 16-of-23 passes for 198 yards and one touchdown.

Reed, San Francisco's 11th round choice in the 1971 draft, said he was "pretty excited" about starting against the Chargers.

"I've got a lot more confidence than I used to have," said the former Mississippi State star. "Now I feel that I can stand in the pocket and look at the defense instead of our blockers."

Reed said Brodie has helped him probably more than anyone else "and I appreciate it."

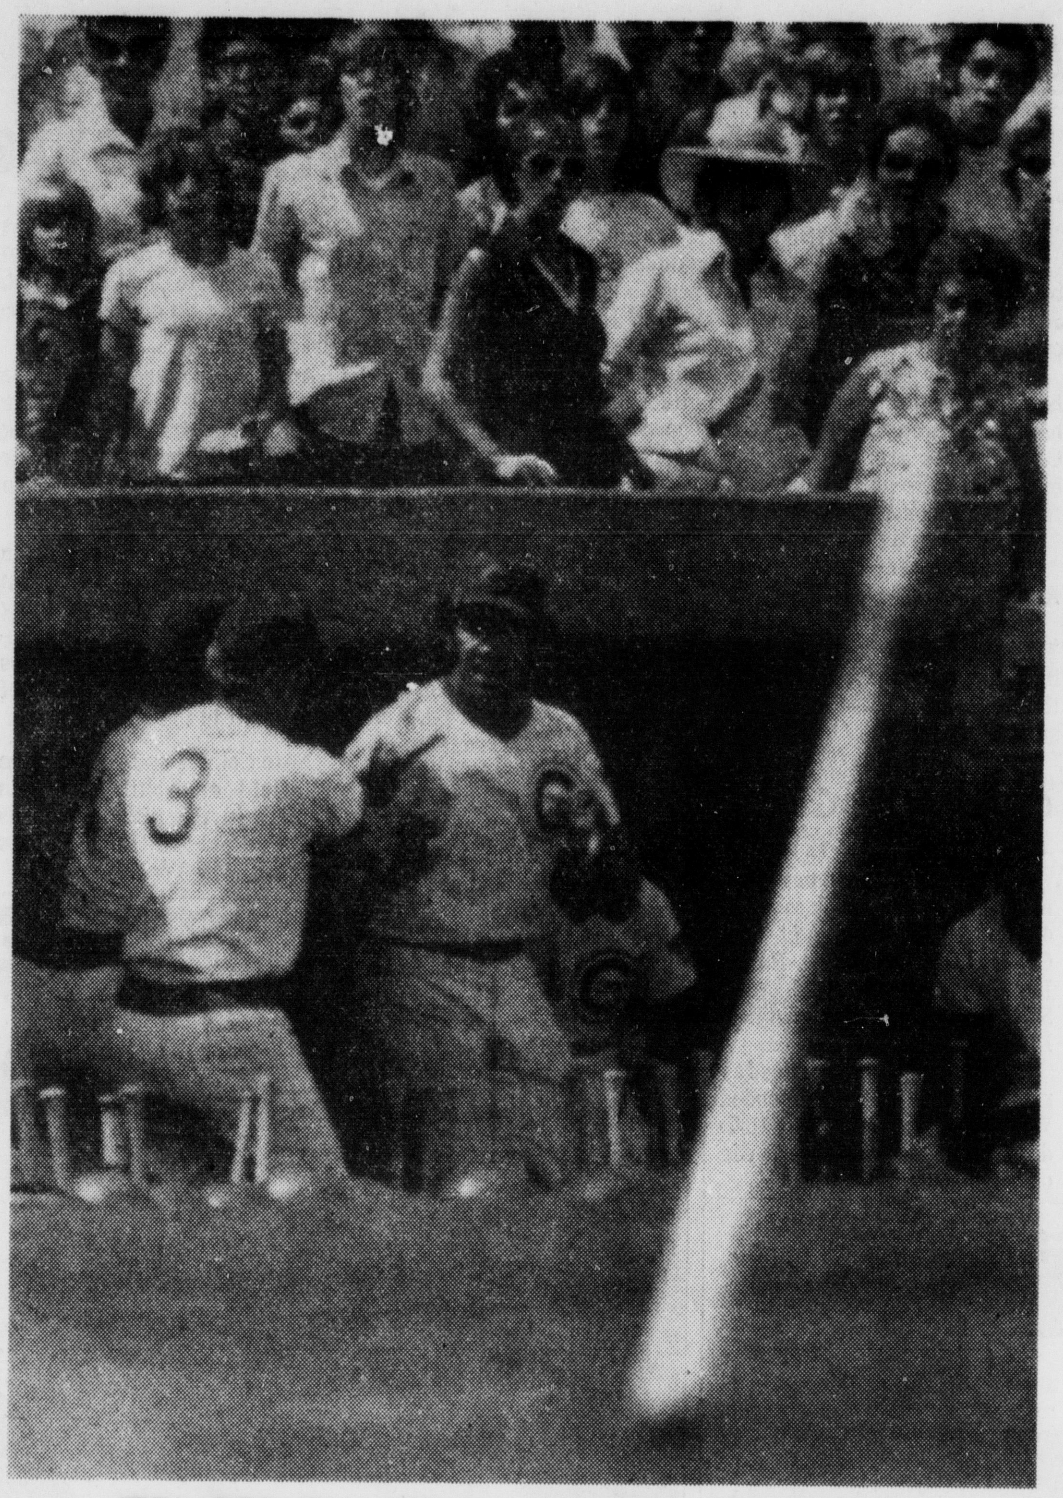
Big Bubba Makes Early Raider Debut Saturday

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — Giant defensive end Bubba Smith makes his Oakland Raiders debut Saturday against the Los Angeles Rams in Berkeley's Memorial Stadium.

The 6-foot-8, 265-pound Smith, whom the Raiders acquired from Baltimore for tight end Raymond Chester, wasn't expected to play for another couple of weeks while recovering from knee surgery he underwent last winter.

"When the man (Coach John Madden) told me I was gonna play this week, my heart started fast, but I guess it might as well happen now," said Smith.

"This is a lot sooner than the timetable they originally said. I thought I'd play around the fifth game."



TEMPER TANTRUM IN THE DUGOUT

Chicago Cubs' pitcher Ferguson Jenkins was restrained, after throwing a bat onto the field, by coaches Ernie Banks (left) and Larry Jansen (3). Jenkins was angry after being relieved in the fifth inning of Tuesday night's game with the Atlanta Braves in Chicago. He was booed roundly by the home-park crowd after walking three batters and allowing three runs by the Braves in the fifth. Jenkins threw four bats after returning to the dugout. Atlanta won, 6-2. Oilers Hire Woolley As Coach

KERRVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Joe Woolley, fired as head coach at Galveston Ball High School because he altered the transcripts of two Oklahoma freshmen, Tuesday was named an assistant coach of the Houston Oilers.

"All I asked for was an opportunity," Woolley said. "I made a mistake. I admitted it. Now I want to get to work and prove myself. My outlook is bright."

General Manager Sid Gillman hired Woolley and gave him the post of quality control coach, a position held until Monday by Garland Boyette. The Oilers activated the recently retired linebacker.

Woolley will grade films, make player reports and perform other off the field duties.

Woolley rigged the records of Kerry Jackson and Michael Phillips, two Ball graduates, to protect their academic standing and athletic eligibility at Oklahoma. Oklahoma forfeited all games in which the pair played and the Big Eight later slapped the Sooners with two years probation for various recruiting violations.

Woolley, who had a 35-10 record at Ball and coached the team to the state playoffs last year, foresaw no criticism of the Oilers for hiring him.

"In my opinion, this isn't a bad public relations move," he said.

BASEBALL MEETING

Inter-Loop Play Prospects Dim

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Major league baseball owners met today to discuss a question that may have already been settled—will there be inter-league play next year?

The answer right now looks like no.

National League officials met for more than two hours Tuesday in a session that was supposed to have been secret and, when they came away, the majority still were opposed to the American League-backed proposal.

"The general feeling is that it would be best not to disturb the type of divisional play we have now," said Walter O'Malley, board chairman of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"Nothing much was accomplished," said John McHale, president of the Montreal Expos. "Everything is status quo."

That meant that when Allan H. "Bud" Selig, president of the Milwaukee Brewers, got up today to recommend strongly a plan by which American League clubs would oppose National League clubs in regular season play, he was already starting under a handicap.

Selig, American League President Joe Cronin, National League President Chub Feeney and Francis Dale, board chairman of the Cincinnati Reds, are members of the special inter-league committee.

Selig and Cronin favor inter-league games. Dale and Feeney oppose them.

The leagues were scheduled to meet in joint session this morning and then adjourn to separate rooms for individual meetings. While inter-league play was high on the agenda, the owners were also expected to attend to certain "housekeeping chores" and pay more than passing notice to the San Diego situation.

San Diego area officials were scheduled to go to the California Supreme Court today to seek an injunction against the sale and movement of the Padres to Washington. Similar requests have been turned down in two lower courts.

Williams' Odd Move Nets Win For A's

Knowles Blanks Lee, Boston In Rare Start

BOSTON (UPI) — Dick Williams pulled another oddball victory out of his endless bag of tricks Tuesday night, leaving the Boston Red Sox holding the bag again.

The Oakland A's' manager, changing his mind just before the game, started relief pitcher Darold Knowles. The well-traveled lefty responded with his first complete game in an eight-year career, blanking the Red Sox and Terra Linda's Bill Lee 1-0 on six hits. Dick Green's sacrifice squeeze accounted for the only run.

In the first game of the series Monday night, Williams started erratic John "Blue Moon" Odom for the first time in more than two weeks and Odom went 7 1-3 innings to give Oakland a 3-1 win.

"I had planned to start Horatio Pina (Tuesday) but I got to thinking more and more about it," said Williams, whose team remained a half game behind Kansas City in the American League West. "Pina hasn't gone much more than two innings in a long while and five or six weeks ago he got a sore elbow. So, I said, 'Hell, if I can get five or six good innings out of Knowles, then I can come in with Pina.'"

But Knowles, whose longest previous stint was a 10-inning, no-decision relief appearance with Washington several years ago, got stronger as the game progressed. He also was tough with men on base, forcing three double plays in the first four innings.

"I didn't know I was going to start until two hours before the game," said Knowles. "So I went out and pitched the only way I know how, as long and as hard as I could."

Boston left-hander Lee also went the distance but once again suffered from lack of offensive support in dropping to 12-8. Lee has not had a victory in his last six starts, losing five of them.

The A's, who stranded 11 runners and had three more thrown out on the bases, opened the sixth with a single by Gene Tenace and he took third on Ray Fosse's double.

Green bunted toward the mound as Tenace roared toward the plate. Lee attempted to barehand the bouncing ball but missed, permitting the run to score.

Along with the loss came an end to Orlando Cepeda's 17-game hitting streak, longest for Boston since 1969.

Marin A.C. Coach Davis To Depart For Arizona

Bob Davis, who has been with the Marin Aquatic Club just barely long enough to say hello, will be saying goodbye Aug. 26 to become head swimming coach at the University of Arizona.

Davis, 26, was appointed last month. He succeeds Charlie Hickox, the 1968 Olympic gold medalist in the 200 and 400-meter individual medley races, who left to become head man of the Cincinnati Marlins, an Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) team.

The appointment ends a short stint for Davis as assistant coach for the Marin A.C. He was lured from the Pima County Dolphins of Tucson, Ariz.; by head coach Don Swartz May 1.

"Arizona is moving up athletically," said Davis, "and the athletic director has said he wants the school to be dominant in the (Western Athletic) Conference in swimming.

"We could be very strong within a couple of years if we get some breaks recruiting," he added.

The school presently has "bad" facilities, but construction of a 50-meter pool is about to begin. Davis also expressed hope that the present total of two swimming scholarships could be increased to the maximum of six allowed by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

BOB DAVIS
Named head coach

Arizona's general emphasis on athletics also pleased Davis, who cited the suddenly-strong basketball program and appointments of new, highly-regarded football coach and athletic director.

(The Conference's new emphasis on swimming is not confined to Arizona. Brigham Young University has appointed Mike Burton, Olympic gold medal winner in the 1,500-meter freestyle, as head coach.)

Davis was graduated from Arizona in 1971 with a B.S. degree in secondary education. He swam his freshman year, but underwent back surgery and "that's when I got into coaching."

With the Marin A.C., he worked primarily with seniors and the more experienced age-group swimmers. He may not be immediately replaced by Swartz, since "about a dozen" seniors, including Olympians Rick DeMont, Robin Backhaus and Doug Northway, will leave Marin this fall to attend college.

Dick Pattengale and Northway, who accompanied Davis from Arizona to Marin, will remain affiliated with the Marin A.C. but will attend college this fall, Pattengale at Oklahoma and Northway at Washington, Swartz said.

Davis said there was "a good possibility" that he would return to Marin next summer to coach for Swartz.

Davis will remain with the Marin A.C. through the Nationals next Wednesday-Saturday in Louisville, Ky., and depart the following Sunday. The school term at Arizona begins that Monday, Aug. 27.

Receiver Richardson In Court

SOUTH EUCLID, Ohio (UPI) — Wide receiver Gloster Richardson of the Cleveland Browns is to appear in municipal court Aug. 21 in connection with a variety of traffic violations and for possession of marijuana.

Richardson, 31, of Chicago, is charged with leaving the scene of an accident, driving without a license, driving while intoxicated and the drug charge. He was freed on personal bond, following the incident last Sunday.

When told of the episode involving one of his players, Browns' owner Art Modell said, "I have no comment on the incident at this time, if at all at a later date."

Police Capt. Harold Kopf announced Tuesday that Richardson was arrested shortly after he allegedly sped away from the accident after his car slammed into the rear of another auto.

Lee Scores 36; Paradise Romps

Dave Lee scored 36 points Tuesday night to lead Paradise Pharmacy to a 93-77 basketball romp over Perry's Poorboys in a Drake High School summer league adult division playoff game.

In another game Tuesday, Buresh, Vallarino, Costamagna and Claxton beat Cain's Tires behind 26 points by Paul Holmes. Will Garner scored 24 for the losers.

The playoffs continue tonight.

Student Games Open With Ceremonies

MOSCOW (UPI) — Nearly 4,200 athletes will begin carrying the colors of 73 countries today at the opening ceremonies of the seventh edition of the World University Games, an event that the host Russians are calling "the greatest sports spectacular" in this country's history.

Eighteen-year old Cathy Carr of Albuquerque, N.M,. a two-time gold medal winner in the 1972 Summer Olympics at Munich, will carry the Stars and Stripes of the United States, which boasts the games' largest delegation—over 300 student-athletes.

Eligibility for the games, which originated at Turin, Italy, in 1959 and have been held at four-year intervals ever since, is restricted to college, junior college and graduate students not past the age of 28.

There are nine different sports — with the U.S. entered in all—basketball, track and field, swimming, fencing, volleyball, water polo, gymnastics, wrestling and tennis.

Typically, the U.S. will bear its strongest aggregations in basketball (led by North Carolina State All America David Thompson), track and swimming (led by Miss Carr and Amateur Athletic Union champions Mark Chatfield of Glendale, Calif., and Steve McFarland of Amarillo, Tex.

Three straight days of rain over this capital city dampened any hopes the athletes had of training outdoors under normal conditions.

Seals Will Remain, Sale Or No Sale

OAKLAND (AP) — The California Golden Seals will remain in Oakland next season — whether or not owner Charles O. Finley sells out, National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell reaffirmed Tuesday.

"We have never moved a franchise and we will not permit the Seals to be moved," Campbell said in a telephone interview from Montreal. Noting that the 1973-74 schedule already has been released.

Finley has expressed interest in selling the team, claiming he has lost $2 million in three years of ownership.

Asked what the NHL might do if Finley challenged the league by moving the franchise without its permission, Campbell said: "If he moves, who will he play?"

3 Good Showings In Minor Leagues

Three Marinites enjoyed good weeks at bat and improved their averages in minor league baseball last week, with Novato's Tom Thomas prodding his season's mark up to .304.

Thomas, Fairfax' Mike Parnow and Marin City's Clifford Hall comprised the trio, while Novato's John Dolinsek and Kentfield's Tom Olson slumped, according to Player Periscope statistical service of Novato.

Both Marin pitchers, Russ Dillon of Novato and Dewey Forry of San Rafael, suffered defeats in their lone appearances.

Thomas, the Pittsburgh Pirate property playing for Salem, Va., in the Class A Carolina League, smacked seven hits in 22 times up for a .318 week, and drove in two runs. He has 11 home runs and 75 RBIs for the year.

Hall had an even better week, going six for 15 (a .400 pace) to improve his average to .267 for Quincy, Ill., in the Class D Midwest League, a Chicago Cub affiliate.

Parnow hit .292 (seven for 24) and drove in three runs for the Los Angeles Dodgers' Ogden, Utah, farm in the Pioneer rookie league. His average for the year is .226.

Dolinsek hit a homer and drove in six runs for Denver in the Class AAA American Association, but was only seven for 29 overall and his average dropped to .294. He has nine homers and 53 RBIs for the Houston farm.

Olson, who was flirting with .300 earlier, slipped to .284 with a two-for-13 week for Marion, Va., a New York Mets farm in the rookie Appalachian League.

Dillon, pitching for the Atlanta Braves' Class AA Southern League farm in Savannah, Ga., was touched for seven hits and a walk in five innings and absorbed a defeat. For the year, he is 3-6 with a 5.70 earned run average.

Forry also lost in a three-inning stint with Bakersfield in the Class A California League, but his record stands at 7-3 with a 3.06 ERA for the Los Angeles farm.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Frustration Overwhelms Jenkins

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The frustration has been building all year for Ferguson Jenkins, and it finally boiled over Tuesday.

After being knocked from the box en route to his sixth loss in his last seven decisions, the Chicago Cubs' star right-hander exploded, throwing four bats from the dugout to the playing field, one at a time.

The Cubs went on to lose to Atlanta, 6-2.

"I don't know," Jenkins said. "It just seemed everything had built up since the beginning of the year, and I had to let off steam."

Jenkins, who has won 20 games each of the past six years, is 10-12 this year. He walked three of the six batters he faced in the fifth inning, allowed a two-run single to Mike Lum, and was roundly booed by the Chicago fans.

In other National League games, St. Louis beat Houston 9-5, San Diego blanked New York 9-0, Los Angeles edged Montreal 4-3, Philadelphia nipped San Francisco 4-3 and Cincinnati defeated Pittsburgh 5-4.

In American League games, Oakland edged Boston 1-0, Kansas City tripped Cleveland, 8-5, New York slammed California, 7-2, Milwaukee downed Chicago, 5-4, Minnesota routed Detroit, 12-1 and Baltimore upended Texas, 12-10.

Bernie Carbo, Ted Simmons and Joe Torre drove in two runs apiece to lead St. Louis, which broke an eight-game losing streak.

Andy Kosco and Pete Rose singled home two runs in the ninth inning as the streaking Reds beat Pittsburgh for their sixth victory in the last seven games.

Pinch-hitter Ken McMullen slammed a two-out homer in the bottom of the ninth inning to give the Dodgers their victory over Montreal, keeping Los Angeles 2½ games ahead of Cincinnati in the NL West.

Nate Colbert and rookie Dave Winfield each hit three-run homers in the fifth innings as the Padres and Randy Jones blanked New York.

Craig Nettles belted a two-run homer to trigger a five-run eighth inning rally in the Yanks' win over the Angels.

American League batting leader Rod Carew crashed four singles and a double, good for three RBI and his 1,000th major league hit in leading Minnesota over Detroit. The five hits raised Carew's batting average to .360.

George Scott slashed a one-out ninth inning homer to lift Milwaukee over Chicago.

Fran Healy socked a three-run double in his first at bat in a week and Lou Piniella hit a solo homer to carry Kansas City over the Indians.

Hot-hitting Don Baylor pounded out five straight hits and drove in four runs to lead Baltimore over Texas.

Collins Buick Gets 18-4 Softball Win

A nine-run sixth inning powered Don Collins Buick to an 18-4 victory Tuesday night over Charcoal Pit in a San Rafael Recreation Department Adult Softball League game at Albert Field.

In other games Tuesday night, Valley Realty upended Wesco Cabinet, 14-8, and Holiday Magic scored a 14-7 win over Apacne Signs.

Brewers Rehire Del Crandall As Manager

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Del Crandall, the Milwaukee Brewers' manager, has been rewarded with a new one-year contract through 1974 for taking a 250-1 shot and leading it into first place in the American League East—at least temporarily.

Crandall guided the Brewers to the top for the first time in their four-year expansion history on May 1 and although they have fallen back since, they still rank s baseball's surprise team of the year.

The Brewers now are in fifth place but are only seven games off the pace. "Naturally, I am very pleased to be coming back for another season," said the 43-year old Crandall, who succeeded Dave Bristol on May 29th, 1972. The club finished last a year ago.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Basic Knowledge For Ropes, Knots

Many boatmen seem to believe that it's necessary to take some kind of a course in knot-tying before one dares handle the lines on a pleasure boat. They give the impression that there is a great mystery to knots and rope handling.

How many of us have seen a person on a dock pick up a line from a boat, handle it gingerly for a few seconds, then hand it to someone else rather than tie it around the closest cleat, ring or post? They don't want to appear conspicuous because they can't do a proper job.

This is so unnecessary, because it's quite possible to get by in most boating activities just by knowing one knot — the bowline — and it can be learned in two minutes.

There's quite a foggy area of knowledge concerning ropes and knots as some of our questions indicate:

Q. I have an anchor rope that is 10 years old. It appears strong, but how can I be sure?

A. An anchor "line" or "rope" 10 years old should be discarded just on principle. Use it some other place where your life may not depend on it. A simple way to check an old rope that's grey and frayed on the outside is to twist the strands so that the inside fibers show. If they are brown and young-looking the rope is probably still useful.

Q. Which type of rope material is the strongest?

A. The synthetics, such as nylon, are stronger by far. A nylon rope has almost three times the breaking strength of a natural fiber rope of the same size.

Q. I bought some cheap rope made of hemp. Is it any good?

A. It is not as good as manila, which is the best natural fiber. Other fibers used in rope making are sisal, jute, linen and cotton. Synthetic fibers are nylon, dacron, polyethylene and polypropylene. The latter two float.

Why is water ski tow rope braided?

A. Braided rope resists kinking better than ordinary rope laid in twists. It's more springy, too.

Q. I notice many boating people seem to use the words rope and "line" interchangeably. Is this proper?

A. When you buy it from the marine store in a coil or roll, you call it rope. But once a piece of rope is put to work in a specific way it becomes a line — such as mooring line, heaving line, anchor line. Or it may become a halliard or a sheet on a sailboat. Good boatmen never use the word rope when they mean a specific line. However, the word rope is retained in bell-rope, bolt rope, etc.

Q. Is a knot as strong as a splice?

A. Never. A good splice can attain a breaking strength of 90 per cent of the unbroken rope. A knot seldom achieves a breaking strength of 65 per cent.

Q. Is mildew harmful to rope?

A. It ruins natural fiber rope. The mildew is a fungus which feeds on the fibers. However, it doesn't attack synthetic fibers; that's why synthetics are so popular. They can be stored wet. Mildew thrives in warm, wet places.

Eggleston Hopes For His 'Normal Game'

(Fourth in a series)

"If I shoot my normal game, I have a chance," says Byron Eggleston, Mill Valley Municipal golf champion, who referring to the seventh annual Marin County Men's Tournament of Champions Sunday at 8 a.m. at Indian Valley.

"If you're putting good and keeping the ball in play, you have a good chance of winning," said the seven handicapper who is making his third tourney appearance.

Short game and consistency are Eggleston's chief golfing virtues, and he has been tuning up mainly on weekends. "I'm a weekend golfer," said the Novatan who learned the game as a caddy 46 years ago in Oakland.

Eggleston, 60, favors Mat Palacio Jr. of Marin Country Club in the seventh annual event that will also include: defending champion Jack Sterley, Peacock Gap; Al Randig, Indian Valley; Roy Hruska, San Geronimo National; and George Frazer, Meadow Club.

The six will be facing a hilly course that necessitates "accuracy. The long ball won't mean that much," Eggleston states.

He adds, "Just staying out of trouble will be enough. A par 71 or thereabouts should win it. And to get that kind of score, you have to concentrate and be accurate. Of course, a hot round can put you under par."

Eggleston is a member of Napa Municipal Golf Course where he won the club title in 1970 and 1972. He has won the Mill Valley title four times. In 1961, Eggleston won the Marin County Amateur Championship and the Mill Valley City Championship.

Two-Time Champion 'Playing Miserably'

(Fifth in a series)

The two-time winner of the Marin County Women's Tournament of Champions is "playing miserably now," but Laura Cann is not worried. Maybe her golf opponents will be.

"I'm not scoring well, but I might get it back together," said Mrs. Cann of Meadow Club regarding her chances in the sixth annual event scheduled Friday at 9 a.m. at Marin Country Club in Novato.

The five handicapper won in 1969 and 1970 and finished second last year behind Cookie Baer of Peacock Gap. Mrs. Cann, the perennial Meadow Club champion, sees Tillie Gondak, Marin Country Club champion, as the favorite.

"It's her course, and she is a long-ball hitter," said Mrs. Cann who has been playing golf 18 years. Mrs. Cann has been champion of the Meadow Club course near Fairfax for 11 consecutive years.

Mrs. Cann believes "it will take a 77 or 78 or so to win." And she is capable of that. She considers herself a poor putter but hits the woods well. "If I don't hit my irons well to the green," she cautions, "then I'm in trouble."

If her game falls into place, Mrs. Cann is certainly able to add a third Tourney of Champs trophy to her collection. She will be facing Mesdames Gondak and Baer along with Terry Nichols of Mill Valley, Nancy Gapinski of San Geronimo and Virginia May of Indian Valley.

Ex-Baseball Star Duren Wins Battle With Alcohol

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

STOUGHTON, Wis. (UPI) — "I am an alcoholic."

Ryne Duren says that simply and openly.

The former New York Yankee relief ace isn't trying to shock anybody. That's not his purpose. All he's trying to do is help someone else.

Ryne Duren's big trouble in baseball always was control. He never could get the ball over the plate. But he had a way of being direct. He'd always look you straight in the eye when he talked to you. He still does.

"Once you're an alcoholic, you're always an alcoholic," says the 44-year-old former fireballer for the New York Yankees. "I believe that 100 per cent. I remember the first time I got drunk. I was 13 years old, and it was on wine. I felt sick as hell. The next day I said I'd never do it again.

"No, I never did it again — much," Duren mocks himself. "The amount and frequency of my drinking increased so I hardly noticed it. I'd drink before high school dances, out of feelings of inferiority, guilt feelings, anything. I ran scared all my life.

"People ask me how far down alcohol pushed me. I'll tell you how far. One time it landed me in jail. Another time I would up in a mental hospital for nearly three months. I worked in the kitchen there, so you could say I went from the big leagues to assistant pot scrubber in less than two years.

"I had a business, a service station in San Antonio, and that collapsed on me. My wife sued me for divorce. Alcohol denied me the beauty of seeing my son, Steve, grow up. I was a degraded person, a zombie, a vegetable. I hated people and I hated myself. I wasn't really living. I was existing."

Ryne Duren can talk this way freely now.

He hasn't taken a drink in more than five years and has rehabilitated himself so magnificently that he has pulled himself up to become one of baseball's most beautiful people.

Ryne Duren isn't a doctor, but as director of alcoholic rehabilitation of small but effective Stoughton Community Hospital here in suburban Madison he's helping many so-called "recovered alcoholics" like himself.

"It's the very least I can do," says the stocky one-time relief ace. "I owe my life to others very similar to these people we have here in our program. By their example, they gave me the faith that I, too, could overcome my illness.

"Alcoholism is a disease, the same as heart trouble or any other. An alcoholic is no more to blame for his illness than any other afflicted person. One of the problems is that alcoholism is a stigma disease. Nobody wants to say he's an alcoholic; nobody wants to say anybody in his family is."

Duren put in time with the Orioles, Angels, Phillies, Reds and Senators as well as the Yankees during his eight-and-a-half seasons in the majors.

The one thing he always could do was throw hard, extraordinarily so. His strikeout ratio per inning actually was better than such hall of famers as Walter Johnson, Lefty Grove and Carl Hubbell, that's how hard he threw. He pitched in two world series and was named on four all-star teams.

"Washington was the last club I played for in 1965," says Duren. "I really hit the juice hard after that. Most people thought all it took was 2 or 3 beers to get me drunk, but actually you generally saw me with five times what you thought I was drinking. I was sneaking the drinks. First you'd see me at one end of the bar, then the other. I'd have a drink going at each end."

Duren remembers one night in San Antonio. It was New Year's night and he felt like celebrating the fact he hadn't gone out the evening before.

So he got himself all nice and juiced up, staggered somehow to his car and drove it smack on to a railroad track.

"I just parked it and left it right there," he says. "I saw this guy running a switch engine, and said to him, 'Go ahead and hit it, you big bastard! You big guys are always shoving us little guys around."

Pretty soon the cops came along and hauled "Little" Ryne Duren, 6-2 and 200 pounds, off to jail.

Sometime later Duren entered San Antonio State Hospital and remained there 82 days.

"I got out in March of 1966 — just in time for Spring training," he smiles wryly. "I stayed sober 11 months, then began drinking again. I was fired as a heavy truck salesman in Milwaukee. In no time at all I became a basket case."

The turning point for Ryne Duren came during the spring of 1968. He remembers the date, May 2.

"That's the day I went into Depaule Rehabilitation Hospital in Milwaukee, the same day I had my last drink," he says.

While in the hospital, Duren began training as an alcoholism counselor. He went to the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee extension, and took a number of psychology courses. Soon he was working at the Norris Foundation for delinquent and dependent boys at Mukwonago, Wis., and a year ago the administrator at Stoughton community hospital came to him and convinced him how much good he could do there.

Ryne Duren is doing so much good that a documentary film about his life is being produced now by the University of Wisconsin's tele-communications unit.

New Fuel System Set Up By USAC

(By U.P. INTERNATIONAL)

INDIANAPOLIS — The United States Auto Club Tuesday decided to permit championship cars next season to carry 50 gallons of fuel — 10 gallons more than now allowed but still well under the capacity permitted earlier this year at the ill-fated Indianapolis 500.

USAC directors announced creation of a research and development group assigned the task of implementing for 1974 "installation of a new fuel system designed as a total fire control system which is the equivalent of a cell within a cell and will handle 50 gallons of fuel."

Reynold C. MacDonald, Chicago, USAC President, said the new fuel system will make USAC race cars the safest in the world from the standpoint of fuel systems.

Tennis

MADRID — Andres Gimeno, 36, one of the four players who made Spain one of the strongest tennis nations, today announced his retirement from top flight competition.

Basketball

MONTICELLO, N.Y. — Putting the politics of pro basketball merger talks aside for the moment, 20 stars played in the 15th annual Maurice Stokes Memorial Game Tuesday night with Jo-Jo White leading the Red Auerbach-coached team to a 105-89 victory over the Willis Reed-coached squad.

Football

BALTIMORE — John Unitas Tuesday filed a $725,000 suit against the Baltimore Colts, the team he quarterbacked to fame and three world championships during his 17 years here.

Unitas, 39, traded to the San Diego Chargers last year, accused the Colts of "malicious breach" of a 10-year contract and with "publicly humiliating" him.

Golf

NEW YORK — Jack Nicklaus, $45,000 richer by virtue of his victory in the Professional Golfers Association championship last week, moved into second place on the tour's top winners race.

Bruce Crampton, the runner-up in the PGA, added $25,000 to his bulging bankroll that now reads $270,841. Nicklaus has won $245,424 this year.

WESTFIELD CENTER, Ohio — Rod Funseth sank a 50-foot eagle putt on the final hole in carving a five-under par 67 Tuesday to win the $50,000 Youth Insurance Classic at Westfield Country Club.

"Why CAN'T we, Mommy?"

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Congratulations on their birthdays should be given today to these well-known personalities: Princess Anne, 23, daughter of England's Queen Elizabeth II, Julia Child, 61, public television's "The French Chef" and Jim Lange, over 21, radio and television entertainer.

Today's teaser involves a successful couple, still busy making the world go round despite the fact they're in their 80s. Can you guess who they are?

Mr. Who pioneered public relations in America. Now 81, he also admits he was among the first to encounter the women's liberation movement and deal with it effectively. Fifty years ago he met a remarkable young woman who influenced his life. The lady is now Mrs. Who, who reported for the old New York "Tribune" in 1914.

Mrs. Who wanted to make a trip abroad with her husband. But the U.S. State Department issued her a passport in her husband's name. She demanded that it be made out in her maiden name — and got it. That was in the early 1920s.

Both have prospered with their public relations firm. They still operate it in Cambridge, Mass., even as she celebrated her 82nd birthday (July 18) and he his 81st (Nov. 22). They have been advisers to Calvin Coolidge, Dwight Eisenhower, Thomas A. Edison, and others. (Answer: Edward and Doris Bernays).

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

High Or Low Card Can Be A Signal From The Defender

When a defender is just following suit, not trying to win the trick he can often indicate something by the size of the card he plays. A higher card than necessary signals encouragement; the lowest possible cars signals disouragement.

Opening lead — ♡ Q

DECLARER BLUNDERED

West Opened the queen of hearts, and declarer blundered horribly by playing dummy's low heart. This gave East the chance to signal.

If Easy wanted a heart continuation, he could play the nine or the eight. The encouraging signal asks partner to lead the suit again.

OTHER THINGS

As it happened, East ahd better things in mind. He therefore played the deuce of hearts, the lowest possible card. This was a discouraging signal, asking West to try a different suit.

EASILY READ

The signal was easily read. West could see he was being asked to switch either to diamonds or to clubs. There couldn't be much nourishment in the diamonds, so West very properly led a club.

This gave East the chance to take two club tricks. He could then sit back and wait for his sure trump trick, defeating the contract.

COULD HAVE SAVED

South could have saved himself by playing the king of hearts from the dummy at the first trick. East would have to win the trick and would therefore be unable to have a club led through dummy's king.

East would probably return a low heart, and South would ruff. Declarer would then lead out the two top trumps and begin the diamonds. If East ruffed, declarer would get back to dummy with the jack of trumps; and if East failed to ruff, South would get rid of two clubs.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠- J 9 2
♥- K 5
♦- K Q 10 9 6
♣- K 9 2.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

With 12 points in high cards and a strong five-card suit you have a borderline opening bid. You are discouraged, however, by the facts that your long suit is a minor and that your hand is aceless.

Being Nervous Is Universal Problem

NEW YORK (UPI) "Being nervous or anxious is a universal experience," according to psychiatrist Charles R. Tartaglia.

The Georgetown University authority says this about being nervous: "It can be useful in keying up alertness or it can inhibit and overwhelm." No one can avoid it or anxiety altogether. It can be made worse by bad weather and fatigue. He suggests as an RX: "Shoot down phantoms which feed anxiety and try to face the facts instead."

Destructive Weevil Honored In Art

ENTERPRISE, Ala. (UPI) — This community's monument dedicated to the boll weevil has been added to the national register of historical places. The monument, erected in December, 1919, consists of a three-foot female figure of cast lead holding an aluminum boll weevil.

The monument was erected because the boll weevil nearly decimated cotton farming around Enterprise, forcing the residents to turn to other crops and seek industry for the community.

Six Are Freed; Drug Warrants Said Improper

Improper search warrants led to the release Tuesday of six persons being prosecuted on drug charges in Marin, and a seventh has been freed following a ruling he was denied a speedy trial.

In separate cases Tuesday, Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court dismissed charges against five persons caught in a drug sweep in San Geronimo and against a Mill Valley. man.

For Raymond Anthony Hossbach, 25, of Mill Valley, it was the second time his case has been thrown out.

Judge Robert A. Smallman dismissed the case against Hossbach Aug. 2, but he was immediately rearrested and recharged.

Also freed by Smith were five persons arrested by agents who raided a San Geronimo home after being tipped off by an ex-convict.

They are Elizabeth Anderson, 25, of Woodacre; Elizabeth Ann Basham, 24, of San Geronimo, Richard Howard Agee, 33, of Whitehorn, Sonoma County; Dennis E. Poling, 28, of Mill Valley, and Donald Jay Brandt, 26, of San Anselmo.

The case against David Griffin Taft, 25, of Larkspur, was dismissed Friday by Superior Court Judge David Menary Jr., who ruled the Marin district attorney's office and the state Attorney General negligently failed to prosecute him within legal time limits.

In the San Geronimo and Hossbach cases, Judge Smith declared that the informants who pointed the finger at alleged drug operations were not proven to be reliable.

It was an ex-convict and drug user for 23 years who told Marin sheriff's deputies about alleged drug traffic at Mrs. Basham's house at 465 Meadow Way, San Geronimo.

Judge Smith said deputies made no attempt to corroborate the reliability of the informant, Felipe Ramirez Goycochea, 37, of San Grancisco.

Goycochea, who himself was arrested on suspicion of stealing $1,000 and a gun from the Basham house, could have been "simply trying to buy his way out" of the arrest by turning informer, said attorney Theodore C. Lachelt, who represented Miss Anderson.

Goycochea's theft case still is pending in municipal court.

Smith took three factors into account in dismissing the case against Hossbach, accused of possessing 10 pounds of a powerful depressant, PCP, when he walked into a Ross house that was being searched by police July 19:

The reliability of the informant, the sufficiency of the affidavit which led to the search warrant and the absence of probable cause to believe the house contained drugs.

Fifth Car Rallye Scheduled Saturday

The Marin Rallye Association will sponsor the fifth in a series of car rallyes Saturday, beginning at the Corte Madera Shopping Center between 6 and 9 p.m.

Nicknamed "Super Fly," the navigational-gimmick rallye costs $3.50 per car, with a 50-cent discount to association members.

Poll Says Nixon A Loser Today

NEW YORK (UPI) — If the 1972 presidential election were held again today, Sen. George McGovern would win, edging President Nixon by 51 per cent to 49 per cent, a nationwide poll indicated Tuesday.

The poll, conducted for the National Broadcasting Co. by Oliver Quayle and Co., also indicated most Americans no longer trust the President or have any confidence in him.

The survey further indicated Nixon should bear the major responsibilty for Watergate and that the bugging scandal was dirtier than usual politics.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Warrants Attractive Because Of Leverage

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. What stocks are safe for an old lady to hold? I would like issues whose dividends have been raised consistently and which are safe. — C.R.

A. I have selected five stocks which represent a variety of industries and are trading at no more than 10 times estimated 1973 earnings. These issues have 5-year annual earnings growth rates of 7 per cent to 14 per cent. Dividend growth in the past five years has averaged 5 per cent to 8 per cent annually, with the payment upped in each of the last five years.

In each case the current payout is below that averaged in the 1968-72 base period, allowing room for further dividend boosts. All five trade on the New York Stock Exchange. They are: American Brands, Hawaiian Electric, National Service Industries, Southern Indiana Gas & Electric, National Service Industries, Southern Indiana Gas & Electric and U.S. Tobacco. The current indicated yields are all in excess of 5 per cent.

Q. I've been trying to build up my knowledge of the stock market. Just what are warrants and what is your opinion of them as a speculative medium? — M.M.

A. Warrants represent the right to buy a given stock at a certain price, sometimes with no time limit but usually within a specified period. Aside from this right, warrants are worthless unless convertible into a partial share as in the case of Commonwealth Edison A & B warrants (NYSE).

They represent no ownership in a company and they pay no dividends. Stock warrants are pretty much the same as real estate options which give the holder the right to acquire property under specified conditions.

The speculative attraction in warrants is that they normally sell well below the price of the stock to which they are related, giving the investor greater leverage. There is another side of the coin, of course. If the stock falls, you are likely to suffer a far greater percentage loss in your warrants than in the related shares themselves. Money is made in warrants but mostly by experienced investors who are able to devote time to studying this medium.

Stocks Rise While Dollar Rallies Too

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, encouraged by the dollar's best rally in two months on overseas markets, moved ahead today following two weeks of declines. Trading on the New York Stock Exchange was slow.

Behind the dollar's current strength, observers said, is a feeling the currency has been devalued too long. But most analysts were uncertain how long the dollar would hold its recent gains.

The stock market responded positively to the dollar's strength, nonetheless, and took the occasion to do some selective bargain-hunting following two weeks of steady declines. Analysts noted inflation and rising interest rates continued to keep buying sentiment cautious.

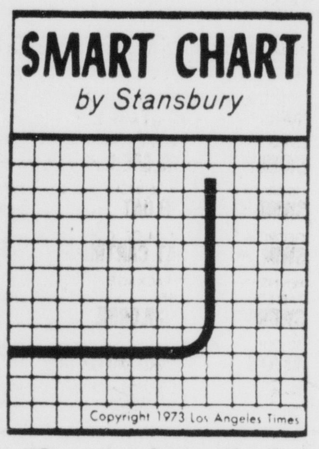
Saxon Industries, which reported lower earnings Tuesday, was the volume leader, unchanged at 5 ¼ on 78,500 shares.

On the American Stock Exchange, prices moved narrowly higher in light activity. Syntex led the actives, up 1 ¼ to 100 ½ on 19,300 shares.

Among Big Board issues, Norton Simon rose a point. The company reported earnings of $1.86 a share for the year ended June 30, compared with $1.62 a share the previous year.

A number of glamors and gold mining issues posted gains after recent losses. Asa Ltd. added 1 ¼, Polaroid 1 ¾, Schlumberger 1 ⅝, Xerox 1 ¼, and Avon Products 1 ⅛.

Honeywell rose 2 ⅜, IBM 1 ⅞, Burroughs 1 ¼, Fairchild Camera and Control Data a point each.



"Our new love oil also cures tennis elbow."

Revenues Down

LAKE SHASTINA (BW) — Shastina Properties Inc. has reported gross revenues for the first half of 1973 at $4,156,000, a decrease of $3,290,000 from the first half of 1972.

Working out of the San Rafael headquarters in Northgate Industrial Park, Morkunas will assist Dick Heine, western regional manager, in serving customers in the northwestern part of the United States.

Cal Pacific Distributing is Northern California distributor of the Weber barbecue kettle and the Broilmaster gas barbecues. It also carries a complete line of accessories and fireplace equipment. The company was established six years ago on Duffy Place and has been at 38 Lisbon Street in San Rafael for the past three years.

A native of Norway, Olson began his career with the company in 1953. He won special commendation from Kenneth C. Foster, company president, for "two decades of outstanding service."

He will be senior consultant specializing in corporate real estate, shopping center, and related retail-oriented projects. Baskin formerly worked for Larry Smith in Chicago, then joined Federated Department Stores in Cincinnati in 1971 as area research director and is now returning to the Larry Smith office in San Francisco. He and his family plan to live in Marin

FRINGE BENEFIT Boutique in San Anselmo at 510 Red Hill Avenue next to the House of Kwan Yin salon, is operating as usual under the sole ownership of interior designer Jane Wray of San Rafael.

Olson Baskin

Smith of San Anselmo had been allowed to show her Capriccio designs at the shop on a trial basis but Mrs. Smith is no longer affiliated with Fringe Benefit as of this week.

All of the styles and decorations at Fringe Benefit are by Miss Wray, who started the store in March of 1972.

Miss Wray was a commercial interior designer in Honolulu, Seattle and San Francisco for 15 years. She did the interior design for the aircraft carrier Midway, Squaw Valley Ski Lodge and San Francisco-Oakland Helicopter. She was also interior stylist for H. REFUGEE — Peering from a weather-beaten freight car is a little Cambodian refugee. He's one of thousands fleeing the embattled countryside around Phnom Penh to set up makeshift residences in rail cars in the city. The photo was taken yesterday as American bombers flew their final missions before the bombing deadline today. (UPI Telephoto)

Bomb Halt Puts Cambodia On Own

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — American warplnes left Cambodian skies for good at 11 a.m. today, Cambodia time, ending history's longest air war and leaving President Lon Nol's government to fend for itself against rebel forces lying in wait outside Phom Penh's jungled defense perimeter.

As the last B52 bombers unloaded their 30-ton bomb load and streaked back to their bases on Guam just before the midnight Tuesday EDT cutoff, Cambodians in the beleagured capital accepted the end of American air support as just another grim fact of war.

"We'll fight more, I guess," said a young veteran ho lost a leg in the fighting.

American pilots who returned after their last runs to U.S. air bases in Thailand shrugged it off as just another day's work.

But an hour before the cutoff, a final American drama was recorded in the air over Phnoom Penh.

The pilot of a U.S. OV10 observation plane reported structural damage on his left wing as he pulled out from a rocket pass.

Central control alerted a nearby aircraft to assess the damage and accompany the plane to base.

The OV10 at first headed for Phnom Penh then apparently decided to go back to its base in Thailand

American warplanes over the past six months of the intensified air campaign over Cambodia have dumped an estimated 240,000 tons of bombs on insurgent positions — nearly twice the amount of conventional explosives dropped on Japan in all of World War II.

To support the U.S. air campaign in Indochina that began in 1964, the United States has spent an estimated $21.6 billion, ordered more than 308,000 B52 strikes and some 1.8 million fighter bomber raids, and lost more than 800 fliers dead.

Another 860 U.S. Airmen have been reported missing in action since 1964.

Now the Cambodian air force — a meager fleet of about 106 prop-driven T28 bombers, 36 helicopters, eight C123 troop transports and a variety of small fixed-wing observation planes — must take up the slack.

. The Pentagon has said it will keep its air arsenal at the Thai bases as a reminder to the Communist of the threat of U.S. air power.

"We want to leave the other side with some small degree of uncertainty as to what the United States might do," one official said. "That might discourage them from doing anything."

Mill Valley Little League Fails Bid For Tam Valley Ball Field

By BILL ROBERTS

Mill Valley Little League failed last night to secure a ball park in Tamalpais Valley for use next year as Tamalpais Community Services District directors decided to take a wait-and-see stand. (Another services district story, page 22.)

After a two-hour public hearing, which produced some heated debate, directors decided a master plan for five-acre Eastwood Park should be prepared before they get down to specific use such as Little League's offer to create a diamond in the park.

The league began to seek a new park when the Mill Valley City Council banned it from Boyle Park next year unless it allows girls on its teams.

Bruce Williams, league president, explained the league's plan for Eastwood Park to district directors. He said the proposed diamond would cover about one acre and would be created completely with volunteer labor and league finances at no expense to taxpayers.

After the majority of the about 100 persons present objected in some degree to the league's plan, directors voted unanimously to continue gathering data for a professional planner's feasibility study.

Directors never voted on the league's proposal but the prospective delay during master plan preparation thwarts the league's plan for leveling and sodding the site before winter rains.

Homeowners bordering the park were among the most outspoken against the ball field. Several complained about noise pollution and traffic congestion which they said would accompany the ball park.

Some Tamalpais Valley residents said the proposed use would benefit only a small number of residents and would not provide maximum utilization of the site. Little League had requested that it have use of the ball field from 5 to 8 p.m. week nights during its April to early July season.

And the issue which forced the league to seek a new field surfaced as some residents said they would not want the league to use a public facility unless their daughters could join its teams. A representative of the National Organization for Women gave the legal objections to sex discrimination by the Little League.

Williams and other Little League backers seemed unable to influence objectors with architectural sketches and overlays of the proposed ball field. And proposals that other uses such as a swimming pool and tennis courts share the site were doubted by opponents of the field.

The board acted in accord with a Tamalpais Park and Recreation Commission recommendation that it approve a conceptual master plan before granting specific uses of the park.

Less than half the audience remained after the public hearing to hear directors vote 4-2, with Glenn Lambacher objecting, to have the park and recreation commission recommend a firm to prepare the master plan.

The board also voted unanimously to finance a community survey in regard to possible uses for Eastwood Park.

Bagley Drops Washington Goal, Eyes Controller Job

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, has dropped plans for a federal post and launched his campaign for state controller next year.

The veteran legislator told the Independent-Journal Tuesday he has hired Jack McDowell, head of press relations for Gov. Ronald Reagan's 1970 reelection campaign, to help plan the long drive for the state's top fiscal office.

McDowell, a Pulitzer Prize-winning reporter formerly with the San Francisco Examiner, now has a campaign management and public relations firm in San Francisco.

Bagley said he also has rented a hospitality suite at the Republican State Central Committee's convention next month in San Diego, and has been lining up speaking engagements throughout the state.

He insisted he was not announcing his candidacy, however. Any such pronouncement would not come until the end of the year, he said.

Bagley said the incumbent controller, Houston I. Flournoy, a former colleague in the Assembly and a longtime friend, assured him in recent weeks that he should go ahead and act on his hopes for the office. Flournoy said his own push for the governor's seat was too far along to back out, Bagley reported.

The assemblyman said he has "abandoned any thought of going to Washington." He has been rumored near appointment to various high Nixon administration posts for years.

According to his friends in Washington, Bagley said, "there is such a pall over that town you can't get anything done." As a result, he explained, his enthusiasm for going there vanished.

The legislator, who announced last year before his reelection that he would not run again for the Assembly after next year, said he was looking for "broader horizons." He said he is attracted to the controller's seat, because he is an expert in fiscal matters.

Mailliard Thoughts On China

By MARY LEYDECKER

The thaw in China's official outlook toward the United States is mainly due to growing suspicion and fear of the Russians, Marin's congressional representative told a gathering in Larkspur Tuesday.

Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, recently returned from a congressional trip to China, recounted a conversation there with Chou En-lai.

Chou greeted the eight American legislators on the tour by warning them not to trust the Russians, Mailliard said. He said Chou went on to say that he hoped Americans were not putting too much stock in "those papers signed by Mr. Nixon and Mr. Breshnev. . . we have agreements with them (the Russians) and we have one million of their troops on our soil."

The Chinese leader also told the Americans that each new building in China now has a "fall-out shelter" as part of its plan, Mailliard said.

The local congressman, who is the ranking minority member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said "there is no reduction in the ideological differences between Washington and Peking." Rather, he explained, China is seeking the United States' friendship in a time when Russia and India are in closer alliance than ever and Japan is "in an era of uncertainty.

"What if the United States pulls out of the Western Pacific and Japan turns to Russia?" the congressman asked, saying this is a fear of the Chinese.

Mailliard, who last visited China in 1945, said he was "deeply impressed" by acccomplishments of the country in the past quarter century. "There are no beggars, no piles of dirt and refuse on the streets and no flies," all customarily part of the Asian scene, he said. "You just don't see poverty any more."

As for the flies, which he said he remembered vividly from his earlier trip, he was told they disappeared after "Chou said kill flies. . . when 800 million Chinese start killing flies, the flies don't have a prayer."

Mailliard, who said he primarily visited the "bread basket" of China, the hot, steamy heavily populated lowlands, where most Chinese live and which produce most of China's food, said "admittedly we saw what they wanted us to see."

He said, though, that the delegation made "the full gamut" of attractions, including visits to factories, communes, schools, hospitals and former palaces.

Magruder Reported Passing A Lie Test

Paper Claims Mitchell Helper Told The Truth

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jeb Stuart Magruder, who testified that his former boss, John N. Mitchell, gave the go-ahead for the Watergate burglary, was reported today to have taken and passed a lie detector test.

The Washington Star-News quoted reliable sources as saying Magruder submitted to the test between the time he first went to federal prosecutors April 14 and May 2, when he appeared before the Watergate grand jury.

The test was applied by a polygraph expert for the prosecutors, the newspaper said.

Magruder was said to have implicated Mitchell directly before the grand jury and publicly did so during testimony before the Senate Watergate Committee later.

Magruder, who was deputy director to the Committee for Reelection of the President when Mitchell was director, testified that the plan for bugging and wiretapping the Democratic headquarters at the Watergate got Mitchell's approval March 30, 1972.

Mitchell testified later and denied Magruder's allegation.

Mitchell, President Nixon's former attorney general, was in Washington today for undisclosed reasons. His successor at the Justice Department, Richard G. Kleindienst, testified Tuesday before a newly impaneled federal grand jury investigating matters related to Watergate.

The new grand jury plans to look into a wide range of matters such as so-called "dirty tricks" in the 1972 presidential campaign, abuses in fund-raising, and also possible perjury and obstruction of justice in connection with settlement of a government antitrust suit against International Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Magruder was reported to have planned to enter a guilty plea Thursday morning to a single charge of obstructing justice in connection with his Watergate role, but his lawyer said this was "not correct."

It had been disclosed previously that Magruder had agreed to plead guilty to a single charge in exchange for his cooperation with federal investigators, who agreed to drop a variety of other charges against him.

The Senate committee is in recess until Sept. 10 and there were some reports that members' mail was becoming more negative to the televised hearings. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, suggested this in an appearance in Madison, Wis., Tuesday in criticizing the hearings.

Chairman Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., was quoted by Knight Newspapers that his mail was "overwhelmingly in favor of the committee" and suggested there was an "artificially inspired mail-campaign" aimed at discrediting the committee.

Ervin's office has said about four out of five letters he gets are favorable, although about two of every five from his home state of North Carolina are critical.

Rufus Edmisten, longtime assistant to Ervin who is deputy chief counsel of the investigating committee, said some of the committee's mail cautions against any campaign to "get" President Nixon.

As for Ervin's home state mail Edmisten said, "Sam Ervin is home this week in Morgantown. He now knows that not everybody is thrilled abou Watergate."

NIXON ON TV, 6 P.M. TODAY

President Richard M. Nixon was to televise a "Watergate white paper" tonight, to counter allegations that he was in any way involved in the scandal.

The broadcast will be carried in the Bay Area at 6 p.m. over television channels 3, 4, 5, 7, 10 and 11.

The President will speak from his desk in the Oval Room of the White House.

Bedayan Snubbed By Youth Band?

The exclusion of Brent William Bedayan from the social circle of a band organized by Daniel R. Schallock may have played a part in Bedayan's killing of Schallock, and Schallock's mother and father, according to the band's equipment manager.

Curtis W. Lee, 21, said Bedayan's younger brother, Bruce was a member of the band and a close friend of young Schallock and as a result Brent Bedayan was drawn to the group but never able to become part of it. Lee called the group "very exclusive."

Lee, testifying for the prosecution, said hard feelings existed between Schallock and Brent Bedayan because the latter thought Schallock had gypped him on selling him a guitar.

The young equipment manager said Brent Bedayan used some LSD and marijuana, but that he used nothing near the amount of marijuana indulged in by Schallock who smoked 20 to 30 such cigarettes a day.

Lee's testimony was an interruption of the defense in the 14th day of the trial before Judge Henry J. Broderick.

Lee was unavailable when the state concluded its presentation last week and was permitted to be called out of order.

San Rafael psychiatrist Joseph P. Gutstadt yesterday told of the events leading up to the triple slaying and his attempt to have Bedayan returned to the crisis center on the day before the killings.

He said he issued an order for Bedayan to turn himself in to the center for an evaluation by 2 p.m. March 15.

The Mill Valley man is charged with murdering Melvin and Ruth Schallock and their son, Daniel, the next day.

Gustadt said he asked that the necessary papers be served on the former lifeguard after his mother reported that her son's behavior had become erratic and she again feared that he might harm himself.

The psychiatrist, who was later to learn that Bedayan never received the order, said the young man called his office on March 14 and said he would be in to see the doctor at 3 p.m.

Many Industries Are On Price Bandwagon

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Price increases began to surface in many industries today and New York City's seven million residents were told that the cost of food there had jumped 4 ½ per cent in a week.

The New York City Department of Consumer Affairs announced the surge in food prices over last week and said it was the largest increase recorded by the department since it assumed its "watchdog" role over supermarket prices early this spring.

The agency said that beef supplies in that period had been cut in half and that the hike in prices was due mainly to increases in such basic products as meat, poultry, bread and eggs.

In Chicago, wheat futures reached a record high of $5.14 a bushel on the Board of Trade.

The September futures for wheat broke the $5 mark for the first time in history, reaching the 20-cent limit permitted in one day's trading.

Other producцts also were straining at levels announced this spring.

The nation's two biggest steel companies, U.S. Steel and Bethlehem, said Tuesday they had notified the Internal Revenue Service they plan to raise prices $8 to $12 a ton for sheet and strip steel prices. Under Phase IV rules, major companies must give 30 days notice before raising prices.

Other steel companies, Armco Steel, Republic, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Jones Laughlin, Wheeling-Pittsburgh and National Steel, also filed for increases.

The companies had announced increases in May. Major steel buyers, including automakers, said then they would mean higher prices for consumers.

The increases amount to about 4.8 per cent on strip and sheet steel products.

Two more auto companies asked for increases Tuesday on the 1974 models. General Motors asked for an increase of $102, or 2.7 per cent. Ford Motor Co. requested an increase averaging $106, or 2.4 per cent.

GM and Ford both said government safety and emission requirements were a factor in the increases.

A spokesman for the Cost of Living Council said more big companies were expected to file for Phase IV increases this week.

Birth In Space

HOUSTON (UPI) — With the need for a possible rescue flight growing more remote, Skylab's astronauts today kept watch over an aquarium which recorded the first birth in spaceflight history — a minnow.

The space agency Tuesday reset the rescue launch — if required — to Sept. 24, two weeks later than previously announced.

Owen K. Garriott reported just before bedtime Tuesday that one of 50 mummichog minnow eggs hatched.

Spy Charge

BELFAST (UPI) — A Roman Catholic political leader said today the British Army tried to force a youth to spy on the Irish Republican Army (IRA) against his will.

Gerry Fitt, leader of the Social Democratic and Labor Party, said he would fly to London today to present tape recorded evidence on the charge to Lord Carrington, British minister of defense.

Nuclear Warning

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Consumer watchdog Ralph Nader warned Tuesday that a "spectacular catastrophe" could result from an accident involving radioactive material used by nuclear power plants.

"One ounce of plutonium if dispersed could produce lung cancer for everyone on earth," Nader told a Pennsylvania Insurance Department hearing.

Insurance Commissioner Herbert Denenberg is conducting three days of hearings to probe the insurance risks posed by the operation of nuclear power plants. There are 30 plants currently in operation across the country.

Mayor Lied?

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Mayor Frank L. Rizzo lied in response to questions asked during a lie detector test, and a city councilman whose accusations against Rizzo inspired the test told the truth, a polygraph expert said Tuesday.

Rizzo said he was "sick to his stomach" over the results.

"My credibility might be affected by the headline 'Rizzo Lied,' " he said. "I have great confidence in the polygraph. I believe it is an excellent machine. But I know in my heart I told the truth. My God, something is wrong."

The city's Democratic party leader, Councilman Peter J. Camiel, had said Rizzo approached him in the men's room of a downtown hotel last February and offered to let him choose the architects for the city projects if Camiel would let Rizzo pick the party's choice for district attorney.

Lockheed Gains

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress after a bitter fight two years ago agreed to give government backing for a huge loan to Lockheed Aircraft Corp. Federal auditors now say the firm's financial situation is "promising."

The relatively optimistic report was issued Tuesday by the General Accounting Office (GAO), the investigative arm of Congress. GAO noted Lockheed has borrowed $150 million under the 1971 government guarantee. It said development of the Tristar L-1011 commercial airliner continues "to be crucial to the company's financial stability.

"Present indications are that Lockheed will, for some years to come, have to exercise considerable vigilance to control its economic health mainly because of its burdensome debt," the GAO auditors wrote.

Truck Ultimatum

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — The government of President Salvador Allende Tuesday gave striking truckers a tough ultimatum —end their 21-day walkout by midnight tonight or the armed forces will seize their idled vehicles.

The strike has virtually paralyzed parts of Chile's already precarious economy.

But even as the government delivered its ultimatum, the second in three days, leaders of Chile's 250,000 retailers and several medical associations said they would meet today to decide whether to join the walkout.

Political Torture

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — A young woman political activist was kidnaped and tortured over the weekend, police said Tuesday, and four other persons were abducted — bringing the number of kidnapings in Argentina this year to 115.

Police in the western province of Mendoza said Teresa Jesus Guardia, 23, a member of the left-leaning Peronist youth organization, was kidnaped Sunday night, beaten and tortured. Her wrists and ankles were bruised from being bound, they said.

There is rift between the leftist group and the more conservative, "orthodox Peronist" General Workers Confederation.

Auto Price Hike

TOKYO (UPI) — Toyota Motor Sales Co. said today that the price of Toyota cars exported to the United States will be increased by "about 5 per cent" next autumn.

Teen-agers Indicted For Texas Torture Slaughter

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Harris County grand jury Tuesday indicted Elmer Wayne Henley, 17, and David Owen Brooks, 18, for murder. The grand jury said the teen-agers took part in a three year sex and sadism spree that led to the nation's worst mass murder of the 20th Century.

BILLY RIDINGER
Hid under sack

Billy Ridinger, who filed to and from the grand jury room with a paper sack over his head, was the principal witness before the jury. Ridinger testified he barely escaped with his life from the torture chamber of Dean Allen Corll, 33.

Henley was indicted on three counts of murder, Brooks one. Each count carried a $100,000 bond attached to it.

Henley and Brooks have implicated themselves in at least 27 murders, making their homosexual-death ring the nation's worst mass murder since 1894, when Chicago police entered a burned out building, found the remains of 200 corpses in the basement and connected Herman Webster Mudgett to the deaths. Mudgett was executed on May 7, 1896.

The suspects, who freely told police the locations of three burial grounds in Texas where the 27 bodies were recovered, have quit talking. Attorney Percy Foreman, who has defended 1,200 cases and only lost one to the death penalty, said the boys demonstrated they did not understand their constitutional rights by showing police where the bodies were buried. Foreman has not been retained as counsel in the Henley-Brooks case.

Both Henley and Brooks have given police signed statements. They said they lured young boys with promises of sex, liquor and marijuana to the various homes of Corll who then sexually abused them, tortured them and killed them.

Henley has said he took part in the torture and slayings. Brooks said he helped bury the victims but never killed anyone.

Henley shot Corll a week ago today. According to Henley, he, Corll, Ridinger and a 15-year-old girl were at one of Corll's homes sniffing paint. He said they passed out and when they awoke their nude bodies were tied to Corll's torture board.

Corll, Henley said, was threatening to kill all of them, but Henley convinced Corll to set him free. He said he then shot Corll in self defense and called police, thus unraveling the bizarre tale that led to the uncovering of the 27 bodies.

It was later learned that the 15-year-old girl at Corll's home that night was Henley's fiance and that he and the girl were planning to leave Houston within the next few weeks.

Ridinger gave his version of what happened that night to the grand jury in secret testimony Tuesday. He went to and from the jury room with a paper sack covering his head and two holes cut out for him to see through.

A Middle Stand

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Caspar Weinberger, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, said Tuesday he is not discouraging efforts to promote him as a candidate for governor of California, but is not fostering them either.

CHINA

used as anaesthetic, he said.

The group saw a barefoot surgeon remove a thyroid tumor from a woman and repair an abdominal hernia on a young man, and Mailliard was convinced that acupuncture "is the way to go" after watching a patient get up and walk out of the room after the surgery.

The long isolation of China as well as the total regimentation were the most impressive characteristics of the country in Mailliard's view.

He said that when his group, flying in an American Air Force plane, landed at the Shanghai International Airport, "it was totally empty — no planes, no people, nothing," indicating the lack of traffic into and out of the country.

In Shanghai they picked up a Chinese flight crew (replacing the Americans who had worn civilian clothes for the flight into China.) The radio man seemed thoroughly briefed on the equipment in the American plane, Mailliard said, but the navigator "kept tapping the pilot on the shoulder, saying a little bit this way — a little bit that way, and we were afraid we'd land in Tokyo, not Peking."

In contrast to the poverty Mailliard remembered from his 1945 visit to China, he said he found people well-fed, fairly well clothed and with adequate housing, even though it was often crowded. "Many are also able to manage to own a sewing machine or a bicycle," he added.

"Total regimentation" has been the way the country has uplifted itself economically, though, and the congressman wondered if a younger generation, reared without hunger, will rebel at some point against the totalitarianism of their system.

He said people travel little because they work six days a week and get no vacations, nor do they have a choice of where they will work.

There are no bars in China, Mailliard said in answer to a question from the audience, and little entertainment. His group was served beer with meals on ordinary occasions but there was a quantity of wine and a drink described as "liquid fire" at banquets.

"Tea or orange soda pop" inevitably preceded official briefings at the various institutions visited by the delegation.

As for the future of China, Mailliard theorized that because most of China's leaders are "getting old," and there seems to be no plan for succession, "a potentially unstable" situation could occur.

Mailliard spoke at a luncheon gathering of the Larkspur and Corte Madera chambers of commerce at the Blue Rock Inn in Larkspur.

Phone Building Move Approved

The concept of a new 11,000-square-foot building to house the Mill Valley offices of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. was approved Tuesday by the Mill Valley Planning Commission.

According to Robert J. Hanna, associate planner, the building will be part of a new shopping center on East Blithedale Avenue in the Alto Bowl area where Alpha-Beta Markets and Thrifty Drugs are planning new stores. The site is now occupied an abandoned Purity market.

The commission also approved the precise plans for a 104-unit apartment on Shelter Ridge overlooking Highway 101. The developer, Securities of America Inc., had agreed to take the top floor off the three-story apartment buildings in order to reduce density in the project by about 50 units. The plans now go to the city council for its consideration.

Bordello Raid Charges Denied

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Two Marin residents pleaded innocent Tuesday in San Francisco Municipal Court to charges stemming from a July 31 raid on an alleged bordello in Pacific Heights.

Andrew J. Waite, 26, of Sausalito, and Patricia Hebert, 21, of San Rafael, entered the pleas before Judge Eugene F. Lynch. Jury trial for both is scheduled to begin Sept. 26.

Waite has been charged with being a visitor to a house of prostitution, and with being in a place where narcotics was dispensed.

Mrs. Hebert was charged with being an inmate in a house of prostitution, soliciting for purposes of prostitution, and possession of marijuana.

Nudity Case Conference Is Scheduled

A Marin Municipal Court judge will meet Aug. 29 with attorneys for eight persons charged with being nude on Marin beaches in an attempt to settle the cases before they go to court.

The eight pleaded innocent Tuesday to violating the county's antinudity law. If convicted they could be jailed for as long as six months and fined up to $500.

Judge Gary W. Thomas then set pretrial conferences, or plea bargaining sessions, with four attorneys representing the defendants.

On Monday Municipal Court Judge Robert A. Smallman rejected a move by the attorneys to dismiss the charges on the grounds they are unconstitutional, that the county antinudity ordinance is invalid since state law already forbids nudity and that the criminal complaints charging the eight are too vague.

Judge Smallman rejected the attorneys' arguments without comment.

The eight are Stephen Francis White, 22, and Susan Mehrings White, 23, both of Oakland, and Walter Voight, 33, of Strawberry, arrested July 21 on Muir Beach; Roland Jacopetti, 37, Elizabeth Kreusler Ehmann, 39, Nancy Joan Denmark, 26, and Theodore Harvey Saladin, 36, all of Bolinas, and Peter Holmes Davidson, 30, of Colorado, all arrested July 24 on Bolinas Beach.

Crash Victim Is On Critical List

A San Francisco woman was reported in critical condition today in the intensive care unit at Novato General Hospital with injuries suffered Tuesday in a single-car crash on North Novato Boulevard.

Mary Ellen Wilson, 22, suffered fractures of the spine, ribs and skull, according to a hospital spokesman, when she was thrown from an auto driven by Douglas C. Smith, 28, of San Francisco.

The California Highway Patrol said Wilson was northbound on the street about 4 p.m. when the vehicle veered into the opposite lane while rounding a curve.

Officers said Wilson lost control of the car while trying to return it to the proper lane and it went into a drainage ditch and rolled over. Smith, Miss Wilson and another passenger, Jeffrey Temme, 21, of San Francisco, were thrown from the car.

Smith was treated for bruises at the hospital.

Fourth Arrest In Novato Case

A fourth man wanted in connection with a drug raid Friday was arrested Tuesday night by Novato police.

Booked into Marin County Jail and held in lieu of $5,000 bail was Joseph Antone Homen Sr., 42, of 1500 South Novato Boulevard. He was arrested on suspicion of cultivating marijuana and on suspicion of possessing marijuana for sale, and is to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said Homen was not in the house Friday evening when officers raided the home, arresting three and confiscating more than 200 suspected pot plants.

When police returned Tuesday night, Homen was in the residence and willingly surrendered to officers.

Burglary Charge Trial Date Set

A San Rafael man will stand trial in Marin Superior Court on charges of burglary and possessing stolen property, Judge Gary W. Thomas of Marin Municipal Court ruled Tuesday.

Thomas held that there is enough evidence to try John David Anderson, 48, on the counts.

San Rafael Police said they saw Anderson unloading a television set, a stereo, tools and guns stolen Aug. 5 from the Thomas G. Torres apartment in San Rafael.

Jobs Available In Recreation Program

About 25 part-time positions are available in connection with San Rafael's fall recreation program, according to Ralph Dannenberg, assistant recreation supervisor.

Residents wishing to apply for the jobs may do so at the park and recreation office in city hall, he said.

March 16.

"I was concerned about maintaining a productive relationship with Brent, being able to help him," Gutstadt said. "So I decided to do nothing about his missing the Thursday appointment and wait until he came in of his own volition Friday."

He said disturbed persons cannot be picked up and forced back to the crisis center until they have been given a chance to come in voluntarily. "We have to give the patient what is essentially an RSVP invitation. Most people take off or just don't come in and then we call the sheriff.

"But the law says we have to give them the opportunity to come in voluntarily," Gutstadt said. "It doesn't make sense but that's what the law says."

The psychiatrist was in his office with a patient about 9 a.m. on March 16 when he received a call from Marcea Bedayan. "She told me that she'd heard a rumor that the Schallocks had been killed. 'I think it's Brent,' she said. 'What do you think we should do?' she asked me.

"I told her 'I think you're probably right and you should call the police.' " Gutstadt said.

The psychiatrist said he spent the next few hours in fear that Bedayan might next try to kill him or Mrs. Bedayan. "I was a bit uneasy. I was scared. One thinks of all kinds of possibilities. The members of my family were out and I didn't want them coming home to an empty house and being surprised."

Gutstadt said he next saw Bedayan after his arrest and that the young man had included the doctor in his delusions. "His first question to me was: 'Who do you want me to kill next?' He apparently thought he had been acting under my orders when he killed the Shallocks."

In answer to questions about Bedayan's state of mind at the time of the slayings, Gutstadt said that "all the evidence I have indicates he had again become quite ill and was reaching the point of acute paranoid insanity.

"The murders would never have taken place if he hadn't been pscyhotic. There would have been no reason for them. I think there is much that is psychotic in the act itself."

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales attempted to chip away at the psychiatrist's contention that Bedayan was legally insane and thus not responsibile when he shot the three.

"Wouldn't the elaborate plans (purchasing the gun, ammunition and gasoline at different places) leading up to the killings indicate he knew the law prohibited killing?" he asked.

"Not necessarily," Gutstadt replied, noting again that Bedayan was convinced that Daniel Schallock was causing him to experience exptreme pain in his genitals.

"He would have had to plan a defense against this 'persecution,' " the psychiatrist said. "If you feel your life is threatened, you do something about it."

Bales asked the psychiatrist if he had "a big machine" for measuring what is going on in an individual's mind and Gutstadt admitted he didn't.

The district attorney also contended that the psychiatrist had the power to have Bedayan picked up and returned to the crisis center the week of the killings and Gutstadt argued that he did not. "If I'd had my way, I would have gone out myself and picked up Brent that day (Thursday)," he said.

He said he believes his patient was legally insane when he killed the Schallocks. "I feel this psychological state interfered with his consideration of the consequences."

Accident Victim Off Critical List

A man injured Monday in an auto accident on Highway 101 south of Tiburon has been removed from the critical list but is in serious condition, a spokesman for Marin General Hospital reported today.

Douglas Boles, address unknown, was walking across the freeway when he was struck by a car driven by Larry E. Gilman of San Francisco.

According to the California Highway Patrol, a friend of Boles told officers that the victim had been drinking before the accident.

10 Downing Street Gone, Temporarily

LONDON (UPI) — Puzzled tourists wandered up and down Downing Street Tuesday looking in vain for number 10, the home of the British prime minister.

Officials explained. The door, which has nothing else to distinguish it from other houses on the street, is being painted, and the number has been removed temporarily.

Patrolmen Save Woman On Bridge

A San Francisco woman made an unsuccessful attempt to jump from the Golden Gate Bridge today.

California highway patrolman Ralph Pierotti, on his first night on patrol in Marin, and Patrolman Walt Williams were on the span at 2:30 a.m. Witnesses told them a woman had just run to the railing and jumped.

Pierotti and Williams went to the railing and saw a woman prone on the girder 10 feet below. Since she appeared to be awake and moving around, Pierotti climbed over the railing and down onto the girder to prevent her from jumping or falling the remaining 220 feet to the water.

Williams joined Pierotti and the woman on the girder and all three were hoisted up the bridge in safety harnesses provided by the bridge tow truck.

The woman, Elizabeth Ann Paro, 30, was taken by ambulance to a San Francisco hospital according to the highway patrol after the rescue. A hospital spokesman said there was no record of her admittance.

Sex Attack On Teen-Age Boy

A 17-year-old San Rafael youth was overpowered and sexually assaulted in Gerstle Park in San Rafael, police reported today.

The youth was walking through the park at 9:50 p.m. Saturday when a man grabbed him and dragged him into the bushes, police reported. The boy screamed and fought back, but the man choked him unconscious and subjected him to homosexual rape.

The man was described as a Caucasian in his early 20s, six feet, one inch tall, weighing about 150 pounds with blonde medium length curly hair, sideburns and mustache, fair complexion and wearing a long sleeved blue pullover sweater. He then left the park in a station wagon, possibly a 1970-71 Chevrolet, according to police reports.

Elective Smog Panel Opposed

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Both of Marin's state legislators oppose any bill which would add directly elected members to the board of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control Distirct.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley and Sen. Peter H. Behr, both R-San Rafael, told the Independent-Journal Tuesday they will vote against two such bills pending in each house.

Bagley and Behr siad direct elections to such a large special district could permit industry and other special interests to dominate the board because they could afford the expensive elections.

Waterfront Ordinance Bogs Down

The Sausalito City Council, struggling with a new zoning ordinance proposed for the central waterfront, stalled Tuesday night on how to limit the size and number of houseboats, rejected a bid by one councilman to dump the proposal altogether and set yet another meeting to polish the waterfront plan.

In a four-hour session characterized by marked disagreement, councilmen did agree that principal uses for the area should include boat harbors for pleasure and commercial craft excluding floating homes, boat rentals and sales, and piles, floats and dolphins for the mooring of small craft. They requested, however, that staff provide them with a clear definition of "small craft."

They also agreed that marine fuel service facilities should be considered a conditional use.

This portion of the proposal concerns outboard uses, defined by Planning Director Herb Case as applying to lands on the bayside of a line that runs roughly along Humboldt Street, dropping to Donahue Street between Johnson and Pine streets and again between Turney and Litho streets.

They set what they said would be the final session on the ordinance for 7 p.m. Monday in city offices.

A major clash during the meeting came over the issue of controlling the size and number of houseboats allowed on the waterfront.

The ordinance as proposed would restrict houseboat floor area to 1,200 square feet and height to 16 feet from water level. It would limit the number of houseboats to five per cent of the berths in a marina or to a total of 35,000 square feet, whichever is greater. To protect bay view, houseboats would have to be separated by an average of about four berths.

Councilman Stephen A. Fraser's suggestion to drop restrictions from the ordinance, leaving any limits on houseboats up to the community appearances advisory board and the planning commission as a requirement for conditional use permits, was rebuffed by Mayor Robin Sweeny.

She said it was up to the council to set guidelines, and not to do so would be to open the waterfront to increasing numbers of people seeking cheap floating homes.

A motion by Fraser to hike the maximum number of houseboats allowed per marina to 10 per cent died for lack of a second.

Apparently frustrated by the council's lack of progress and disturbed that the ordinance would not coordinate development plans for the entire waterfront, Councilman Evert H. Heynneman moved that the proposal be abandoned.

Instead, he suggested a joint effort by waterfront developers, city staff and the council to work out an overall plan that would encompass the entire waterfront area, from Spinnaker Drive to the northern area of the Schoonmaker lands.

"This ordinance has been hanging up for six years," Fraser told Heynneman. "Your proposal would delay everything until kingdom come." The remaining three members of the council supported Fraser's position.

Angered that the council was to continue consideration of the proposal, property owner Sam Zakessian, who has vigorously opposed the ordinance as "unworkable and unjust," announced that he was selling his land tomorrow and stormed from council chambers.

Councilmen also stumbled over whether to allow docks and landings as a conditional use. They asked city staff for a clear definition of what constituted a dock, as opposed to a pier or float. They also asked staff for a recommendation on a proposal by Steve Siskind, representing the Schoonmaker Co., that boat construction and repair facilities be included as a principal use.

In other business, councilmen appointed Terry Iyama, Mary Ann Sears and Dr. Jules Weiss to the city's tree committee. Preceding the public meeting, councilmen met in closed session to discuss a suit against the city over a previous council action.

Killer Describes Telepathic Urge

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) — Herbert V. Mullin, who has admitted killing 13 persons, testified at his trial Tuesday he received a "telepathic message" in a Catholic church, walked to a confessional and stabbed a priest to death.

The 26-year-old defendant also told the jury he dissected one victim, Mary Guilfoyle, 24, and "inspected her liver, kidneys, lungs and heart."

In another killing, Mullin testified he riddled four boys camping in a state park with bullets after he told them telepathically, "If I don't kill you, four other guys will have to die."

The four victims responded telepathically, Mullin continued in a clear voice, telling him: "Go ahead and kill us, man, go right ahead. Please don't back out of it—don't get scared, man —we're not scared."

Fiesta Events Set For Adobe

Vallejo's Old Adobe at Petaluma will spring to life Sunday for the 12th annual fiesta featuring craftsmen demonstrating the skills of early pioneers.

Gen. Mariano G. Vallejo's ranch headquarters, now a state park, was built in the 1830's and is a national historic site.

Demonstrations of rustic skills will begin at 11 a.m. and will include hand-dipping candles, leather work, bread baking in outdoor ovens, brick making, blacksmithing, horseshoeing, weaving, carpentry with 19th century tools, wool dying, looms and spinning wheels.

As in past years, Pomo Indians will be on hand for a dancing demonstration at 3 p.m. and a basketmaking presentation.

A horseshoe tournament for both men and women will get underway at 10 a.m. along with games for children. A deep-pit beef barbecue luncheon, sponsored by the Nicasio Parlor of Native Sons of The Golden West, will open at noon.

The Candido Morales Band of Healdsburg will play authentic Mexican music throughout the day. The Petaluma senior riders club will operate pony rides for youngsters along with hay wagon rides.

The traditional "whiskerino" contest will begin at 3 p.m. with awards for full beards, moustaches, goatees and sideburns. Judges will be Petaluma Mayor Helen Putnam; Peggy Borges, district dairy princess; and Hannele Damon, Miss Sonoma-Marin.

The massive two-story adobe will be open as usual for tours along with special exhibits.

Winning entries from the Old Adobe fiesta association art and photography contest will be on display.

No charge will be made for fiesta activities or parking.

Year In Jail On Worthless Checks

A man, who admitted passing worthless checks, has been sentenced to one year in jail and placed on probation for two years by Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court.

Ronald Wold, 33, of no fixed address, was sentenced Monday.

He pleaded guilty July 9 to cashing a check for $480 on the account of Jean Goni of San Rafael. The check had been stolen from Goni's apartment.

Wold also admitted writing checks totaling $90 on his own account, which had been closed. That offense was a misdemeanor.

Best ordered Wold to pay back the $90 to the Pier 15 restaurant, where he had cashed the checks, and to reimburse Crocker Bank for the $480 check he cashed.

Wold's probation report says he "attributes all his criminal misconduct to his heavy drinking" and concedes he has a "severe problem with alcohol."

"He lives primarily in a world of fantasy," the report says.

Swim Class Set In Terra Linda

Registration for tiny tot swimming lessons at the Terra Linda Recreation Center will be held at the center from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 27, according to the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department.

Eight 30-minute lessons for children aged three through five will begin Sept. 4 and end Sept. 14, a department spokesman said.

More information on the program, as well as lessons for older youngsters and intermediate swimmers, is available at the recreation center or city hall, said Andrew J. Snyder, parks and recreation director.

Reading Test Set

A diagnostic reading test for prospective students will be given Aug. 29 at 7 p.m. in Baker Hall at Santa Rosa Junior College. The test replaces the ACT and SAT entrance examinations and is a prerequesite for many courses offered at the college. The test will take one hour to complete.

Discussion Set On Airport Conversion

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — Conversion of Hamilton Air Force Base to a major commercial airport, proposed last month by state consultants, will be debated Thursday by the Association of Bay Area Governments.

The association's executive committee will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Hotel Claremont. The proposal by consultants to the State Aviation Board will be detailed by the board's planner, Spyridon N. Sideris.

An ABAG spokesman said the report on the proposed master plan to expand California aviation probably would come up by 8:30 p.m. The agenda also includes a proposed resolution calling for limited population growth.

The aviation plan envisioned at least 235 airliners a day serving Hamilton, with a total of 3,300 landings and takeoffs a week. This would be equal to more than half of all the air traffic now at San Francisco International Airport.

Passengers would total 9.5 million a year, compared to about one million suggested in ABAG's own regional airport plan.

Novato Growth Ordinance Urged

Novato City Council, at the urging of residents, agreed Tuesday night to prepare a growth control ordinance limiting residential development to 500 units a year.

During a two-hour public hearing, about 10 speakers representing various groups, pressed the council to put the growth limit policy, adopted two months ago, into effect as soon as possible.

The council voted 3-1 to secure such an ordinance and said it will meet with the city planning commission on how to proceed. Councilman David Price Jones was absent.

Mayor Fred F. Ruegg, foreseeing legal problems, dissented, saying City Atty. Clark M. Palmer should tackle the matter rather than the city planning staff.

Ruegg referred to Petaluma's court battle over its growth limit, and said, "I'd like to see Clark Palmer take a whack at drafting an ordinance."

Councilman George C. Quesada said, "It's going to be challenged no matter how you write it. We should get something on the books . . . at least it's a positive step."

Speakers stressed that growth control is the key to the future of the community, a necessity in view of the water supply problems and a commitment made by the council.

Calling for an ordinance were Virgil M. Birdsall, chairman of the North Marin unit of the Marin Conservation League; Robert Burke, a director of the San Marin Improvement Association; John Richardson, vice president of the Forest Park Homeowners Association, and several residents.

Other organizations seeking an ordinance included the North Marin Federation of Homeowners, Bel Marin Keys Community Services District, Lynwood Park Improvement Association, South Novato Homeowners Association and the League of Women Voters of Central Marin.

Planning Director Brian W. Mattson, reporting on expected growth in the next few years, said 1,382 dwelling units are under construction and another 1,391 have been approved and have been assured water.

"We're stuck with almost the equivalent of about six years of development, and won't realize this 500 limit instantaneously," he said.

Approval has been granted but water agreement not perfected for 107 units, Mattson said. Master plan approval has been granted for 1,019 units and master plans filed on another 1,544 units, but water availability for those is in question, he said.

The ad hoc committee on growth control recommended hiring a consultant to draft the growth control ordinance, because of the heavy workload on the city planning staff.

Mattson said unless the staff were relieved of some work, it would be a long process.

Councilmen said all choices would be considered at the joint meeting with the planning commission.

Check Spree Nets Three Month Term

A Richmond man has been handed a three-month jail term. Michael Joseph Mayfield, 25, is the third person to be sentenced for cashing eight checks totaling $675 on the account of a San Rafael woman.

Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court on Monday also told Mayfield to pay $50 to Anne Montbriand of San Rafael, on whose account the checks were passed.

Two other men, Dennis Alvin Johnson, 34, of San Rafael, and Nelson Cloude Thomas, 26, have been given six-month jail terms for their parts in the check cashing spree.

Mayfield's probation report lists a long criminal record for theft, auto theft, armed robbery, assault, burglary and drug possession.

The report concludes that Mayfield "finds indolence and criminal misconduct the lines of least resistence." He seems "unimpressed by various sanctions imposed on him in the past," according to the report.

Novato Council To Eye Trend Away From One-Family Building

With construction in Novato shifting from single-family detached homes to townhouses and apartments, the Novato City Council agreed last night to set a public hearing on "attached versus detached" dwelling units.

Mayor Fred F. Ruegg said he was concerned about the planning staff "pushing" developers in the direction of attached dwellings rather than single family detached homes.

Then, when such plans reach the council and the developer has gone to expense to prepare them, "I don't have the gall to say go back."

Ruegg said residents have moved to Novato to live in a community of single-family homes.

Planning director Brian W. Mattson said city policy is to have a mixture of housing types and single-family detached homes "have a place in proper locations."

Councilman Dorothy P. Young said, "I think we have sufficient townhouse units and I think we should encourage more single family detached homes."

No date was set for the hearing.

The Novato City Council also:

FLOOD ZONE — Introduced an ordinance to extend the moratorium on construction in the flood plain area west of Highway 101 from Scottsdale to Nave Gardens, around Yukon Way and Warner Creek for 180 days.

ZONING — Introduced an ordinance setting six feet as the minimum distance between single family detached homes.

HIGHWAY MEETING — Reported the city planning commission will meet with staff Highway Division representatives at 8 p.m. Sept. 27 at the Novato Community House to discuss highway noise and scenic highways.

LEAVE — Granted City Mgr. Charles A. Brown a one-week leave next week, as a vacation.

BUILDING INSPECTOR — Approved hiring a full-time building inspector for fiscal 1973-74 at a cost of $10,855.

LYNWOOD PARK — Authorized the parks and recreation commission to interview a landscape architect to provide preliminary plans and cost estimates to develop Lynwood Hill park.

REGIONAL PLANNING — Supported a bill by Assemblyman John Knox to establish a Bay Area regional planning agency, with provision that the agency board have both appointed and directly elected members.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 8 p.m. today at the Novato Community House for a joint meeting with the Marin County Aviation Commission on land use at Gnoss Field, and to complete items not completed on last night's agenda.

Councilman David Price Jones was absent.

Odds Are Set On Nixon's Future

LONDON (UPI) — President Nixon has been given 3-to-1 odds of surviving the Watergate scandal and staying in office by the British bookmaking firm of Ladbrokes and Co., Ltd.

Ladbrokes also offered odds today of 2 to 1 against Nixon's removal from office or resignation before his term ends.

This means persons betting that Nixon will remain in office have to put up $3 to win $1, and persons betting the President will either resign or be removed from office could win $2 for every $1 they wager with Ladbrokes.

"We think that impeachment of an American president would cause such an upheaval that it is very improbable," a Ladbrokes spokesman said Tuesday.

Agnew Files Offered To U.S. Prober

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has offered to turn over all his financial records and meet personally with federal prosecutors looking into allegations that he accepted kickbacks from government contractors.

His position, in marked contrast to President Nixon's refusal to turn over presidential documents to Watergate investigators, was outlined in a letter Tuesday to U.S. Attorney George Beall in Baltimore.

Beall had informed Agnew Aug. 1 that he was under investigation for possible tax fraud, extortion, bribery and conspiracy violations during the period before he became vice president and asked that financial papers dating back to Jan. 1, 1967 be made available to investigators.

"I am prepared to do so immediately," said Agnew. A week ago he told a news conference that the allegations were "damned lies."

The Washington Post, quoting informed sources, said today prosecutors in Baltimore have been told by several Maryland engineering contractors that they made regular cash payments personally to Agnew in return for choice state contracts while Agnew was Maryland's governor.

The newspaper also said it had been told that since Agnew became vice president some funds collected from businessmen ostensibly as campaign donations had been used to influence the awarding of federal contracts.

Agnew flies to Colorado today for two public appearances—to help dedicate a dam near Littleton and address a union meeting in Denver.

Aides to Agnew said he had informed the President of his plans to fully cooperate with the investigation before making his letter public.

In the White House, meantime, spokesman Gerald L. Warren said suggestions that President Nixon opposed Agnew's decision to turn over his records because of the unfavorable comparison with his own actions were "totally wrong."

Warren said Nixon was "disturbed" by news stories suggesting he had lost confidence in his vice president.

He said the fact of the investigation had done nothing to change the President's confidence in Agnew. He branded as "totally untrue" published reports that White House aides already were preparing a contingency list of possible successors if Agnew resigns.

Amendment of the Constitution provides that if the vice president leaves office for any reason the President may appoint a successor subject to confirmation by a simple majority of the Congress.

Farm Czar Hikes Federal Milk Bill

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz announced an increase in price of milk for the rest of the year and repeated his stand that the freeze on beef prices should be lifted immediately.

Butz made the announcement of the milk hike here Tuesday at a news conference. The text of the order was made available in Washington, D. C.

Price supports for milk will be increased by 32 cents per hundredweight for the remainder of the marketing year which ends March 31, 1974.

The increase is effective immediately and goes from $5.29 to $5.61 per hundredweight. The previous support level was announced March 8.

Butz said in order to carry out the increases, buying prices of the Commodity Credit Corp., will be raised 3 cents for cheese and 3.9 cents a pound for nonfat dry milk. Butter buying prices will remain unchanged.

The increase is in accordance with the Agriculture and Consumers Protection Act of 1973 which President Nixon signed into law Aug. 10. The act requires that the support price for manufacturing milk be increased to 80 per cent of parity, effective the day of enactment and for the remainder of the 1973-74 marketing period.

Chrysler Rebellion Broken Up By Police

DETROIT (UPI) — Police entered a key Chrysler Corp. plant early today, arrested two dissident workers who sparked a rebellion that halted production for more than 30 hours and brought to an end the third such plant seizure in recent weeks.

Production at the Mack Avenue Stamping Plant, where 4,800 workers manufacture body parts, did not resume immediately because the arrests came between shifts.

The takeover started at 5 a.m. Tuesday when about 200 men refused to work in one section of the sprawling plant and blocked production elsewhere.

By the time police entered the plant today, the number of dissidents had dwindled to 30.

Among them, police said, were William Gilbreath, 25, and another man accused of attacking two plant officials with a metal pipe. That incident touched off the revolt.

Police entered the main gate, parked a patrol wagon at one entrance to the plant and removed the remaining dissidents.

The demands ranged from amnesty for the dissidents to improved working conditions.

The police moved in after hours of negotiations during the night by Douglas Fraser, a United Auto Workers vice president who earlier told the company not to bow to the dissident demands, and the rebellious workers.

UAW leaders had accused "radicals and extremists" of seizing the plant.

Workers inside had said they would not leave until a list of 11 demands were guaranteed by Chrysler.

Working Birthday

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Anne celebrated her 23rd birthday today by competing in one of the events that will determine whether she wins a place on the British team for the three-day European Equestrian Championships at Kiev in September.

Sect's Home Set Ablaze; 30 Rescued

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A three-alarm fire started by an arsonist today at the sister house of a religious order sent 30 residents, mostly women, fleeing and caused $75,000 damage to the Victorian structure.

A six-year-old child was hospitalized in critical condition because of burns, and a 7-year-old girl was listed in serious condition. Twenty-one adults were treated for smoke inhalation and minor burns and released.

The blaze broke out shortly before 5 a.m., a time when some novices were preparing for communion.

The fire department snatched 10 persons to safety with an aerial ladder. Deputy Chief Joseph Daly credited his men, who also removed several persons still inside including the chidren, with saving several lives.

The fire occurred in a sister house of the Holy Order of Mans, a group which in a decade has developed about 70 stations across the nation and a black-garbed membership of nearly 1,000.

The order is non-denominational Christian, models its discipline after St. Paul, and is attractive mostly to young people.

When you cook pork sausage links or patties, add a few tablespoons of cold water; cover and simmer 10 minutes. Keeps them plump and juicy. Uncover and let sausage brown before serving.

Larger pieces of frying chicken can be partially cooked by parboiling before frying. It's a way to keep chicken tender inside and crisp outside. Let pieces cool before you dip in egg and cracker crumbs to fry. Straining beaten egg before dipping helps the crust adhere better during cooking.

Supervisors Say No To Road Policy

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Tuesday unanimously refused to reopen the controversy over a proposed connector road between White's Hill west of Fairfax, and Upper Lucas Valley.

Instead, supervisors told San Anselmo and Fairfax that the two cities should adopt their own general plans before the county will act on a potential traffic problem in the Upper Ross Valley.

The board stand was in response to a letter written Aug. 1 by the San Anselmo City Council, asking the county to modify the Countywide General Plan development predictions for the area just west of San Anselmo and Fairfax.

City officials argued that unless the population in the unincorporated area is held down, city streets will become glutted because the controversial connector was deleted from the transportation element of the countywide plan in June.

County Planning Director Werner von Gundell advised supervisors that the development revision could be delayed "a year or two" without creating any "serious" problems for San Anselmo. He recommended no action until the cities complete their own general plans.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

FAIRGROUNDS — Authorized spending up to $950 for soil tests as part of the study of the feasibility of building a swimming pool on the county fairgrounds rather than at the North Bay Front Park.

HAYFIELDS — Granted the appeal of the owners of the 574-acre Abbot ranch north of Bel Marin Keys, against the requirement for an environmental impact report to maintain and raise sinking levees to protect the field against flooding. The work had been halted, pending the report.

MILL VALLEY — Accepted reports from the Army Corps of Engineers and county public works officials that stream flow through Mill Valley is too small to make Army flood control structural projects feasible.

PARKING — Granted members of the Marin County Bar Association request for special permits to allow courtroom lawyers to park for brief overtime periods in 15-minute zones at the civic center, while making routine court appearances.

NOVATO FLOOD BOND — Approved plans to hold a $4.5 million flood control bond election Nov. 6 in the Novato Flood Zone. Board Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste said a Novato town meeting would be held next month to publicize the issue.

AUDITORIUM — Agreed to Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere's proposal that he meet with Marin nonprofit groups that rent the Veterans Memorial Building, to see if a parking fee system can be worked out to offset the high rentals for the building.

PLANNING — Accepted Von Gundell's recommendations that in-house planning staff be used to provide environmental impact reports on most development applications; accepted reports from Von Gundell and the planning commission's budget and work program committee on manpower use for 1973-74, in light of budget reduction of the planning staff by 300 man-hours for the year.

DRUG ABUSE — Approved an $18,000, one-year contract with Andrew Mecca to head the Treatment Alternative to Street Crime program, federally funded drug abuse program, a $10,870 contract with Naomi Weinstein and a $10,565 contract with Shirley Marsters as project directors.

SLIDE — Awarded a contract to repair a slide on the Fairfax-Bolinas Road to Bresnan-Dalecio Inc. of San Rafael, low among four bidders at $36,714.34. Engineer's estimates were $47,700 for the job.

PATHS — Approved a policy proposed by Supervisor Michael Wornum that whenever the county acquires flood control easements, recreational rights such as bicycle or hiking paths also be obtained if possible.

Frostbite Found In A Heat Wave

LONDON (UPI) — Doctors were astounded.

There, among patients suffering blistered skin and sunburn in a Tuesday heatwave in Britain, was a frostbitten toe.

"The doctor I saw could hardly believe it," said Alan Hirst, owner of the toe.

He said he was marooned for fourteen hours while climbing Mont Blanc in France but didn't seek medical attention until he returned to London.

A hospital spokesman said, "It's the last thing you'd expect. But I'm sure Alan doesn't think it's funny. Frostbite can be painful."

Israeli Warplanes Cause Sonic Booms

BEIRUT (UPI) — Israeli warplanes flew over the south Lebanon city of Sidon and other residential areas today, causing at least nine sonic booms, witnesses said.

The Israeli aircraft overflew in patrols of two or four, the witnesses said. The aerial passes took place over a period of one hour.

Land Preservation Plea Is Victorious

A special county service area was formed Tuesday to prevent development of marshlands near the Marin Catholic High School that neighbors want preserved as open space.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors unanimously approved formation of County Service Area No. 17, and began the formalities needed to hold a special election Nov. 6 to finance buying the land through an $850,000 bond issue and a tax rate of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Citizens of the Hillview Gardens area of Larkspur and the Kentfield School District area had successfully petitioned the City of Larkspur and the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission for approval of the county service area. The citizens want public ownership of 27.5 acres of land belonging to the Archdiocese of San Francisco, site of a proposed housing development.

Neil M. Park, chairman of the Committee for a Creekside Park, urged the supervisors to approve the service area. Proposals are to return 17 acres alongside Corte Madera Creek to marsh open space, and improve another 10 acres as "an unstructured park-play area with minimum improvements."

The supervisors set Sept. 18 for a hearing on the area to be benefitted by the proposed bond issue and tax rate.

Many Species

There are from 60,000 to 80,000 species of flies in the world.

Planners Backed On Subdivision Position

Marin County supervisors Tuesday upheld the planning commission denial of a 31-home, small ranch subdivision on a 350-acre farm just east of the cheese factory in West Marin.

Developer Worth Bayles unsuccessfully appealed the planning commission denial of his tentative map for the Council Oaks Farms project.

The supervisors' 4-1 vote was considered by the supervisors themselves the first real test of whether Marin County would stick to the open space and agriculture preserve concept established by the Countywide General Plan for the central corridor and West Marin. Conservation spokesmen and West Marin dairy farmers joined in opposing the Council Oaks plan, on grounds the 350-acre ranch, if subdivided into 10-acre homesites, would boost the rural area's population by "more than 300 per cent."

All the surrounding land is zoned for one dwelling per 60 acres. The Council Oaks property is a former dairy farm that was left in 10-acre zoning because the owner already had begun plans for its development at the time of the sweeping rezoning of rural West Marin last year.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere cast the lone vote backing the developer, calling the denial "flip-flop decision making." He accused the county of bad faith, leaving the land in A-10 zoning but barring the owner from developing it. Attorney Albert Bianchi, representing the owner, stressed that "we are not asking a rezoning . . . the applicant has abided by all the rules."

John Kelley, president of the Nicasio Landowners Association, typified opposition voiced during the two-hour hearing. He said his fellow landowners for years expected that they would subdivide and sell their land when development reached the central corridor. "But now we're keeping our ranches going. The countywide plan is our greatest hope" of an agricultural future for the area, he said.

Ranchers Earl Dolcini and Peter Dolcini as well as spokesmen for the Environmental Action Committee of Marin and Marin Conservation League also opposed the development.

After denying the appeal, the supervisors ordered the planning staff to prepare to rezone the acreage to A-60.

Board Wants Assurances Of Intertie Go-Ahead

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Tuesday officially asked the Marin Municipal Water District not to delay building the proposed intertie pipeline between Central Marin and the North Marin County Water District.

The request was part of a four-part board stand hammered out after two hours of debate. A series of letters written by supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and Robert A. Roumiguiere, critical of water district delay on the intertie, sparked the action.

The water district directors' reaction is expected to be heard at their meeting at 7:30 p.m. today in the district office in Corte Madera, when they will discuss the intertie, its environmental impact, a proposed bond issue for long-range water supplies to Central and Southern Marin and other issues.

"I can't speak for the (water district) board," district director Jack R. Felton warned the supervisors during the debate. "I'd not say there are any assurances" the district would agree to the supervisors request to press ahead with the intertie, and not tie it into an overall bond issue.

District voters in 1970 approved a bond issue for the intertie, but later turned down a larger issue designed to supply Russian River water to the district through a Sonoma-Marin aqueduct.

Urged by Roumiguiere and Arrigoni, supervisors asked the water district to stage its plans for future water supply so as not to throw the Countywide General Plan's growth rate goal out of kilter nor exceed the supply needed for the envisioned 1990 population. Supervisors also asked the district promptly to consider the recently completed environmental impact report on the intertie, and if the report is favorable, to build it soon to alleviate the threat of rationing existing users.

Felton reported that the water district board voted Jan. 12 to postpone the intertie because it is only the first stage of long-range plans, can be built any time to avert dry-year shortages and was being redesigned to geatly increase its capacity.

Arrigoni, who had urged the increase, said he was unaware of the district actions, despite participating in a series of supervisors' workshops with district officials. He said that the critical letters he and Roumiguiere wrote seemed to have produced "more answers" in recent days than all the months of discussion.

Compromise On Airport Road

Marin County supervisors said they want a full freeway interchange in the neighborhood of Marin County Airport — but will settle for a new access road to the airport, providing the state gives "high priority" to the future interchange.

In return, the supervisors Tuesday authorized closing the present Airport Road intersection at Highway 101 and signed a freeway agreement with the state for the stretch north of Atherton Avenue in Novato. The Airport Road closing was opposed by aircraft firms at the airport and by owners of adjoining land.

Attorney Joseph Forest, representing the landowners, said his clients would refuse to dedicate property to the access road, being designed to run parallel to Highway 101 to Atherton Avenue, unless a northerly interchange is built. Attorney Albert Bianchi, representing other landowners both east and west of Highway 101, said his clients don't want Airport Road closed until the access road is completed, and they oppose crossing the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks with the access road.

Ray W. Foreaker Jr., county public works director, said his office hopes to avoid crossing the tracks, but is faced with a flood plain problem that may not be soluble without angling the road across the tracks.

Novato Mayor Fred F. Ruegg, Supervisor Anold M. Baptiste and others said the existing interchange is a deathtrap because it slopes steeply from the railroad to the freeway. There probably isn't enough room to build deceleration and acceleration lanes from northbound 101 to the Airport Road, Baptiste said.

In any event, airport-bound drivers from Petaluma, and anyone leaving the airport for destinations north of Novato will have to drive to Atherton Avenue and take the future access road, because the median will be closed when the Novato Bypass is completed, speakers said.

Ruegg warned this could increase the number of hazardous left and U-turns at the opening in the median strip opposite the Redwood dump further north.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. moved that the board approve the freeway agreement requested by the state only if the Division of Highways gave top priority to a future interchange in the airport area.

Supervisor Michael Wornum, however, objected that other Marin freeway work previously assigned higher priority would suffer — including widening 101 from Greenbrae southward to serve "millions of commuters." He was mollified when Arrigoni modified his motion to call only for making the North Marin interchange the highest priority of any future freeway interchange in Marin, but not necessarily as the most urgent of all freeway projects.

Senator To Ask High Ranks Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., said today the military is so topheavy with high-ranking officers that its grade structure is shaped like a balloon rather than a pyramid.

He said that when Congress reconvenes in September he will ask to cut back those positions, and at the same time save taxpayers more than $2 billion.

Mondale listed these points to back up his argument:

There are more three and four-star generals and admirals in uniform today than in World War II when the military was four times as large.

The Army, which 25 years ago had 7 recruits for each sergeant, now has more sergeants than recruits.

All advertised meat items are offered for sale subject to availability from our suppliers. Advertised beef prices are effective only if the beef price ceilings remain in effect. Should the beef ceilings be removed, we may be forced to change retail prices in line with changes in wholesale costs during the period that this ad is effective.

Again last week, we compared food prices with the major supermarkets in this area.

"Specials", "total discount", and most other kinds of prices were compared. In this survey of August 3 to 4, Mayfair's overall food prices were lower than eight other top supermarket chains'.

To try to be fair, the comparisons were again with Uncle Sam's list, the same full list of items that the U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, uses every month to measure food prices as part of the cost of living.

These comparisons show you could have saved from $.09 to $6.26 on the some $60 worth of basic foods in this list.

With the high cost of living these days, really, can you afford not to buy your food at Mayfair?

LOTS OF PROTEIN

A Cook Book On Sproutings

By BETTY FROST

When Karen Cross Whyte of Mill Valley began research for "The Complete Sprouting Cook Book" two years ago, she had no idea that its publication would coincide with the current meat shortage.

A vegetarian herself, Mrs. Whyte experimented with sprouting seeds to add more protein to her diet. The slim woman maintains that she has always had a weight problem, and that the sprouts, while high in protein, minerals and vitamins, are low in calories.

In these times when meat, seafood, and poultry are expensive and in short supply, Mrs. Whyte observes, "Grains, seeds, and nuts contain from seven to 40 per cent protein, while meat averages about 25 per cent protein content. Germination of the seeds increases their water content. Foods high in water content are more easily broken down and assimilated by the body."

The Mill Valley woman's book is a "how-to-do-it" book, and takes the reader through practical steps from where to buy seeds, to best methods of storing them, and methods of sprouting. Twenty-four categories of edible seeds suitable for sprouting are arranged in alphabetical order from Adzuki beans to wheat.

THE SECOND half of the book is devoted to recipes, all of which offer ways to include the sprouts in finished dishes for breakfast, casserole meals, salads, desserts and breads.

"These recipes are just to get people started," the author emphasized, "then I hope that they will go on to experiment for themselves."

"Seeds, too, have gone up in price," Mrs. Whyte said. "A few months ago, alfalfa seeds cost me $1.30 a pound. Now they can be purchased for $1.60 per pound. Still, they are economical, since a pound of alfalfa seed sprouts will fill a 10-gallon container. Alfalfa sprouts are rich in vitamins and minerals and the seeds contain 35 per cent protein."

Learning about sprouting could be useful to young families and older people, the writer suggested. Since results are seen so quickly with harvesting of the tiny crops in two to five days, and very little space is required for storing the jars and shallow containers in which the seeds are germinated, sprouting can become both an interesting and useful hobby.

MRS. WHYTE did much of her research at the Marin County Civic Center Library and at the University of California at Berkeley. Using the kitchen of her home as a laboratory, she cultivated the sprouts and tested recipes for many months.

She is the wife of Malcolm K. Whyte, a publisher. They have three children, Malcolm, 13; Kirsty, 12, and Andrew, 7.

The inspiration for one of her earlier cook books, "Fat Cat's Cook Book," a children's cook book and coloring book, was a cooking course one of the children had taken. "Each day they learned to make a different kind of cookie," the mother explained, "I thought children should have some alternatives." She devised a book of simple, nutritious recipes.

She has also published "The Complete Yogurt Cook Book" and "The Fat Cat's Craft Book" for children. The sprouting compendium was illustrated by Richard Stortroen of Mill Valley.

A native of Arizona, Mrs. Whyte attended the University of Oregon at Eugene and San Diego College for Women. The Whytes have lived in Mill Valley for 13 years.

Some of her suggestions:

VEGETABLE CHEESE CASSEROLE

1½ cups pea sprouts
1 onion finely chopped
1½ cups mung bean sprouts
¼ cup finely chopped pimento
¼ cup grated carrot
2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
1 cup white sauce (medium thick)
1 cup grated cheese
¼ cup dry bread crumbs

Blend all ingredients except bread crumbs. Pour into a casserole. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and dot with butter. Bake in 325-degree oven for 35 to 45 minutes. Serves four.

BREAD STICKS

1 tablespoon dry yeast
¾ cup warm water
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon honey
1 cup rye or wheat sprouts, ground
2 cups wheat flour
¼ cup margarine
1 egg
1 tablespoon water
Sesame, poppy or chia seeds

Dissolve yeast in a bowl of warm water. Add honey, sprouts, 1 cup flour and margarine. Beat until smooth. Mix in the rest of the flour. Knead on floured board until smooth, about eight minutes. Place in large greased bowl. Cover with wax paper and a clean towel. Let rise in a warm place (80 to 85 degrees) for one hour or until double in bulk. Punch down and cut dough into 28 pieces; roll each into a stick eight inches long.

Place on a greased cookie sheet one inch apart. Beat egg with one tablespoon of water. Brush sticks with egg mixture and sprinkle with seeds. Bake 18 minutes or until golden brown in preheated 375-degree oven.

CRISPY CRUNCHY SALAD

2 large tomatoes
1 cup alfalfa sprouts
1 cup wheat sprouts
1 cup mung bean sprouts
1 cup sunflower seed sprouts
3 tablespoons oil, olive or sesame
2 tablespoons lemon juice or vinegar
Salt and pepper to taste

Mix tomatoes and sprouts in a large bowl. Pour over oil and toss until sprouts are evenly coated. Add lemon juice and seasonings. Toss lightly and serve immediately. Serves four to six.

KAREN CROSS Whyte displays sprouts growing in jars and shallow containers. The sprouts add nutritive values and flavor to bread, casseroles and other dishes, the Mill Valley woman explained. She has written "The Complete Sprouting Cook Book."

For Special Events Try Kabobs

No summer should go by without you and your family enjoying shish-kabob at least once, if not several times. This skewered dinner originated in Armenia, but has become almost an American summertime tradition too, as outdoor cooking enjoys more popularity.

Tender and juicy cubes of marinated lamb are grilled to crusty perfection. Alternately skewered with mushrooms and lemon slices for flavor, they are as interesting to look at as they are delicious to eat.

To enhance your end-of-summer dining, skewer large wedges of fresh summer fruits separately. Fresh golden pineapple, ripe flavorful bananas and brightly colored cantaloupe are perfect accompaniments to your lamb kebobs. Mix a little of the leftover meat marinade with honey and brush the combination over your beautiful fruit skewers. This extra flavor and golden color make the fruit delectable. Grill these skewers just long enough to warm through.

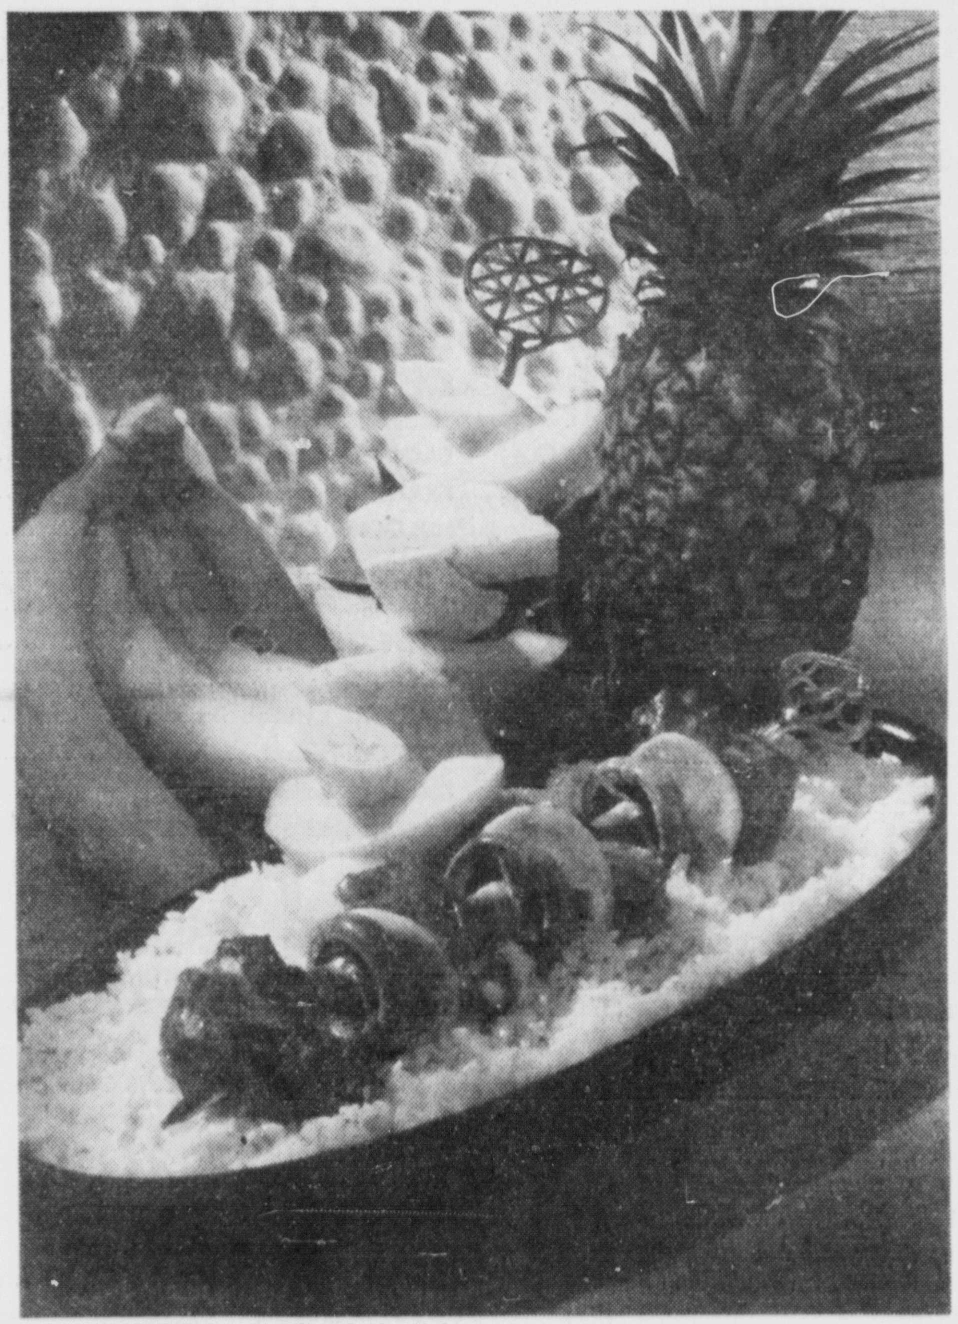
Serve your charcoal grilled duo on hot fluffy rice.

CALIFORNIA SKEWER DUO

2 pounds lamb, cut into 1½ inch chunks
1½ cups dry red wine
1 cup salad oil
¾ cup lemon juice
¾ cup tarragon red wine vinegar
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1½ teaspoons dried tarragon
1½ teaspoons onion salt
1½ teaspoons garlic salt
1 teaspoon pepper
½ pound mushrooms
1 lemon, thinly sliced
¼ cup honey
8 large bananas, peeled and chunked
1 cantaloupe, peeled, seeded and chunked
1 fresh Pineapple, peeled, cored and chunked

Place lamb chunks in one layer in a large flat glass dish. Combine wine, oil, lemon juice, vinegar, mustard, tarragon, onion salt, garlic salt and pepper. Mix well and pour over lamb. Cover and refrigerate several hours or overnight, turning meat occasionally to marinate evenly. About two hours before grilling, brush mushrooms clean and add to marinade.

Skewer meat alternately with mushrooms and lemon slices. Grill about five inches from hot coals 15 minutes, turning to cook evenly. Meanwhile, blend one-half cup reserved marinade with honey. Alternately skewer banana, cantaloupe and pineapple chunks. Brush with honey mixture and grill alongside meat for about two minutes — just long enough to brown fruit. Makes six to eight servings.



TWO SKEWERS, one loaded with tender lamb and mushrooms and the other with juicy fresh fruits, make a tantalizing outdoor grill duo.

Next Time Concoct A Turkey Pizza

Two of America's favorite foods, pizza and turkey, team up in this easy recipe. The secret of success is the new ground turkey meat now available at your market. Ground turkey browns as fast as ground beef and is perfect for packaged dinners, casseroles, and new-style 'burgers.' Its high nutritional value and low cost make it one of today's best meat buys.

"Turkey pizza" takes only minutes to prepare, the crust pre-baked for 10 minutes before meat, sauce and cheese are added. The finished pizza, is ready to serve 20 minutes later. Ideal for quick summer suppers, young get-togethers, patio or pool parties. If the crowd is big or extra hungry, better make several. The recipe feeds four to six depending upon appetites.

Prepared from thigh and drumstick meat of fresh young turkeys, this new ground product assures a wealth of good eating at a budget price.

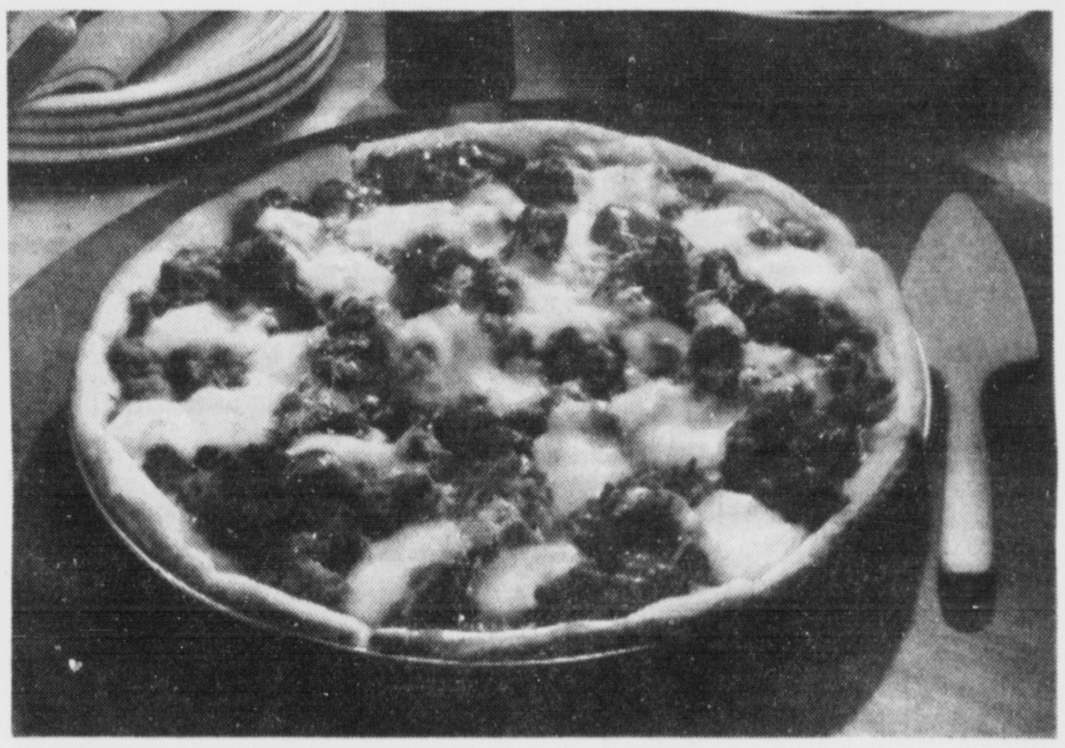
TURKEY PIZZA

1 (8 oz.) package crescent dinner rolls
1½ tablespoons oil
1 to 1¼ lb. ground turkey meat
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon basil, crumbled
1 (6 oz.) can pizza sauce
4 ounces sliced Mozarella or Jack cheese
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese.

Unroll and separate rolls. Arrange together in lightly greased 11-inch pizza pan to form a crust; pinch seams together well. Brush with one-half tablespoon oil. Bake on lowest shelf of 425 degree oven eight to 10 minutes, until edges brown lightly.

Meanwhile, heat remaining tablespoon oil in skillet, add turkey meat, and brown lightly, stirring to break up into chunks. Season with salt and basil. When crust is about half baked, remove from oven, and spread with two tablespoons pizza sauce.

Top with turkey meat, and spoon on remaining sauce. Cover with sliced cheese, and sprinkle with Parmesan. Return to hot oven, and bake about 20 minutes longer, until cheese is melted, and edges well browned. Let stand three or four minutes, then cut into wedges to serve. Makes four to six servings.



GROUND TURKEY meat, now available at the meat counter of your supermarket, makes an exciting new pizza. Turkey pizza is quick and easy to prepare which makes it an ideal recipe for summer meals.

Simple Poaching Brings Out The Flavor Of Plums

Plum growers, gourmets and fresh plum lovers all agree that poaching is the ideal way to cook plums. The simple poaching treatment brings out their distinctive flavor, makes them even juicier — yet leaves their vivid color intact. Plums can be poached in a variety of liquids. These two recipes are examples:

PLUMS IN PORT SAUCE

Combine in a heavy saucepan two pounds of California plums, each plum slashed on one side to the pit, two cups port, one cup sugar, one-half an orange peel, grated, six cloves and a cinnamon stick. Bring to a boil and simmer about 10 minutes or until plums begin to soften. Refrigerate plums in port sauce a day or two to give the flavors a chance to mingle.

PLUM SAUCE

China, the ancestral home of the plum, has contributed a delicious plum sauce to international cuisine. The Chinese use plum sauces with their pork and duck; you'll find this updated version of Chinese plum sauce, with California plums, a piquant and zesty baste and sauce for barbecued spareribs.

In a saucepan, cook one wedged onion in oil until soft. Mix two tablespoons cornstarch with three-fourths cup vinegar and three-fourths cup sugar; add to the onion. Cook, stirring until thickened. Add two pounds pitted and quartered plums, one-half teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon almond extract. Continue cooking until plums are tender. Brush sauce on spareribs after 'ribs have been partially cooked; continue basting as they grill. Heat remaining sauce and serve it with the ribs.

Good Snacks

Roll out cheese pastry and cut into small squares. Make a turnover out of each square filling with a little currant jelly and sealing and crimping edges. Bake in a hot oven until browned.

Now Is The Time To Treat The Family To Top Favorite—Pears

Pears have been a favorite fruit with Americans for generations, and now is the time to buy them. Bartlett pears — the most popular variety — always come to market ahead of other pear varieties. Right now in stores across the country Bartlett pears from the new crop in California, Oregon and Washington are abundantly available.

Most of us, when we take home the first pears of the season, probably eat them fresh out-of-hand, or perhaps put them in a fresh fruit salad or in fruit cups. With their bland flavor they go well with tart and juicy fruits.

But for a change of pace in summer eating, baked pears are a delightful dessert. Why not try these interesting recipes.

BAKED PEARS

6 firm pears
½ cup boiling water
¼ cup brown sugar
2 teaspoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons brown sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
Whipped cream garnish

Wash and pare the pears; cut in half, core, and put into a shallow baking dish with the hollow side up. Combine boiling water, brown sugar, and lemon juice. Pour over pears and sprinkle with brown sugar mixed with cinnamon. Bake, uncovered, in 400 degree oven until tender, about 45 to 60 minutes. Serve pears hot or chilled, garnished with whipped cream. Makes six servings.

BARTLEE BREAD PUDDING

3 or 4 fresh Bartlett pears
¼ cup lemon juice
2 cups stale bread cubes
⅓ cup melted butter
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon allspice
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup raisins
Whipped cream or ice cream

Pare, halve and core pears; dice to measure three cups. Mix with lemon juice. Mix bread, butter, sugar, salt and spice. Place half of the combination in buttered one and a half quarter casserole; top with pears, raisins and remaining bread. Bake, covered, in 350 degree oven 15 minutes. Uncover; bake 20 minutes longer. Serve with whipped cream or vanilla ice cream, if desired. Makes four or five servings.

Turkey Can Help Solve Meat Costs

Turkey is always a treat, and in these days of soaring meat prices, there's more reason than ever to turn to turkey for delicious meals.

If you're having another couple over for dinner, you might build the menu around turkey alfredo. This glamorous recipe features marinated, Parmesan cheese-coated "steaks" of turkey breast, crunchy, sauteed almonds, and hot fruit simmered in wine.

With turkey alfredo, you might serve a risotto casserole, a cold marinated vegetable such as zucchini or broccoli, a tossed green salad and crisp bread sticks. Spumoni or sherbet and cookies would round out this elegant meal in an Italian mood and with a minimum of work. For the wine, select a full-flavored white or one of the lighter reds such as Zinfandel or Gamay beaujolais.

Some stores will pre-cut turkey steaks. If you don't find them where you shop, you can slice them yourself as the recipe directs. Leftover pieces can be used for turkey salad or sandwiches. Crisp, roasted slivered almonds, incidentally, are delectable in turkey salad and sandwich mixtures.

TURKEY ALFREDO

Turkey breast (about 1½ lbs.)
½ cup olive oil
½ cup dry white wine
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cracked black pepper
½ teaspoon Italian herb mixture or dried sweet basil, crushed
Flour
½ cup grated Parmesan or Romano cheese
¼ cup slivered almonds
½ large firm-ripe papaya or 2 medium-size firm-ripe pears

With a very sharp knife, remove skin from turkey breast and slice breast into four "steaks" about one-quarter inch thick. Combine one-quarter cup of the oil with two or three tablespoons of the wine, the salt, pepper and herbs; pour over turkey and marinate an hour or more.

Lift turkey slices out of marinade, dip in flour and then in grated cheese. Heat remaining olive oil in heavy frying pan. Saute' turkey in hot oil, turning several times, until golden brown; set aside on hot platter. Add slivered almonds to hot frying pan and cook, stirring, until lightly browned and crisp. Scatter over turkey steaks. Slice fruit and add to drippings along with remaining wine. When simmering, spoon fruit and pan sauce over turkey and almonds.

Makes four servings.

Breeding Ranch Begins As Adventure

By PAT BALMES

Long-time Belvedere residents Luetta Graham Michael and her grown children Janetta and Fletcher spend most of their time now breeding the nation's second largest herd of Peruvian Paso horses at their ranch in Guerneville.

Fifty of the rare, lateral-gaited horses romp in the corrals of Hacienda de la Solana, the Michael's Spanish-Moorish home on 64 wooded acres near the Russian River.

There are less than 800 Paso in the United States, according to Mrs. Michael, whose parents owned ranches in Texas.

"I remember as a child getting up before dawn, saddling horses and going riding with my father," Mrs. Michael said.

Her father, Fletcher Graham, retired from Texas' department store industry in the late 1940s, moved his family to a Belvedere Lagoon duplex and bought property in Healdsburg which is now Lake Sonoma Wilderness Area.

Graham bought his "House of Bright Sunshine" in 1951, the week before Bing Crosby was to inspect the property, Lu Michael mentioned.

"Janetta and Fletcher grew up coming here or going sailing on the Baruna," said Mrs. Michael, naming the yacht they once moored at Corinthian Yacht Club and sailed to Honolulu.

Janetta, 24, attended Dominican's lower and upper schools and was graduated from University of Texas, her mother's alma mater. Fletcher, 22, who studied at Marin Country Day School and St. Ignatius High School was graduated from the University of California at Davis in June.

"The kids have had their friends up. That is what's fun; I miss it when they do not come around. When Janetta was a debutante we had a party at the hacienda," said Mrs. Michael.

OVER COFFEE in the comfortable tackroom, Mrs. Michael explained that their breeding operation began years ago in a small way with American Shetland show ponies.

"It took a little doing to get Janetta to raise ponies instead of horses. Until she went away to college she was proving that she had the love and ability to run a good breeding operation with the ponies," Mrs. Michael said.

In 1970 the Michaels decided to become serious Peruvian Paso breeders and helped the workman pour foundations and nail shingles for more stables.

They chose the unusual horse for its gentle disposition and floating gait. "Once you ride it you stop and think that you want to breed a horse that people will grow to enjoy and want," said Lu Michael, who works around her four stallions.

Janetta and her mother traveled to Peru to buy "a few mares and a stallion," but returned with 18 Pasos.

Janetta was offered only poor horses at first. "The Peruvians were not going to sell her their good horses if Janetta did not know what she was doing," Lu Michael explained.

"Things changed when Janetta recognized a top horse and brought out things about blood lines that checked out. Then the word went around that she was a serious breeder," she said.

Offers of prized Pasos came from all corners of Peru.

Many Pasos were brought to Lima for the women to inspect, but sometimes they had to go to remote, mountainous areas.

Along one lonely road their driver bought dried fruit at every stand, explaining that the road became a cowpath through an area where they could be lost for days if they had car trouble, Mrs. Michael related.

While they were on the most remote part, their car's transmission fell out. A Volkswagen containing seven people and a dog rescued the Michaels and their driver.

She told of another adventure at Lima International Airport. While their Pasos were being loaded, one mare escaped and for a half hour ran loose on the runway. Take-offs and landings were suspended while every available man pursued her.

When captured, the mare broke loose again and the whole episode was repeated.

A MYSTERY unfolded when the Michaels landed in Miami with their first load of horses and received a call advising that one of their mares still in Peru was missing, she said.

It developed that the stable boy had borrowed the valuable horse to ride into town for a spree. He turned up in jail and the mare, for lack of a better facility, had been jailed too.

The first year at the hacienda with the imported horses was hectic because, according to Peruvian breeding custom, the mares foaled at different times during the year.

"We got awfully tired of watching for mares in labor all year round," said Lu Michaels.

This year 18 mares were scheduled to foal in the three spring months, so Janetta and Lu installed beds in the tackroom where they took turns watching closed circuit TV for mares in labor.

"We didn't get much sleep for three months," Mrs. Michaels said.

Janetta and the chalan (Peruvian horse man) train in traditional Peruvian fashion, using imported authentic equipment and devices, such as the leather eye covers worn on the horse's forehead which can be lowered over his eyes whenever the rider wants to leave him, eliminating tying.

STROLLING IN the sunshine among the corrals, Mrs. Michael pointed out their top stallion Hercules, one of the few really superior breeding stallions ever allowed to leave Peru, she said.

As each inquisitive paso came to the fence for attention, she told his background.

Afterward in the cool hacienda, built in 1939 with heavy beamed ceilings, floor tiles from Spain and foot thick walls, conversation turned to the Pacific Coast Peruvian Paso Horse Club show held last month at the Santa Rosa Fairgrounds. Mrs. Michael helped plan it, copying the relaxed atmosphere of Lima's horse show.

The foremost Paso authority, Senor Fernando Grana Elizalde, came from Peru to judge the Americans' horses.

Exhibitors wearing white ponchos and straw hats rode Pasos carrying authentic Peruvian trappings.

After the show the judge and the Fletchers dined at the San Francisco home of Peru's Ambassador to the United States, Fernando Berckemeyer.

"We had invited them to the show. The Berckemeyers are interested that people here are interested in Peruvian Pasos," said Lu Michael.

Janetta learned Spanish so she could learn more from older Peruvian horsemen about bloodlines and training, and she has traveled to Peru three times.

"The Peruvians are just as nice and helpful as they can be. She learns more and more every time she goes," she said.

The three Michaels plan to attend the horse show in Lima in October and renew friendships.

Be Careful With Handwash Clothes

Wool clothing labeled "handwash" indicate the garment should be laundered as if it is being hand washed. The hand wash cycle on an automatic washer may be labeled as "gentle" or "delicate."

Always wash with plenty of water. Water is a cushioning agent. When a full tub of water is used for a small load of delicates, the garments come cleaner because the water circulates gently and freely around the clothes.

Family Conflicts Said To Be Normal

Family conflicts and angry discussions are normal says Abraham Lurie, director of social work service at Long Island Jewish-Hillside Medical Center in New Hyde Park, N.Y.

"Family conflicts are to be expected and serve a useful purpose, releasing tensions and helping family members to interact and adjust," he said. "It is best to talk things over, even if it means having angry discussions at times."

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Man Told To Enjoy The Food But Find Females Elsewhere

DEAR LOVELY LADY:

I am a bachelor, aged 64, live in a nice apartment and have three sweet, good looking lady neighbors, two divorced and one single.

They know I live alone and am a poor cook, so they each bring me hot dinners. Some weeks I hardly cook at all.

My problem? I am not oversexed, but I find it hard to resist hugging and kissing them for being so good to old Georgie-Porgie. However, as they're about half my age, they assume the relationship is purely platonic.

I do not want to lose their friendship or those fine meals but, Helen, I got more kisses in grammar school than I get now.

I use mouth wash, deodorant and lime aftershave, and while I don't particularly want a wife, I would like female companionship. Should I move to an apartment house where the women wouldn't say I remind them of their father, or stay with food? — GEORGE

DEAR GEORGE:

Anyone who would move away from three sweet, good looking, undemanding cooks hasn't got his head on straight!

Keep them platonic if this is what they wish, but don't just sit there and eat. Look for a heart interest at a singles dance club, night school classes, hobby groups. . .you'd be surprised how many lonely middle-aged widows and divorcees show up at these. With your gift of gab, etc. you'll surely get lucky.

But, you'd better pick a girlfriend who is also a good cook. Hot dinners may stop when the apartment gals discover you are no longer lonely. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

My son and his wife didn't want their children. I cared for them off and on. Practically raised the youngest girl. She had to get married at 18, but the man left two weeks later.

When my darling great granddaughter arrived, I was her "mother" while my granddaughter went back to school. She showed no interest in the child, not even enough to feed her or change a diaper.

Then she remarried and took the 10-month-old with her. She and her husband joined a religious sect and spend all their time ringing doorbells.

They never cuddle the baby or show love, but raise her by the whip, as if you could chase the "devil" from children by beating them! I'm a Baptist, but they call me a pagan, so you can see how strict their "religion" is.

They've told me not to visit my great granddaughter. but I went there anyway this week and found her outdoors crying, sitting dangerously near a red ant hill. She had diarrhea and instead of getting medicine, they'd punished her. The stepfather used a mulberry limb for a switch, and the mother bragged that she'd "blistered her behind 14 times that day." She had welts all over her.

Helen, I can't stand what's happening to a once healthy, happy, good-natured child. Though I'm 70, I'm spry and would gladly take her, but I don't think the authorities would step in until she's really "battered," and then it may be too late. This couple has had her just three months, and already she has lost weight. How could anyone beat and neglect a 13-month-old baby?

What can I do? — GREAT GRANDMOTHER

DEAR GREAT GRANDMOTHER:

Don't assume the authorities will do nothing until you visit the Child Welfare Agency and tell them your story!

No report of battered (or potentially threatened) children is ignored. If your great grandchild is receiving the kind of neglect and punishment you describe in your long letter, she won't be left in this dangerous environment long. Count on it! — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? A fun idea? You can talk it over in hr column if you write to Helen Bottel, care of the Indpendent-Journal.

Three Japanese high school students are visiting in San Rafael for the next three weeks while two San Rafael High School juniors, Lynn Menary and Laura Martin, are staying in Utsunomiya, Japan.

Their visits are sponsored by the Rotary International Youth Project program. This is the third year the project has brought Japanese students to San Rafael.

The girls will stay with the San Rafael Rotary Club families of Messers. and Mmes. Theodore A. Martin, Herbert K. Walton Jr., Horace Hill, Carroll Walker, Patrick Leader and James L. Placak.

The girls, Akiko Fukeda, Nobuko Kawai and Yoko Sakio, will present a Senba Zuru lantern to the San Rafael Rotary Club at its meeting Aug. 20. The lantern is a symbol of "long life and good luck," and was made by the girls and their families from 1,000 hand folded paper crane birds.

The San Rafael girls will stay with Rotary families in Utsunomiya during their three-week visit. They left Monday for Japan.

FIRST YEAR

Play Helps To Awaken Infant To Surroundings

(Ninth in a series)

You and your baby, and your baby and his father, get to know and understand one another as you play together. He learns about his own body and about the world around him as he plays by himself. He reaches out and examines things, first with his eyes, then with his hands and then with his whole body. He listens, then responds, then imitates as you talk to him in play.

In the first months, baths, feeding times, and diaper changes give you the opportunity to handle each other, to listen to each other and to watch each other. You can stretch him out, pull him into a sitting or standing position and get to know the real strength he has in his grip and his muscles.

At first, he will play mostly with his eyes, looking at objects and following them as they move A few objects dangled on a string from his crib will give him something to watch. and so will the view out the window or the sight of you carrying on your usual household tasks.

By the time he is two to three months old, he will spend a great deal of time watching his hands as he reaches out and brings them back in front of his face. He will begin to laugh and squeal so you know when he really enjoys his own games and the games you play with him.

A TOY IS anything the baby plays with. He doesn't care whether it was purchased in the most expensive children's shop or is a cardboard tube from a roll of toilet paper. Spoons, boxes, pie tins, pieces of cloth, or clothespins will give him just as much to explore and just as much pleasure as expensive silver rattles.

To be safe, any toy you give your baby should:

Be sturdy enough that it will not splinter or break;

Be large enough so that he can't swallow it;

Have no sharp points or edges;

Have no parts that can come loose and be swallowed such as whistles on rubber toys, or buttons or eyes on stuffed animals and dolls;

Be painted with a safe paint.

The child needs only a few things to play with any one time – his crib shouldn't be stuffed with a great number of toys and household objects. However, the more different things he can look at, handle, bite, squeeze, scratch, bang, rattle, and throw, the more he will learn about what things are like. So change his toys frequently. Any household contains plenty of safe objects for even the most curious baby.

By three to four months, your baby will probably demand a little more excitement than he gets in his crib and in his usual daily care. He may let you know by screaming and crying from boredom or he may just be a little fussy.

HE WILL be happier spending a few hours a day sitting in an inclined infant seat watching you do your housework or cooking. He will also want to spend some time on the floor where he can roll, kick, and begin to learn to crawl. Keep a close eye on him when he is on the floor; he has enough strength to pull down a lamp or a small table and he can move amazingly far and fast even before he learns to crawl or creep.

A playpen can be useful because you can leave him there out of your sight for a few minutes while you carry on your household tasks. Later on he can use the bars or net of the playpen to pull himself up. And a playpen can make a handy crib for naps or even for all-night sleeping.

When he is quite small, you can make a playpen by blocking off a corner of a room with furniture or boxes. As he gets stronger, you will need something stronger that he can't move. As he grows older, he should be given some time each day when he is free to move about on the floor outside of the playpen. The older he gets the more carefully you will have to watch him to keep him out of trouble.

Council Rejects An Appeal For Building On San Anselmo Ridge

A controversial proposal to develop the ridgecrest along Oak Springs Drive was rejected Tuesday night by the San Anselmo City Council.

Councilmen voted 4-1 in opposing Kurt Kissman's appeal of planning commission denial of a plan to build eight single family homes along the ridge to complete an existing subdivision. Councilman Warren R. Perry opposed the move.

The council majority said no decision on additional homes on the ridge can be made until after the city's general plan is completed. The planning commission had denied the proposal on a 3-3 deadlock vote.

Councilmen denied the appeal despite a warning from James McKinney, Kissman's representative, thqt the city is headed for a "legal confrontation" over the matter.

McKinney rejected a compromise plan proposed by Perry, who said the council might accept fewer units along the ridge. McKinney called the proposal uneconomical.

"Make a decision and clearly state your reasons," he said, drawing the lone support of Perry.

The San Anselmo City Council Also:

ANGELA AVENUE — Extended to Sept. 11 the time by which owner Frances Merrill must remove or rehabilitate a dilapidated house at 89 Angela Avenue.

SEWER PROJECT — Urged the Ross Valley Sanitary District to speed completion of its downtown sewer improvement project, after learning the project is already two weeks behind schedule due to cave-ins and other delays. Merchants have complained the work is responsible for lagging business.

APPOINTMENT — Appointed Thomas R. Biesheuvel to the city planning commission and called for applicants for the seats of parks and recreation commissioner Jay Stovall and design review committeeman James Farnkopf, both of whom resigned.

BIDS — Awarded a $20,853 contract to W. K. McClellan Co., low bidder, for tennis courts at Red Hill School, pending bid approval by the San Anselmo School District. The project will be jointly funded.

PARK — Told D. H. Goltz and Johnson and Leffingwell Associates to prepare final drawings for Creek Park.

PARKS — Approved a recommendation by the parks and recreation commission tightening park and playground rules, including prohibiting park use between 9:30 p.m. and 6 a.m. unless otherwise posted. Blinder opposed the move.

GATE — Said the city will install a pedestrian access gate for hikers between 164 and 172 Oak Springs Drive.

PAY — Set the pay of newly appointed assistant fire chief Robert Beedle at $1,244 monthly, a 5 per cent boost from his pay as fire captain.

PERSONNEL — Appointed Donald Whitney as fire lieutenant at $1,079 monthly, and Larry Combs as fireman at $845 monthly. The council also said police clerk-dispatchers may shift from the miscellaneous to the safety personnel category, a move that cost the city about $360 annually and beefs up dispatcher fringe benefits.

STUDY — Said the county will conduct a geologic and slope stability study of the city for a $2,000 tab.

PURCHASE — Told City Atty. Hadden W. Roth to negotiate purchase of two parcels at Greenfield Avenue and Sequoia Drive needed for realignment of Greenfield Avenue.

SEWER — Approved an ordinance tightening city control of septic tanks and individual sewage systems.

HOUSING — Decided to wait until the city's general plan is completed before coming to grips with the problem of nonconforming, second dwellings on single family lots.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Aug. 28.

Campaign Fund Limit Rejected

A bid by San Anselmo City Councilman Martin G. Blinder to put a lid on campaign spending was rejected by his colleagues Tuesday night.

Fellow councilmen told Blinder that the state elections code already regulates campaign spending and public disclosure of expenses, obviating any local law.

Blinder had proposed that no candidate be allowed to spend more than the sum derived by multiplying the number of registered voters in San Anselmo by 12 cents, or about $800 at present.

Candidates would also be prohibited from accepting a donation of more than $100 from any single contributor under Blinder's proposal, or from accepting from all contributors money totaling more than the $800 tabulation.

Willful failure to report contributions would result in a $500 fine, and anyone convicted of violation of the ordinance would be removed from office, according to the proposal.

Colleagues felt the ordinance was too tough, said the city has never been plagued by big spenders, and claimed existing state law provides the necessary regulation, anyway.

In addition, the ordinance discriminates against those without previous public exposure who must rely on advertising, and limits free access to the press to respond to last-minute smers and electioneering, said Councilman Warren R. Perry.

Registration Set For Tennis Classes

Registration for classes in beginning, intermediate and advanced tennis will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday in Albert Park and at the Terra Linda recreation center, the San Rafael Parks and Rcreation Department announced yesterday.

Each resident registering must contribute a new tennis ball to the department according to Ralph Dannenberg, assistant recreation supervisor. Classes begin Aug. 27, he said.

San Anselmo Council Gets Tough On Dogs

San Anselmo city councilmen Tuesday night approved tough new dog controls that will require dogs to be leashed or "at heel" when on public property.

The council also endorsed a new regulation that will limit to two the number of dogs allowable per household, with "some provision for a variance" for dog owners having or wanting more than two pets. Mayor Lewis W. (Skip) Stewart opposed the two-dog limit.

The council, in giving informal approval to ordinances provided by colleague Martin G. Blinder, directed City Atty. Hadden W. Roth to prepare the new measures for adoption Aug. 28.

Blinder's proposal for a leash law amendment to the existing animal control law — which merely says animals must be under the control of a responsible person — won prompt support from fellow councilmen, but the two-dog lid sparked some disagreement.

"That has overtones of 1984," said Stewart. "I don't like to limit the number of animals any one person can have."

Blinder's suggestion that owners having more than two dogs pay a $25 fee and present certificates of sterilization for each additional animal was decried as "a lot of bunk" by one angry dog lover.

"This ordinance is nuts," declared Attilio Segale of 20 Holstein Road. "This is stupid. Pay $25 for an extra dog? That doesn't make sense. There ought to be some way of controlling the people, not the dogs," he exclaimed.

Councilmen sidestepped the fee and sterilization issue, telling staff to wrestle with a variance procedure allowing more than two dogs.

"We humans and our pets are taking over the world," said Blinder, claiming that dogs threaten the existence of other living things since dog food "comes from whales and wild mustangs." The tough new dog controls, he said, will assure that the burden as well as the pleasure of owning a dog is assigned to the dog owner, and not distributed to the rest of the community.

Trans-Gate Bus Tube Argued; Study Set

A study of expanded transit between Marin and San Francisco was broadened Tuesday night to include a tube under the bay to Sausalito.

Adding the tube to the study was branded "really a wasted effort" by Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco, president of the Golden Gate Bridge District board of directors. He nevertheless joined in the unanimous vote by the board of control for the study.

The action by the board, which includes representatives of the district, the counties of Marin, Sonoma and San Francisco and Metropolitan Transportation Commission, also was over the objections of Sausalito's planning director, Herb Case. He appealed unsuccessfully for delay because Marin citizens only recently learned about the push for the tube.

The push, he noted, came from the citizens panel advising consultants doing the study. The citizens primarily are from San Francisco, Case said, and oppose any alternative that would call for tunnels through San Francisco neighborhoods.

Leonoudakis said all previous transit studies have found the tube "completely impractical" because of opposition from Sausalito and its cost, which he said was "hundreds of millions."

(Sausalito Mayor Robin Sweeney warned the citizens panel on July 26 that "this is a village of 6,000 people who will not be destroyed.")

The board's approval of some $36,000 to expand the study was urged by the chairman of the citizens advisory panel, Peter McCrea of San Francisco. The study's original budget was $945,000.

Gifford Randall of Kaiser Engineers,, the prime contractor for the study, said tubes studied previously were for trains. The extra money was needed because the system now being considered would use buses, thus new engineering is needed to provide ventilation, he said.

San Francisco Supervisor John Molinari said preliminary plans, which showed the tube coming into Sausalito's downtown, could be changed to extend it under Richardson Bay to Marinship. He did not offer an estimate of the additional cost.

Uncle Sam Seeks Tranquilizer Control

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Drug Enforcement Administration moved today to place federal controls over the nation's two largest selling prescription tranquilizers, Librium and Valium, to prevent the drugs from reaching the illicit market.

John R. Bartels Jr., acting administrator of the drug agency, said the move to put the antianxiety drugs under guidelines of the Control Substances Act climaxes a seven-year fight by federal drug enforcement agencies to prevent abuse and diversion of Librium and Valium to the illicit market.

Tam CSD Tax Rate Is Lowered

Granting taxpayers a three-cent decrease in the tax rate, Tamalpais Community Services District directors Tuesday night approved a $226,548 budget for 1973-74. (Another services district story, page 1.)

The budget is up $67,746 over last year's $158,802 spending plan. Some $46,555 of the increase comes from the district's entrance into the garbage collection business, according to Dist. Mgr. Leonard M. Mitchell.

The drop in the tax rate in spite of the additional budget burden resulted from a large increase in assessed valuation within the district. The tax rate was lowered to 32 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The board discovered it had about $6,000 excess over the proposed budget after the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District submitted its bill for sewage treatment for Tamalpais Valley.

After considering allocating the excess to the park and recreation budget, directors voted to pass the savings along to taxpayers with a tax rate decrease.

With an assessed valuation of $1.7 million, the three-cent cut decreased district tax revenues by $5,100. The other $900 of the $6,000 excess was funneled into trail easements in the park and recreation budget.

Budget allocations with this year's figure in parenthesis are salaries, $35,752 ($32,652); sanitation, $80,141 ($77,800); garbage and debris $46,555 ($0); park and recreation $43,500 ($31,350), and administration $20,600 ($17,000).

Skate-A-Thon Set At Marin Skateland

An all-day Skate-A-Thon for the benefit of Muscular Dystrophy, will be held starting at 10 a.m., Sept. 2 at Marin Skateland in San Rafael.

Members of their skate club and others interested in helping, will get pledges for the time they skate, said David H. Bergson, owner-manager of the skating rink.

Assembly Action Delayed On Reviving Death Penalty

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A showdown vote on bills reviving the death penalty in California was abruptly delayed for one week by a key Assembly committee Tuesday in hopes secret negotiations will result in a compromise measure.

Assemblyman Julian C. Dixon, the deciding vote on the Criminal Justice Committee, asked for the postponement to give him more time for private talks with Sen. George Deukmejian, the legislature's leading advocate of capital punishment.

"I think it would be safe to say I will vote for some death penalty bill if it contains the proper ingredients," Dixon told newsmen. He declined to specify what the ingredients would be.

The Los Angeles Democrat also predicted for the first time that "some form" of capital punishment legislation will be signed into law this year. Most observers agree that if a death penalty bill clears the liberal-dominated committee it will pass the entire legislature.

Assemblyman Frank Murphy, GOP caucus chairman, protested that the negotiations were being conducted secretly and demanded that the issue be decided soon by the seven-man committee.

"I'd prefer to have our business done in public," the Santa Cruz lawmaker said, complaining that Republicans were not "cut in" on the negotiations.

But to the amazement of a standing room-only crowd which included a platoon of prison guards, committee chairman Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles, adjourned the hearing "to allow those negotiations to continue to see whether agreement is possible."

The discussions between Dixon and Deukmejian only began Monday, although the issue had been before the committee for three months. Dixon said he waited because he "had not made up my own mind on what the essence of the bill should be."

After their initial meeting, both lawmakers expressed "cautious optimism" that they could iron out their differences. Dixon declined to say what type of crimes he wanted to be covered by the supreme penalty.

Deukmejian's bill (SB450) considered the most significant of nine rival bills before the committee, would mandate capital punishment for hired assassins, torture slayers, mass murderers and killers of peace officers.

Deukmejian said he will begin an initiative drive to reinstate the death penalty if the legislature fails to pass a bill by Sept. 15, the day when the legislature is scheduled to adjourn.

Last year, prison guards led an initiative campaign which led to voter approval of Prop. 17, a measure which gave the legislature power to reinstate capital punishment, which had been struck down by court decisions.

Judge To Hear Nazi Crime Case

DUESSELDORF, West Germany (UPI) — Hermine Braunsteiner Ryan, a New York housewife extradited to West Germany on charges of Nazi concentration camp atrocities, will appear before an investigating judge next week.

"We are waiting for Mrs. Ryan's American lawyer to fly over," a spokesman for the prosecutor's office said Tuesday. "Mrs. Ryan has already been down for questioning but refused to speak, taking advice from her German lawyer."

Mrs. Ryan, 53, faces a possible life sentence if convicted on charges she sent more than 2,000 women and children to their death in German and Polish concentration camps where she served as a guard. The Austrian-born woman entered the United States in 1961 after marrying Russell Ryan, a New York construction worker.

Woman Loses $10,000 Bill

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A 63-year-old woman says a $10,000 U.S. Treasury bill disappeared from her purse Tuesday in the lobby of the First Western Bank.

Marie Walker told police she was jostled by two young men when she entered the bank and later noticed her purse open.

The federal note was purchased late Monday, said Mrs. Walker, after she learned that it paid an annual interest rate of 8.94 per cent.

Treasury bills are "easily negotiable," a Federal Reserve spokesman said, adding that it simply takes a signature on the reverse side.

MEMENTOES — The past and the present stand in painful contrast for Walter and Anna Strikker of Mill Valley, surrounded by their son's trophies as they peruse the latest report on his condition in a Napa hospital. Their 21-year-old son, Leonard, injured two years ago while practicing the horsemanship he loved, has lain ever since in what seems to them a long, long sleep from which they wonder if he will ever wake.

Airing Of Larkspur's Plan Set

The Larkspur Planning Commission has set 7:30 p.m. Aug. 23 for a public hearing on the text of the proposed general plan for the city, according to John Roberto, city planning director.

Copies of a draft of the text will be available at noon Thursday at city hall for interested residents, he said. The tentative map for the general plan already has been approved.

The text will deal with the nine elements required by state law, including such factors as housing and open space.

The public hearing will be in the city hall.

In other action Tuesday, the planning commission turned down a proposal by the Larkspur Square Shopping Center for a reader board on the center property, saying it might obstruct vision at an intersection and possibly would conflict with a proposed service station on the property.

The commission also approved a tentative map for conversion of about nine apartments at 45 Corte Real to condominiums.

Cancer Society Slates Benefit

A benefit barbecue, concert and dance for the Marin Unit of the American Cancer Society will be held 4 p.m. Sunday at the Deer Park Villa in Fairfax.

Entertainment will be provided by a 19-member band of Bay area professionals assembled by Cuz Cousineau of Mill Valley. Square dancing and palm reading will also take place.

Information is available from the American Cancer Society, 18 Mary Street, San Rafael.

Man Bound Over On Forgery Charge

A Santa Venetia man Tuesday was bound over to Marin Superior Court for trial on a charge of credit card forgery. Joseph William Bradford, 32, of 10 La Brea Way, was ordered to appear Monday.

Municipal Court Judge Gary W. Thomas ruled there exists sufficient evidence to try Bradford on a charge he tried to buy $231 in stereo equipment from Pay Less Drugs in the Northgate Shopping Center Aug. 4 using a credit card belonging to John Peabody of Corte Madera.

Redevelop Panel Votes Contracts

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency Commission on Tuesday approved contracts totaling $24,000 for two attorneys and a real estate consultant, according to Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director.

Commissioners approved amended contracts for the remainder of 1973 for Douglas C. Myers, land and real estate consultant, for an added $8,000, (bringing his total pay to $34,000 for two years) and granted attorney Benjamin James an additional $8,000 bringing his total 1973 salary to $16,000.

They also renewed a contract for attorney Leland H. Jordan which expired Aug. 8. Jordan will be paid $8,000 for legal services through August 1974.

Shepherd was authorized to hire a consulting firm to complete an environmental impact report for a proposed access road connecting Marin City and Tennessee Valley.

The executive director was also told to hire the firm of Gonzalez and Oberkamper to design stairs and a walkway to connect Donahue Street and Guy Circle and to prepare plans for widening the road leading to the sewage pumping station off Donahue Street. Cost of the design work is not to exceed $4,000.

Woman, 75, Is Fair From Crash

A 75-year-old San Rafael woman was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with injuries incurred Tuesday in an automobile accident.

Zelma MacKenzie, of 1120 Nye Street, suffered a fractured shoulder blade, multiple rib fractures and multiple bruises, according to a hospital spokesman.

No details of the accident were available from the California Highway Patrol.

Shops Polled On Tiburon Street Plan

Main Street in Tiburon should remain a two-way road, according to businessmen on that street who answered a survey of the Tiburon Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber board heard a report Tuesday on the survey, from director Rod Taft.

According to Taft, 33 businessmen out of about 40 on the street answered the poll. Of the respondents, 27 wanted the street to remain two-way, four wanted it to become one-way running towards Tiburon Boulevard, one wanted it one-way running away from Tiburon Boulevard, and one favored making the road a pedestrian mall.

Also at the board meeting, directors selected vice-president Charles Patterson to be president until regular chamber elections are held in November. He will fill the chair of Gerald Cullinane who has resigned

FELL FROM HORSE IN 1971

Parents Keep Vigil With Son Unconscious For Over 2 Years

By REBECCA LARSEN

Every day for more than two years, Walter and Anna Strikker of Tamalpais Valley have made the two-hour round trip to a hospital in Napa County where their only son Leonard lies in a coma.

As long as he doesn't give up, we can't either," said Mrs. Strikker.

At their home on Bell Lane, the two native Hollanders described their lives as a closely confined world of visits to the hospital, a few hours spent on part-time jobs and rare hours with friends.

"You learn to live with it," said Mrs. Strikker. "But once in a while it hits you bad again. You never feel really good."

An accomplished horseman, Leonard, now 21, was injured in 1971 in a fall from a horse.

After winning dozens of blue ribbons and trophies in horse shows in his years at Tamalpais High School, young Strikker had decided when he graduated that he wanted to become a horse trainer instead of going to college.

So he got a job on a big cattle and horse ranch near Geyserville. Then on June 19, 1971, while rounding up cattle, his horse slipped throwing him to the ground. "Those little falls used to happen all the time," said his father. "But this time it was summer, and the ground was hard."

Ever since, Strikker has been at Queen of the Valley Hospital in Napa where he has shown no signs of consciousness.

"To look at him you wouldn't think he was sick," said Mrs. Strikker. "He just looks like he's sleeping."

At first, the Strikkers spent entire days at the hospital. But for the past few months, they've been breaking up their visits. They go in the morning for a few hours, then leave to shop, eat or visit for the afternoon and return to the hospital at night.

On days when Mrs. Strikker works at her delicatessen job in San Rafael, her husband goes to the hospital alone in the mornings, and the two visit Leonard together at night.

Strikker also works occasionally as part-time yacht maintenance jobs. He gave up a full-time job just after the accident.

The trip is strenuous and costly. Their 1967 Pontiac now has 134,000 miles on it.

Because of the mileage and bad rains they drove through last winter, they have now put up for sale their tidy pale green stucco and frame house where they have lived for nine years. "I'd like to find some place to live halfway between Napa and Marin," said Strikker, "so we could at least take off half the distance."

Most of the medical expenses are covered by Leonard's insurance. "They're very, very nice at that hospital," said Strikker. "The care is marvelous."

Nurses now let the Strikkers bathe and feed their son and change his bedding. "We talk to him we put the radio on, we exercise his arms and legs, we try to wake him up," said Mrs. Strikker.

Sometimes the hospital doctors talk about moving Leonard to a convalescent home. "But it seems like every time they do, he gets a high fever or develops complications," she said.

The complications have included pneumonia, a collapsed lung and infected kidneys. One hopeful sign is that Leonard is breathing on his own again after 18 months of using a respiratory machine. He is fed through a tube.

Mrs. Strikker said that rather than move Leonard to a convalescent hospital, she would bring him home even though he would need 24-hour-a-day care.

There are still moments of deep grief. "Once in a while you go to bed and say, 'I hope I don't get up in the morning,' " said Mrs. Strikker. "You shed a lot of tears."

But they still have some hope that Leonard may recover. Mrs. Strikker was encouraged by another boy in a coma for nine months at the same hospital who slowly came out of it. "His mother had given up hope too."

Would it be better if Leonard had died in the accident? "If it had happened in the beginning, we couldn't have gotten over it," said Mrs. Strikker. "If something happens now, we would. He's a sick boy. If he comes out of it, we don't know what kind of person he would be. We would accept it better if something happened to him today or tomorrow."

But as long as Leonard breathes, they will keep their vigil. "He was always a pretty good kid," said Strikker. "He was hardworking and he respected us. So he deserves that we take care of him the best that we can."

'Public Hearings' Not For The Public

Independent-Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
24 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 15, 1973 EDITORIAL PAGE

What is a public hearing, anyhow?

Almost anyone probably would reply, "Why, that is a meeting held to hear from the public."

We'd agree. That's what a public hearing is — but not in the eyes of bureaucracy, which has a way of twisting meanings to suit its own purposes.

THERE AS AN example last week in San Francisco. The Environmental Protection Agency set a public hearing on a federal plan to force Bay Area residents out of their automobiles and off their motorcycles. The plan calls for cutting off gasoline sales on smoggy days, restricting the number of motorcycles to those already registered, banning motorbikes with two-stroke engines during the daytime, reducing the amount of public parking by 20 per cent, and limiting the mileage we'd be allowed to drive our cars. All this could be done, according to EPA, under authority of the Clean Air Act of 1971.

And so, having announced this drastic plan for a new dictatorship, EPA set a public hearing. Some 200 people showed up for it at the San Francisco Federal Building.

And then the hearing officer, a gent named Charles Eckerman who is assistant regional counsel for EAP, announced that members of the public who wanted to be heard would have to wait until all state and local officials finished testifying.

The state and local officials took all day. Most of the members of the public had to leave — they had to get back to work, since they can't afford to miss a day when one day's work out of five goes to support those state and federal officials anyhow.

PUBLIC HEARING? Only in bureaucratese. Here were all these public officials, from Mayor Joe Alioto of San Francisco to District Director Thomas R. Lammers of the California Department of Transportation to assorted underlings of a flock of other state, regional and local agencies, all being paid for their time by John Q. Taxpayer — and taking up the time that was supposed to be allowed John Q.. to sound off about a proposed federal regulation!

This EPA performance was a particularly disgusting one. But the same kind of thing happens week after week in Sacramento, at the Marin County Civic Center, and wherever "public hearings" are set.

The bureaurcrats, who are paid to be there, take all the time they want. John Q. Taxpayer, who is losing money for every hour he spends at the hearing, waits and stews — and maybe gets a chance to get a few words in, maybe not.

All these bureaucrats and politicians could set forth their views in official statements (prepared in at least quadruplicate, of course) and file 'em with the hearing officer as Exhibits One through Umpty-seven.

Public hearings should be to hear from the public.

Nixon Rates 'Scotch Verdict' On Watergate At This Point

WASHINGTON — If the Senate Watergate committee were a court of law, the presiding judge would have been asked to dismiss the accusations against President Nixon as "unproved," and undoubtedly would have done so and dismissed the jury.

But dealing with the jury of public opinion is different and more difficult. According to all the polls, it has already at this point brought in a majority verdict against the President of "guilty to some degree." Mr. Nixon will have to persuade his audience, including many who earnestly hope he can do so, that he is innocent of any attempt to cover up the Watergate crimes.

As the testimony before the Ervin committee now stands, he has considerable material to work with. Of the 35 witnesses who appeared before the committee during its 37 days of hearings before recess, only one — former White House Counsel John Dean — testified that Mr. Nixon knew of and either condoned or assisted in the coverup.

Several witnesses who were not beholden to the President and had nothing to gain by holding back information testified that they had no evidence that the President was involved in the coverup and did not believe he was involved.

One important part of Dean's documentation, that Mr. Nixon responded favorably to Dean's remark that it might take a million dollars to "take care" of the convicted Watergate burglars, was contradicted on the basis of the tapes. H. R. Haldeman testified that after the President had said it would not be difficult to raise that amount, the completed sentence included, "but that would be wrong."

Part of Mr. Nixon's difficulty is that he cannot make his case from a position of much credibility. He has had to withdraw previous statements authorized by him.

Further, the evidence is now on the record to show that officials responsible to the President committed noxious crimes against the law and the American people, discrediting their government and despoiling the democratic process.

The sum of these crimes is greater than their separate parts:

1 — Illegal collection of campaign funds.

2 — Misuse of campaign funds.

3 — Violation of election campaign fund reporting laws.

4 — Illegal breaking and entering of a psychiatrist's office without a search warrant, and attempted theft of private papers in an effort to convict another of the theft of the government's private papers.

5 — Burglary and bugging of Democratic National Committee headquarters by employees responsible to the White House and the Committee for the Re-Election of the President.

6 — Committing perjury and suborning perjury.

7 — Attempts by White House aides to obstruct justice.

8 — Grievously improper attempts to use such nonpartisan agencies of the government as the CIA and the FBI to deter the investigation of crimes already committed. Example: requests that the CIA illegally use its secret funds to pay the bail and salaries of convicted Watergate criminals.

9 — Attempts to use the Internal Revenue Service to punish critics and reward friends of the Administration.

10 — Theft of Sen. Edmund Muskie's stationery and the fabrication and distribution of letters imputing offensive crimes against another Democratic candidate, thus hurting them both.

11 — Fabricating diplomatic cables to try to show that President John Kennedy procured the assassination of Ngo Dinh Diem of South Vietnam.

Those in the White House and in the Committee for the Re-Election of the President who committed or procured these acts had a tremendous stake in covering them up.

Simpler Solution To Sales Tax Surplus

I have read with interest the length to which the State Legislature has gone to cut that nasty 6 per cent sales tax that went into effect July 1, 1973.

Our highly paid, well-endowed Legislators have, after weeks of night and day negotiations come up with three possible solutions. One would be a six-month suspension of the one per cent tax boost beginning Oct. 1. Another plan, by our own Assemblyman William T. Bagley, would cut the present 6 per cent tax by a half cent for at least a year beginning Jan. 1, 1974. The third plan is similar to the Bagley plan but would begin in October.

I would like to propose a fourth solution to the 1 per cent sales tax hike — cut the sales tax back to 5 per cent immediately! Doesn't that seem logical, Mr. Bagley?

Thanks To Motorist Who Responded Quickly

I would like to express my deep appreciation to the young woman who was driving a light grey car on Highway 101 on Aug. 8 at approximately 12:05 p.m. near the entrance ramp southbound at Corte Madera. As my car entered the freeway at approximately 35 mph the station wagon in front of me suddenly braked for no reason. There was a young boy of about 5 years of age sitting at the rear of the wagon with his head and arm hanging out the window.

I slammed on my brakes to avoid hitting him and my car went into a spin and turned around and straddled the first two lanes. The young woman in the second lane reacted immediately and most fortunately stopped in time to avoid hitting the driver's door. I know she saved my life and I would like to take this opportunity to thank her. I would also like to warn parents against allowing children to hang out of car windows. As the mother of three children, I can't understand why parents permit their children to be in such a hazardous situation.

Coalition Forms To Battle Collective Bargaining Bills

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Last Nov. 7, an initiative proposition which would have mandated union collective bargaining for state employees was buried under a two-thirds "no" vote.

Despite that resounding public turndown, two bills to permit exclusive union bargaining for public employees in California are being pushed in the legislature. They are Assembly Bill 1243 by Assemblyman Bob Moretti, D-North Hollywood, and Senate Bill 400 by Sen. George R. Moscone, D-San Francisco. (It is perhaps not mere coincidence that both Moretti and Moscone aspire to win the Democratic nomination for governor next year, and both hope for union support to get it.)

AB 1243 would specifically authorize the "agency shop" — under which payment of union dues is a requirement for holding a job — in all California public employment. SB 400, which applies only to school employees, inferentially permits the "agency shop."

DESPITE THE overwhelming rejection of last November's Proposition 15, which would have imposed such collective bargaining on state employees (but not other public employees), opposition to AB 1243 and SB 400 has been spotty and ill-organized.

A coalition now has been formed to fight both bills.

Called the Coalition for Public Rights, it was put together by the Professional Educators of Los Angeles, Secondary and Elementary Teachers Organization of Los Angeles, Professional Educators Group of California, and Friends of Education.

The coalition is headed by Robert H. Monson, with a mailing address of P. O. Box 403, Calabasas 91302.

ALTHOUGH THE opposition so far appears to be centered mainly in Los Angeles County, the effect of either SB 400 or AB 1243 would be as devastating in Marin, Sonoma or even Alpine County.

Under AB 1243, all public employees would be subject to exclusive union representation. State and federal laws now prohibit such exclusive bargaining — although they do not prohibit union organization of public employees. Getting the laws changed along the line of AB 1243 is a national goal of the American Federation of Labor-Congress of Industrial Organizations. The reason is simple: Public employment is the fastest-growing portion of the job market; getting dues from all public employees therefore would vastly enrich union treasuries.

Teachers would be included, along with policemen, social workers, court clerk and the rest, under AB 1243. But SB 400 is for teachers and school employees only. It would bring union control in the most sensitive area: the eduction of children.

SINCE SB 400 would make just about everything relating to conduct of the schools — except how to pay the bills — subject to union negotiation, it would in effect turn control of the public schools over to the dominant unions.

School trustees, unlike directors of private corporations, do not have the options of closing plants, cutting back production, or taking other means to counter rising labor costs. They must operate under a multitude of laws which require them not only to keep the schools open for a specified number of days each year but also restrict class sizes, impose transportation costs, and otherwise reduce their ability to maneuver financial resources. And the finances they have are not theirs; they are taxes wrung from the public by compulsion.

IN ITS CAMPAIGN against the two bills, the Coalition for Public Rights quotes State Sen. John Stull, R-Encinitas: "Public employment is not a proper arena for such labor-management negotiations, because tax dollars are involved."

An elected official of quite different political persuasion from state Senator Stull said it better nearly 40 years ago, when President Franklin D. Roosevelt declared:

"All government employees should realize that the process of collective bargaining as we understand it cannot be transplanted into the public service."

Medical science finally discovered why birth control pills have not been effective in Colombia.

When the pills were made available to peasant women in that country they gave 'em to their husbands.

Family planning in Colombia means that the head of the family is supposed to get the first crack at everything that's edible.

Feeding birth control pills to husbands may teach those male chauvinist pigs not to be so piggy.

Being 'On The Take' Vs. Conspiring To Rob, Punish, Malign Opponents

WASHINGTON — Fifteen years ago, a senior Democrat sat across the table from me in a restaurant near the state house at Annapolis, Md., and delivered a late evening civics lecture I have never forgotten.

It has stuck because then, no doubt, I was more innocent, or anyhow idealistic. I had never heard a politician let out such an unguarded self-revelation before. Ever since, it has been part of the frame in which I see Annapolis, a capital that by reputation houses one of the more venal state legislatures in recent history. And more specifically, it says something that needs saying about political assumptions in the booming Baltimore suburbs where Spiro T. Agnew came into politics, before he was governor or vice president or under investigation by federal authorities.

IF YOU REPORTERS are so smart, this legislator said, why do you go around quoting and publicizing all these do-good jerks around here? They're not making any money, just making speeches. I made $40,000 last year and I'm going to make a hell of a lot more. If you're so smart, why don't you run for something yourself? That's where the money is.

Since then, that legislator has served a prison term — convicted of taking money he should not have. In the past decade, a young Democrat who was then a freshman in the same county legislative delegation, known as the golden boy of his party in Maryland, has risen to the U.S. Senate — and has been convicted of taking a bribe there. Over the years, the investigations have been many, the convictions several, and more legal action is yet to come in Baltimore County.

The tremendous growth of the county in the postwar period, when rezoning, paving and construction spread crazily, placed thousands of annual opportunities for shady profits before politicians and contractors. The opportunities have been the same in most of the great suburban jurisdictions of the country, but in Baltimore County they coincided with a political atmosphere in which boodle seemed as standard as sample ballots, an attitude expressed in that conversation remembered above.

MR. AGNEW CAME into politics through the board of zoning appeals, where fortunes are involved and high-rollers in land speculation are made and broken. Then he was county executive, then governor. The opportunities were everywhere around him.

The intention here, in recalling the atmosphere from which Agnew sprang, is to do the opposite of prejudging his situation. He is not even indicted, much less convicted, and he says he will not be.

In our country we have and should insist on absolute standards for people on the public payroll; it will be a sad day when we start congratulating officeholders just for being innocent of crime. Yet, considering the possibilities that have surrounded him, the vice president may deserve more than routine credit if he turns out spotless in all this. Against his background, this could help instead of hurt his presidential ambitions.

AGAINST HIS BACKGROUND, that is, as well as his foreground — the atmosphere from which he sprang, and the one he sprang into. Baltimore County, where not every politician is on the take but everybody assumes everybody else is, is just the kind of place so many apathetic Americans were thinking of when they shrugged in the early stages of the national election scandal and said, "That's just politics. They all do it."

But there is a qualitative difference between the acceptance of tainted money, even in sizable sums, and the creation of burglary squads, eavesdropping, blacklisting, retaliating, conspiring to keep one man in the White House. Amid a secret-police apparatus, a man who is merely suspected of pocketing dollar kickbacks may look downright wholesome by comparison.

Plenty Of Costly Pork In That Big State Budget

By RUS WALTON

Your money is burning a hole in the politicians' pockets.

And through that hole has poured a big, fat ($9.4 billion) state budget marbled with the fat of excess and extravagance.

Verne Orr, state director of finance, admits the 1973-74 budget is full of "pork."

That "pork" is costing taxpayers hundreds of millions of extra dollars. It comes in various chunks and sizes. Here are a few:

—A $200 million increase, this year over last, in the operational and capital costs of state agencies;

—Another $226 million for an average 12 per cent increase in salaries for state and employes. (As California Taxpayers Association suggests, an increase of 6 per cent would have been equitable. State workers have received a 42 per cent pay increase over the past five years.);

—An increase of $68 million for U.C. and the state colleges and universities in the face of declining enrollment;

—$42 million for a down payment on Sen. Randolph Collier's twin towers (or, whatever form new legislative quarters take), and —At least another $50 million in new park and recreation projects to "buy" the budget votes to sustain Collier's seed money for those memorial towers.

Those excesses and extravagences were made easier, if not possible, by that $826 million surplus hanging in the Sacramento packing house. By the end of the year that carcass may be bloated to $1 billion.

Politicians would have you believe that surplus was unexpected. Back in December, 1971, and again in March, 1972, this column predicted the huge surplus and suggested it might go as high as $1 billion.

A surplus is no excuse for increased and unnecessary spending. Surplus or no, any politican with a sense of responsibility should approach each expenditure, each increased or new program, with this question:

"If I had to vote for a tax increase to pay for this appropriation, would I have the guts to do it?"

SB 90, the "tax reform" package of 1972, is a monstrous measure. Within the next four years, it will increase the cost of state government by at least $1 billion a year.

This year's "trailer" bill to correct SB 90's deficiencies and technical discrepancies is almost as voluminous as the original legislation. That's what happens when politics supersede reason and ambition overrides responsibility; the cost of political passion is paid by the taxpayer.

That one-cent state sales tax increase? It's part of that damnable tax reform package.

Heat from the taxpayers has singed the tails of the politicians and they rush to delay or temporarily reduce that $650 million tax take. They have the gall to claim they are "saving" us $320 million by temporarily repealing or reducing the one-cent increase. How can the remaining increase of $320 million be considered a saving?

Opponents of Governor Reagan's tax-and-spend limitations complain such restriction would put state government in a strait-jacket. After this year's wanton extravagence and hanky-panky with the surplus and the budget and the sales tax, who but a politician would deny such a strait-jacket is essential?

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By MARY LEYDECKER

Score One For Friendly Computer: No More Long Lines At College

"They" have had a particularly bad year — "they have seen that almost everything is worse than it used to be.

One exception, though, is the doing away with a longtime nuisance at College of Marin; the endless lines that used to accompany fall registration at the school. A friendly computer is being used now so that students can choose their classes during quiet, scheduled conferences with their counselors.

The computer tells the counselors each day what classes are still open — and even suggests that "they" can schedule additional ones if necessary. When school starts, students just go to classes, hand in cards if they intend to stay, and that's it.

WHEN I-J REPORTER Pat Perry moved back to her native England earlier this month, she received a send-off from her colleagues at a party where a cake baked at San Quentin Prison was the highlight of the evening.

The convict-baker who frosted it decorated the cake with a ship, even though he knew Mrs. Perry was taking a plane. "I need the practice on ships," he said. When asked why the frosting was not yellow as he had promised, he replied, "Listen, I didn't get in here by doing things right."

WATCHING THE Bank of America parking lot on a quiet summer morning, one sees the Whistlestop Wheels bus pull up, a young man hop out, help three elderly women out and then wait while they do their banking.

This service for Marin's senior citizens, described in a recent I-J article, is an especially worthwhile enterprise — these women probably could have banked by mail, but how much nicer to be out in the world and go in person to one's bank!

This thought led to further speculation. The food situation is bad enough for all of us, but most of us who live in Marin can get by eating more casseroles and less steak — or whatever.

But for the elderly on fixed incomes, who probably could afford precious little meat even before the prices started to soar, the inflation is particularly awful.

In some communities, operators of moderate-priced restaurants or cafeterias offer a "senior citizens' special" each day. This set menu, usually including soup or salad, home-type entree and vegetables, dessert and coffee, is priced cheaper than other offerings, but it is sold in off-hours — such as between 1:30 and 5 p.m.

This gives the elderly a chance to have one good hot meal a day — and since many are not big eaters, anyway, sufficies for a combination lunch and dinner.

Wonder if some local group could get such a plan going in Marin?

Reagan Takes Middle Road On Contenders

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan announced Tuesday he could support any of the five major Republican contenders for governor in 1974.

Reagan also gave Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, who has been beset by political problems, another vote of confidence for the job he has done as his understudy.

Asked at a news conference whether he thought Reinecke had fully lived up to his expectations as lieutenant governor and whether he could support him in a gubernatorial race, Reagan replied: "I certainly do."

Reagan then also was asked whether there were any major GOP gubernatorial contenders he could not support. The reporter mentioned the names of former Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch, Controller Houston I. Flournoy, Attorney General Evelle J. Younger and HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger, the target of a "draft" movement by some of Reagan's "kitchem cabinet" campaign contributors.

"No," Reagan replied. "We've got an abundance of riches on our side. It may turn out to be a problem for us."

Reagan reiterated he was staying neutral in the race, and had so informed the wealthy contributors who were trying to draft Weinberger.

The two-term governor disclosed he met with one group of GOP financiers at a San Francisco airport hotel Aug. 6. Reagan said he called the meeting to discuss financing of this tax limitation initiative campaign, but some in attendance also informed him they were promoting Weinberger for governor.

Those attending the meeting, sources said, included Los Angeles auto dealer Holmes Tuttle, Los Angeles drugstore executive Justin Dart, former Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard of Los Altos Hills and San Francisco industrialist Jacquelin Hume.

Reagan also discussed these topics at his news conference:

Death —He said he would be "inclined" to sign a bill restoring the death penalty for only a few crimes, then seek capital punishment for other crimes later.

Indian —The governor said Timm Williams, formerly of Fairfax, his Indian affairs adviser, was fired because he thought "we could get a better rate of achievement" from another Indian.

Future —Reagan reiterated he will not seek a third gubernatorial term next year.

Mansion —People who talk about building a governor's mansion downtown are "thinking about a tourist attraction," Reagan said. "They're not thinking about the governors who are going to live there and have children." He said two Presidents' wives have told him they went "stir crazy" after one week in the White House, which is located in downtown Washington, "because you can't even go downstairs and you can't even walk on the grounds."

Reward —Reagan posted a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the assailants who fatally beat and shot Los Angeles police officer Fred Early.

Water Chief Puccinelli Will Retire

Hector P. Puccinelli, superintendent of construction and maintenance, and assistant chief engineer for the Marin Municipal Water District, will retire Sept. 1 after 18 years with the district.

Puccinelli's career with Marin Municipal included a wide variety of jobs, from engineering design to director of all construction and maintenance.

The 65-year-old Fairfax man joined the district as an assistant engineer in 1955 and was appointed superintendent of construction in 1964. In August of last year, he was appointed special assistant to Gen. Mgr. William A. Seeger.

Puccinelli and his wife live at 47 Belmont Avenue. The couple has two grown children.

A retirement dinner for the superintendent is planned for 8 p.m., Aug. 31 at the San Geronimo National Golf Club.

Senators Set Talks At Dinner

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., and Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, will speak at a fundraising dinner for Marin Alternative on Aug. 25.

The dinner, limited to 200 persons, will be held from 5 to 10 p.m. at the Kent Woodlands home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Watkin, 10 Acorn Way.

Cranston will be present from 5 to 6:30 p.m., and speak at 6 p.m. during no-host cocktails. Behr will speak after dinner.

Reservations for the $8.50-a-plate dinner are being handled by Marin Alternative, Kentfield.

20-Day Term Given For Welfare Fraud

A Corte Madera woman said by the Marin Probation Department to be a highly unlikely candidate for legal trouble in the future has been sentenced to 20 days in jail for welfare fraud.

Marilyn Joyce Gaudet, 29, of 16 Harbor Drive, also was placed on probation for two years Monday by Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court.

Best ordered Miss Gaudet to repay the money she fraudulently took from the Marin Department of Social Services when the amount has been determined.

She pleaded guilty July 3 to receiving welfare payments even though she was working at a restaurant at the time.

The Marin Probation Department said of Miss Gaudet, "few people are less likely to repeat an offense."

Her probation report says Miss Gaudet never has been in trouble before and claimed the welfare money due to "additional expenses and pressures brought on by her child's medical problem," hypertension.

Judge Best, noting that Miss Gaudet is employed, said she may serve her sentence on weekends.

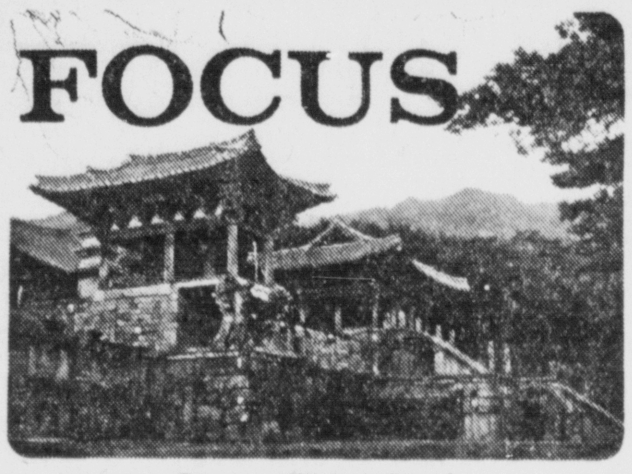
The Marin District Attorney's Office had recommended Miss Gaudet spend three or four months in jail.

Tryouts Are Set By Ross Players

Tryouts for the Ross Valley Players fall production of Ronald Alexander's comedy, "Nobody Loves an Albatross," will be held at 8 p.m., Aug. 21, 22 and 23 at the Barn in the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross.

There are parts for seven men, five women and one 12-year-old girl in the play which will start Oct. 19 and run Friday and Saturday night through Nov. 17.

FOCUS



Country With A Seoul

Korea, as this Buddhist temple suggests, is the Land of the Morning Calm. It was divided after World War II, and the South Koreans officially proclaimed the Republic of Korea 25 years ago today. South Korea was once primarily an agricultural area with little industry. The main crops are rice, barley, wheat, tobacco and beans, but poor farming conditions limit Korea's agricultural potential. Large amounts of foreign aid have helped the South Koreans build an industrial base in mining. South Korea supplies 6 per cent of the world's tungsten needs. Other industries such as electronics, rubber, and shipbuilding have expanded rapidly.

DO YOU KNOW — Who was the first President of the Republic of Korea?

TUESDAY'S ANSWER — The gypsy moth's caterpillar stage is the destructive one.

Jail Term For Welfare Fraud Set

Hopefully, we'll never see you again under similar circumstances," a Marin Superior Court Judge told Imogene Riley, 47, as he sentenced her for welfare fraud.

Mrs. Riley, of 67 Merrydale Road, San Rafael, was ordered Monday by Judge Charles Read Best to spend 20 days in jail and to pay back $5,000 to the County of Marin.

Her term can be served on weekends, Judge Best said.

Mrs. Riley pleaded guilty June 14 to claiming $5,000 in welfare benefits from January 1967 to August 1972 though she was not entitled to the money.

Her probation report says she is "unlikely to reoffend" and says she used the money to pay for medical care required by a handicapped son.

Few Marriages

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Out of Singapore's more than two million population, 18,217 couples were married in 1972, according to Chan Shee Seng, senior parliamentary secretary, social affairs.

Photos Displayed At Civic Center

A photo essay on Marin County by Mill Valley photojournalist Tim Thompson will be on exhibit through Sept. 14 in the foyer of the supervisors' chambers at the Civic Center.

Thompson has done work in the Bay Area for Sunset Magazine, Sierra Club and Friends of the Earth. He spent two months last year in Europe photographing expatriate jazz musicians for Rolling Stone magazine.

Exhibit hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

DRY AND COOL

The National Weather Service's 30-day outlook through mid-September for Marin County indicates below normal precipitation and temperatures. Last year during the same period there was no rain in San Rafael. Temperatures averaged in the mid-80s during the day to overnight lows in the mid-50s. The hottest day was Aug. 22 when it was 89 degrees in San Rafael. (UPI Telephoto maps)

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Agreement Near On Sales Tax Rollback

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A two-house conference committee trying to work out a plan to delay the unneeded one-cent sales tax increase is near agreement, according to a top Democratic negotiator.

Assemblyman Joe A. Gonsalves of La Mirada Tuesday said the six-member committee was "leaning in favor" of Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposal to roll back the penny increase for six months and grant an income tax rebate on a sliding scale.

"We have almost come to the conclusion that you've got to accept the governor's terms or you're not going to get a sales tax delay," Gonsalves said in an interview.

He said the conference committee also was considering another plan which would grant the same sales tax relief and provide a straight 20 per cent income tax rebate. The second alternative is a variation of another proposal Reagan once made.

Reagan's proposal for a one-time income tax rebate on a sliding scale would grant a total exemption to families with incomes of $8,000 or less and single persons with incomes of $4,000 or less.

Those incomes from that point up to $15,000 would be given a 35 per cent reduction; from $15,000 to $20,000, a 30 per cent cut; from $20,000 to $25,000 a 25 per cent credit; and everything over $25,000 a 20 per cent reduction.

Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ojai, said the major obstacle to agreement on a plan continues to be Reagan's tax limitation initiative scheduled for a Nov. 6 election. The initiative would grant a straight 20 per cent income tax cut and would conflict with the sliding scale approach.

If agreement could be reached quickly, the sales tax would be reduced back to five cents on the dollar for six months beginning Oct. 1.

SALMON FINE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A $45,000 bill requiring the state to establish safety standards for compressed air used by SCUBA divers has advanced to the Senate floor.

The measure (SB578) by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-Tiburon, was approved Tuesday by the Finance Committee on a 7-6 vote, the minimum needed.

Behr told the committee there was "considerable concern among some SCUBA divers that the air they get is not as good as it could be."

Under the measure, the state Health Department would set and maintain the standards. After the first year, costs would be borne by the sale of licenses to air dealers.

BART CURB DIES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill restricting the way the Bay Area Rapid Transit District (BART) can spend its money was killed Tuesday by the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee.

The measure (SB160) by Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, would have required BART to first meet its own commitments for service before spending district funds for extensions beyond current boundaries. It died on a 2-9 vote.

Nejedly contended BART should spent its funds to complete the system in the three charter BART counties— San Francisco, Alameda and Contra Costa—before the district spends funds for service to other areas such as down the Peninsula.

However, Assemblyman Leo T. McCarthy, D-San Francisco, said such a move would be a "contradiction of everything we've done with BART" to promote unity of the Bay Area instead of creating artificial boundaries to limit BART service.

PENSION DEFEAT

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A multimillion-dollar bill reducing the amount government workers pay for retirement benefits has been defeated by the Senate Finance Committee.

Rejected on a 3-8 vote Tuesday, the bill would have cut the amount state and some local workers put into the Public Employes Retirement system from 7 per cent of their wages to 5 per cent at an estimated yearly cost of $19.3 million.

Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, author of the bill (SB1013), contended it was needed in case state workers do not get all of an 11.9 per cent average pay increase voted by the legislature. The raise has been challenged by the federal government as violating antiinflationary wage guidelines.

REAGAN REBUFF

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's controversial proposal to change the rules of courtroom evidence by eliminating the so-called "exclusionary rule" has been rejected by the Senate Finance Committee.

In place of the "exclusionary rule", the bill would establish a procedure allowing persons to sue for damages or suffering as a result of an illegal police search or seizure but would allow the evidence obtained to be used in court, which is now barred.

The measure failed Tuesday on a party line 6-5 vote, with Democrats casting the dissents and Republicans voting "aye." It needed at least seven favorable votes for passage.

Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ojai, author of the bill, asked for and received permission to seek to have the measure's defeat reconsidered.

DIVER SAFETY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A $45,000 bill requiring the state to establish safety standards for compressed air used by SCUBA divers has advanced to the Senate floor.

The measure (SB578) by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-Tiburon, was approved Tuesday by the Finance Committee on a 7-6 vote, the minimum needed.

Behr told the committee there was "considerable concern among some SCUBA divers that the air they get is not as good as it could be."

Under the measure, the state Health Department would set and maintain the standards. After the first year, costs would be borne by the sale of licenses to air dealers.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, August 15, the 227th day of 1973 with 138 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

American novelist Edna Ferber was born Aug. 15, 1887.

Also on this day in history:

In 1914, an American ship passed from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, officially opening the Panama Canal.

In 1935, humorist Will Rogers and aviator Wiley Post were killed when their plane crashed in Alaska.

In 1966, the New York Herald Tribune went out of business after 131 years of publication.

In 1971, President Nixon ordered a 90-day wage-price-rent freeze and announced imposition of a 10 per cent surcharge on foreign imports.

A thought for the day: British novelist George Meredith said: "Who rises from prayer a better man, the prayer is answered."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.

Other areas:

San Francisco, Clean air.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Growth Pains Are Real, But Not Always Of Physical Origin

Guilty by association is a convenient legal term, but it also has many medical implications. Teething gets the blame for almost anything that happens to a child when the teeth are erupting. The same can be said of the aches and pains while a child is growing. The best example of this is "growing pains," especially when the aching occurs in a rapid growth period. By definition, these are intermittent limb pains that tend to recur and are not specifically located in the joints. They develop most often in the legs and late in the day or night.

BUT PHYSICAL growth is not painful. It is for this reason that other causes are considered. For many years, we have blamed fatigue, overexertion, poor posture, and damp living conditions. Most growing children play hard; they run, jump, fall, climb, twist their legs, and do many other physical feats. If an adult did this, he would ache all over at the end of the day.

But many physicians believe that the pains are of emotional origin. In other words, emotional growth may be very painful. Many of these children also have abdominal pains, headaches, or both. But before this diagnosis is made the doctor excludes organic causes, such as acute rheumatism, orthopedic disorders, bleeding (hemmorhagic) conditions, and cardiac distrubances that affect the circulation to the legs. When remote possibilities are ruled out, an emotional reason is considered.

ODDLY, a condition known as restless legs in adults is closely akin to growing pains in children. This distrubance is thought to be of circulatory or nervous origin. The restlessness usually begins after going to bed. Many of the victims develop an intolerable creeping internal itching sensation in both calves and lower legs. The sensation is so unpleasant that the individual is compelled to keep moving his limbs because movement brings relief.

Questions on medical topics will be answered if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, P.O. Box 330, San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

ALL ARMS AND LEGS

E. M. writes: My 15 year old son seems to be normal in every respect except that his arms and legs are so long. He is 6 feet 3 inches tall and weighs 116 pounds. Should I take him to a doctor?

REPLY

Yes, because of the possibility that he has an hereditary disorder known as Marfan's syndrome. These individuals are tall and have very long arms and legs with loose jointedness and stooping shoulders. They may also develop eye and cardiovascular defects. Abraham Lincoln is believed to have inherited this condition. On the other hand, your son may look as if he's all arms and legs but the proportions could change. After all, he is only 15 and a few more inches and a dozen more pounds may improve his appearance.

MENIERE'S TEST

C. D. writes: Are there any tests to determine the existence of Meniere's disease or must diagnosis be made from symptoms alone?

REPLY

Diagnosis usually can be made from symptoms. A simple test for doubtful cases consists of putting cold water into the ear canal. This produces dizziness in those who have Meniere's disease. Sent stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this disorder.

Special Tax Election Passes Hurdles; Set

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — An election in Marin next spring to hike the property tax limit of the county's transit district appears certain.

Distressed county officials found the election could not be held without authorization by special legislation, but that problem apparently was cured Monday by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The legislator amended the authorization into an unrelated bill that is within about a week of final passage. The obliging bill was SB 272, a minor bill by Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ventura, relating to harbors and navigation. A spokesman for Bagley conceded there was "a little germaneness problem" since the tax has nothing to do with harbors and navigation, but said it will make no difference "if no one objects."

Under legislative rules, amendments are supposed to relate to the same purposes for which the bill was introduced.

Directors of the county transit district voted Aug. 7 to hike the limit from a nickel to 25 cents per $100 assessed valuation to expand local bus service. The rate would raise about $2,250,000 next fiscal year alone.

If it becomes law, the bill would permit the election to be held either next April or June.

Call Made For U.N. Membership

SEOUL (UPI) — South Korean President Park Chung-Hee called on North Korea today to accept his proposal that the two Koreas seek simultaneous membership in the United Nations.

Park made the call in a speech delivered at a ceremony marking the 28th anniversary of Korea's liberation from Japanese rule at the end of World War II in 1945.

Six-Month Terms Given Burglars

Two men who pleaded guilty to breaking into a San Rafael home have been sentenced to six months in jail.

Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court passed the sentences Monday on Frank Dennis Bautista, 20, of 95 Medway Road, San Rafael, and John Joseph Mueller, 19, of 1222 Cambridge Street, Novato.

Bautista also was placed on probation for a year, and Mueller for two years. They also were ordered to pay $27.75 back to Robert E. Eby, whose house they burglarized.

Mueller, according to his probation report, has an attitude of "verbalized reform and contrary behavior. He will do as he pleases in spite of what he says."

Bautista "fails to see the consequences of his behavior" and what he "fears most in life is being returned to an institution," his report says.

Behr Wants Electricity Commission

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Far-reaching legislation creating a new state commission with extremely broad powers over electrical energy has been drafted by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

The proposed California Commission on Electrical Energy would have exclusive power over rates and power plant siting, including nuclear plants.

It would be empowered to adopt by regulation any prohibitions, restrictions or other measures "as it deems necessary or desirable to control the consumption of electrical energy." In all actions, the legislation declares, the commission "shall be guided by the ethic of conservation of energy."

The tough language will be amended within a week into a skeleton bill by Behr, SB 1063, his staff said. The amendments, worked out with the Planning and Conservation League, give the propsoed commission far broader powers than would other bills previously introduced.

The Behr amendments would strip the Public Utilities Commission's jurisdiction over power plants. Conservationists long have claimed the PUC does not pay sufficient attention to the environmental consequences of continued power development.

The five-member, full-time commission would include one person qualified in the field of electric power production, one economist in the field of energy rates, one in environmental health, one in resource conservation and one without any required experience. One would be appointed by the governor, two by the Senate Rules Committee and two by the speaker of the Assembly.

Annual salary for the members would be $31,500, and $33,075 for the chairman. Terms would be six years, and limited to two consecutive terms.

Conflict of interest provisions would disqualify from membership anyone who received income from a company subject to commission jurisdiction in the preceding two years.

The commission would have one year to draw a state electrical energy policy stating what rate of power growth is reasonable "considering the limitations on the energy supply, environmental effects of power plants and the health, safety and welfare of the general public."

Any company planning an electric facility would have to file its plans for a permit six years before beginning construction, and pay a $25,000 fee. It also would have to offer three alternate sites.

The commission would be financed by a surcharge on power generation, a fee that would cost the average household 75 cents a year, according to the Planning and Conservation League. This would raise about $15 million a year, the league estimated.

During its first five years, the commission would require utilities to expand existing power plants and create a task force to recommend how to avert a power crisis.

Votes By Lawmakers Are Listed

WASHINGTON — Here is how California's senators and Marin and Sonoma County congressmen voted in roll calls just before the current congressional7recess:

Rep. William S. Mailliard voted for an amendment to require judicial review of the environmental impact of the Alaska pipeline. Rep. Donald H. Clausen voted against. The amendment failed, 198 for to 221 against.

Mailliard and Clausen both voted for a bill to allow continued use of chauffeured limousines by federal agency heads, killing a Senate prohibition on such use. The measure passed 222 to 189.

Senators Alan Cranston and John V. Tunney both voted to override the President's veto of the emergency medical services bill. The veto was overridden 71 to 16.

Cranston and Tunney also both voted for an amendment to immediately end the beef price freeze. This passed 84 to 5, but will have little effect since Congress recessed before the House acted on it, and the price freeze will expire next month anyhow.

Burglar Of School Gets Jail Term

A Fairfax man who admitted burglarizing Hill Junior High School in Novato June 14 has been sentenced to four months in jail and placed on probation for two years.

Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court also ordered George Roberts Jr., 18, to pay $60 to the school for damage done to the school during the break-in.

The Marin District Attorney's Office had recommended the jail term, saying Roberts needed a "jolt to wake him up."

Roberts, of 31 Willow Avenue, Fairfax, "gives little thought to the consequences of his behavior and demonstrates a lack of concern for other people," according to his probation report.

The report also calls him "a young man without any real sense of direction who avoids using any constructive potential he possesses."

Roberts pleaded guilty July 19 to the June 14 burglary as part of a plea bargain in which a second count of breaking into the same school April 14 was dismissed.

Show Series On Abortion Goes Ahead

NEW YORK (UPI) — CBS-TV said Tuesday it sold only one of six commercial spots for the rebroadcast of a controversial "Maude" show dealing with abortion and more than two dozen of its affiliates refused to carry the rerun.

CBS did, however, rerun the show Tuesday night and will air a second portion dealing with the same subject next week because to take it off the air would restrict the "creative process."

The shows, originally broadcast last November to an audience estimated by CBS at 30 million, has been criticized by Roman Catholic leaders and antiabortion organizations. In the show Maude, a middle-age housewife played by Bea Arthur, finds out she is pregnant and there follows a debate on whether she should get an abortion, which she does.

A spokesman for the network said that only one of the six 30-second segments reserved for commercials had been sold, indicating a reluctance by sponsors to be involved in a segment of a series normally sold out long before its airing on television.

The CBS spokesman said Tuesday the latest count showed that 25 of its approximately 200 affiliates had turned down the two segments. He added that the affiliates had the right to use or reject the "Maude" segments as they saw fit but that in the past the show had been broadcast by as many as 190 affiliates.

In Washington, the United States Catholic Conference reiterated a statement issued last week by its general secretary Bishop James S. Rausch, which in effect branded the two episodes as advocating abortion.

Rausch said that advocacy may not have been the intention of the producers "but it certainly is the result." He said, "There is room for serious discussion of controversial subjects on television but that was not the issue. The issue is advocacy of one side of a controversy presented under the guise of situation comedy and aired at a time when children make up a substantional part of the audience."

The bishop's statement was mailed to 20,000 parishes for public dissemination Aug. 8. The conference spokesman said that "presumably" 48 million Catholics were made aware of the statement.

"CBS feels comedy and satire have always been used to treat a wide range of situations," the spokesman said. "If these segments were excluded it would impose restrictions on the creative process and hinder the development of television."

He said the network was not taking a position on the subject.

Student Files Papers For Vacancy On College Board

Marc Conlan, 19-year-old student who lives in Belvedere, has filed candidacy papers for the vacancy on the Marin Community College District board.

He is the first candidate for the board in the Nov. 6 election.

Former San Rafael Board of Education member Lawrence I. Kramer has taken out papers but has not filed them, according to the county elections office.

Conlan has been a College of Marin student for the past five semesters and a student government officer for the past three. He has served as student body president and editor of the College of Marin Times.

His home is at 189 Beach Road.

He said in a campaign statement that through his "service in the college committee system, which represents administrators, teachers and students," he has become "acquainted with the problems and ideals of all those groups."

He termed the role of the trustee "a very precarious one, caught between the ever-increasing student demands on the college for new, innovative and expensive programs and the ever-increasing taxpayer demands not to have to pay for them. . ."

"But the college is not just a simple business enterprise," Conlan said, "and many trustees do not realize this. They elevate statistics to the status of the 'revealed word,' ignoring the felt needs of the community, and forgetting they are dealing with people, not soup cans."

Conlan said he is running "to balance this point of view on the board."

He also said he thinks it important with a second campus opening scheduled in Novato, it is important "to have someone on the board who will not just blindly vote for a whole host of new expensive administrative positions of questionable necessity. . ."

Man Found Sane; Fire Case Is Set

A man accused of setting fire to a home near San Rafael has been bound over to Marin Superior Court to stand trial.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court ordered Stephen Eugene Arnold, 22, of no known address, to appear in the higher court Monday after finding there is enough evidence to try him.

Arnold's case had been interrupted until he could be examined by psychiatrists, but proceedings were begun again when the reports showed he is sane.

Arnold is accused of setting fire to a home at 31 Manzanita Avenue in Bayside Acres belonging to Florence Brown.

X-Ray Unit Scheduled At College

A mobile X-ray unit will be available at the College of Marin several days next month to give teachers and other school employees free chest x-rays, the Marin County Board of Education was told Tuesday

School employees are required to furnish proof they are free of tuberculosis when they are hired and again at least every four years.

The county health department still provides patch tests but no longer is giving chest x-rays, according to Robert E Spain, assistant county superintendent Since the patch tests are not considered completely reliable, the county schools office made arrangements for the mobile unit

The cost is being prorated in the various school districts, he said, with private and parochial school employees also able to use the unit on the same basis.

The mobile unit will be in the college physical education parking lot from 10 a.m to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m Sept. 5, 6, 7, 11, 12, 13 and 14.

New Reward In Murder Of Ranger

Two California hunters organizations have offered rewards totaling $1,500 for information leading to the conviction of the killer of National Park Service Ranger Kenneth C Patrick at Point Reyes National Seashore

The California Rifle and Pistol Association on Tuesday offered a $1,000 reward and the California Wildlife Federation agreed to provide $500 for the information

The Independent-Journal has already offered a $1,000 "Secret Witness" reward for information leading to apprehension and conviction of the slayer

Patrick, shot to death near the Mount Vision Overlook Road on Aug 5 is the first National Park Service ranger slain in the line of duty since 1916

The Marin County Sheriff's Department and Federal Bureau of Investigation have proceeded on the theory that Patrick had been shot by a poacher whom he surprised in the early morning.

The case remains unsolved.

Development Control Ground Rules Reviewed In Petaluma

Ground rules for the 1973-74 Petaluma Development Allotment Control Board underwent only minor changes in review today before the Petaluma City Council

The citizen's board will again review all applications for residential developments and recommend to the council which should be built under the limit of 500 new living units per year

The council made few changes from procedures followed by last year's board on the advice of its special legal counsel, Robert T Anderson of Oakland.

Anderson advised the council not to make major changes because a lawsuit against the growth control plan is still pending in federal court The construction industry association has charged the growth limitation plan violates constitutional rights.

The council agreed the 500-unit limit is still valid, but said the number should remain flexible since many of the 422 units awarded last year have not yet been built

Councilman Robert E Daly said the council should consider requiring a good faith bond from developers to assure construction within a reasonable period to avoid the crush of 1,000 units being built in one year "That's where we got into trouble before, when everything was built at once," he said.

Senior planner Frank B. Gray said only two allotments totaling 37 units have not yet made any preparation for building He said others have been held up by lack of financing, procedural or legal problems

The council said the board should also consider allocating more single family housing units for the east side since developers already have approval for 347 potential apartment units.

"We should definitely go with more single family homes," Councilman Robert A. Brunner said. "The apartments are all filled up, but maybe that's because people can't find homes to buy"

Police Chief Larry D Higgins and Fire Chief Joseph F Ellwood said they would submit more detailed recommendations to the board this year on what to look for in safety features of developments

Higgins said he would send prospective developers questionnaires on security systems they plan for houses along with recommendations for improved locks on windows and doors, lighting and house number identification.

A resolution incorporating the new procedures will be formally considered at the city council meeting Monday at 7 30 p m. at city hall

Giants Hurt By Luzinski

SAN FRANCISCO—If Greg Luzinski played all his games against the San Francisco Giants, he might some day break Babe Ruth's home run record.

The powerful Philadelphia outfielder blasted a pair of homers to beat the Giants 4-3 at fog-swept Candlestick Park Tuesday night.

Luzinski, a muscular 220-pounder who turned down a flock of college football scholarships to play baseball, now has hit five homers in seven games against San Francisco this season.

"I can't explain it," Luzinski said. "I also hit pretty good in Wrigley Field against the Cubs."

Both of Luzinski's homers were to right field. One was aided by a 19-mile per hour wind.

"That's only four off-field homers I have hit this season," he said. Luzinski has 21 homers.

In the seven games against San Francisco he has a .464 batting average and has driven in 13 runs.

Luzinski's slugging made a winner out of Jim Lonborg for the 10th time this season. He gave up 11 hits but the Giants left nine runners on base, including three in the ninth.

Lonborg said he has had to learn to pitch all over again since coming to the National League.

"You have to learn the hitters. That's what hurt me early in the season. But I'm making progress," he said.

He got great defensive help from catcher Bob Boone, who made one out at the plate and threw out pinch-runner Mike Phillips in the eighth inning.

He tagged San Francisco's Dave Rader out at the plate in the fifth and then gunned down Phillips on a short wild pitch. Had Phillips been safe, he would have scored the tying run on a long fly by Gary Matthews.

Jim Barr, now 9-12, was the losing pitcher and was the victim of both Luzinski homers.

Manager Charlie Fox blamed the defeat on mistakes.

"We're not doing the fundamental things," he said. A missed sacrifice in the ninth inning cost the Giants another chance to score the tying run.

The Giants and Phils play again this afternoon with Juan Marichal (9-8) pitching for San Francisco against Wayne Twitchell (11-4).

TEMPER TANTRUM IN THE DUGOUT

Chicago Cubs' pitcher Ferguson Jenkins was restrained, after throwing a bat onto the field, by coaches Ernie Banks (left) and Larry Jansen (3). Jenkins was angry after being relieved in the fifth inning of Tuesday night's game with the Atlanta Braves in Chicago. He was booed roundly by the home-park crowd after walking three batters and allowing three runs by the Braves in the fifth. Jenkins threw four bats after returning to the dugout. Atlanta won, 6-2. Williams' Odd Move Nets Win For A's

Knowles Blanks Lee, Boston In Rare Start

BOSTON (UPI) — Dick Williams pulled another oddball victory out of his endless bag of tricks Tuesday night, leaving the Boston Red Sox holding the bag again.

The Oakland A's' manager, changing his mind just before the game, started relief pitcher Darold Knowles. The well-traveled lefty responded with his first complete game in an eight-year career, blanking the Red Sox and Terra Linda's Bill Lee 1-0 on six hits. Dick Green's sacrifice squeeze accounted for the only run.

In the first game of the series Monday night, Williams started erratic John "Blue Moon" Odom for the first time in more than two weeks and Odom went 7 1-3 innings to give Oakland a 3-1 win.

"I had planned to start Horatio Pina (Tuesday) but I got to thinking more and more about it," said Williams, whose team remained a half game behind Kansas City in the American League West. "Pina hasn't gone much more than two innings in a long while and five or six weeks ago he got a sore elbow. So, I said, 'Hell, if I can get five or six good innings out of Knowles, then I can come in with Pina.'"

But Knowles, whose longest previous stint was a 10-inning, no-decision relief appearance with Washington several years ago, got stronger as the game progressed. He also was tough with men on base, forcing three double plays in the first four innings.

"I didn't know I was going to start until two hours before the game," said Knowles. "So I went out and pitched the only way I know how, as long and as hard as I could."

Boston left-hander Lee also went the distance but once again suffered from lack of offensive support in dropping to 12-8. Lee has not had a victory in his last six starts, losing five of them.

The A's, who stranded 11 runners and had three more thrown out on the bases, opened the sixth with a single by Gene Tenace and he took third on Ray Fosse's double.

Green bunted toward the mound as Tenace roared toward the plate. Lee attempted to barehand the bouncing ball but missed, permitting the run to score.

Along with the loss came an end to Orlando Cepeda's 17-game hitting streak, longest for Boston since 1969.

Marin A.C. Coach Davis To Depart For Arizona

Bob Davis, who has been with the Marin Aquatic Club just barely long enough to say hello, will be saying goodbye Aug. 26 to become head swimming coach at the University of Arizona.

Davis, 26, was appointed last month. He succeeds Charlie Hickox, the 1968 Olympic gold medalist in the 200 and 400-meter individual medley races, who left to become head man of the Cincinnati Marlins, an Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) team.

The appointment ends a short stint for Davis as assistant coach for the Marin A.C. He was lured from the Pima County Dolphins of Tucson, Ariz.; by head coach Don Swartz May 1.

"Arizona is moving up athletically," said Davis, "and the athletic director has said he wants the school to be dominant in the (Western Athletic) Conference in swimming.

"We could be very strong within a couple of years if we get some breaks recruiting," he added.

The school presently has "bad" facilities, but construction of a 50-meter pool is about to begin. Davis also expressed hope that the present total of two swimming scholarships could be increased to the maximum of six allowed by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

BOB DAVIS
Named head coach

Arizona's general emphasis on athletics also pleased Davis, who cited the suddenly-strong basketball program and appointments of new, highly-regarded football coach and athletic director.

(The Conference's new emphasis on swimming is not confined to Arizona. Brigham Young University has appointed Mike Burton, Olympic gold medal winner in the 1,500-meter freestyle, as head coach.)

Davis was graduated from Arizona in 1971 with a B.S. degree in secondary education. He swam his freshman year, but underwent back surgery and "that's when I got into coaching."

With the Marin A.C., he worked primarily with seniors and the more experienced age-group swimmers. He may not be immediately replaced by Swartz, since "about a dozen" seniors, including Olympians Rick DeMont, Robin Backhaus and Doug Northway, will leave Marin this fall to attend college.

Dick Pattengale and Northway, who accompanied Davis from Arizona to Marin, will remain affiliated with the Marin A.C. but will attend college this fall, Pattengale at Oklahoma and Northway at Washington, Swartz said.

Davis said there was "a good possibility" that he would return to Marin next summer to coach for Swartz.

Davis will remain with the Marin A.C. through the Nationals next Wednesday-Saturday in Louisville, Ky., and depart the following Sunday. The school term at Arizona begins that Monday, Aug. 27.

Nastase's Mind Back On Tennis

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ilie Nastase, the impetuous Romanian who left Cincinnati, last weekend fighting over money, has his mind back on tennis.

He began practicing Tuesday with his Romanian Davis Cup teammates for the Interzone Finals matches against the favored United States squad. One reason the Americans are favored is that the three-day competition starting Saturday at nearby Alamo will be on cement courts at Round Hill Country Club.

"Traditionally, we're not used to hard courts," Nastase said at a news conference here Tuesday, speaking on behalf of his countrymen who favor clay courts.

A draw at 3 p.m. EDT Friday will determine when Nastase will face U.S. star Stan Smith in singles. The old rivals will play either Saturday or Monday, and it will be their first meeting since last December, when Nastase won a five-set match at a tournament in Spain.

U.S. team captain Dennis Ralston said Tuesday that Smith and Erik van Dillen will be his doubles team but that he hadn't decided yet who would be playing singles along with Smith.

Tom Gorman and Marty Reissen are the other players eligible for the matches against Romania. Nastase's teammates include Toma Ovici, Ionel Santeiu, Vierel Marcu and Dumitru Haraduau.

Two singles matches will be played Saturday, the doubles match will be Sunday and the final two singles Monday. Starting time will be 4 p.m. EDT daily.

The winning team will reach the Davis Cup championship round and face either Australia or Czechoslovakia. The U.S. team won the Cup the past two years with final round victories over Romania.

Reed Gets Starting Nod Vs. San Diego

GOLETA (UPI) — Joe Reed of the San Francisco 49ers will start Sunday against the San Diego Chargers at Candlestick Park.

As No. 3 quarterback, Reed was picked by Coach Dick Nolan to open ahead of regular John Brodie and backup Steve Spurrier. In the 49ers' 20-7 win over New England, Reed completed 16-of-23 passes for 198 yards and one touchdown.

Reed, San Francisco's 11th round choice in the 1971 draft, said he was "pretty excited" about starting against the Chargers.

"I've got a lot more confidence than I used to have," said the former Mississippi State star. "Now I feel that I can stand in the pocket and look at the defense instead of our blockers."

Reed said Brodie has helped him probably more than anyone else "and I appreciate it."

Big Bubba Makes Early Raider Debut Saturday

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — Giant defensive end Bubba Smith makes his Oakland Raiders debut Saturday against the Los Angeles Rams in Berkeley's Memorial Stadium.

The 6-foot-8, 265-pound Smith, whom the Raiders acquired from Baltimore for tight end Raymond Chester, wasn't expected to play for another couple of weeks while recovering from knee surgery he underwent last winter.

"When the man (Coach John Madden) told me I was gonna play this week, my heart started fast, but I guess it might as well happen now," said Smith.

"This is a lot sooner than the timetable they originally said. I thought I'd play around the fifth game."

Oilers Hire Woolley As Coach

KERRVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Joe Woolley, fired as head coach at Galveston Ball High School because he altered the transcripts of two Oklahoma freshmen, Tuesday was named an assistant coach of the Houston Oilers.

"All I asked for was an opportunity," Woolley said. "I made a mistake. I admitted it. Now I want to get to work and prove myself. My outlook is bright."

General Manager Sid Gillman hired Woolley and gave him the post of quality control coach, a position held until Monday by Garland Boyette. The Oilers activated the recently retired linebacker.

Woolley will grade films, make player reports and perform other off the field duties.

Woolley rigged the records of Kerry Jackson and Michael Phillips, two Ball graduates, to protect their academic standing and athletic eligibility at Oklahoma. Oklahoma forfeited all games in which the pair played and the Big Eight later slapped the Sooners with two years probation for various recruiting violations.

Woolley, who had a 35-10 record at Ball and coached the team to the state playoffs last year, foresaw no criticism of the Oilers for hiring him.

"In my opinion, this isn't a bad public relations move," he said.

BASEBALL MEETING

Inter-Loop Play Prospects Dim

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Major league baseball owners met today to discuss a question that may have already been settled—will there be inter-league play next year?

The answer right now looks like no.

National League officials met for more than two hours Tuesday in a session that was supposed to have been secret and, when they came away, the majority still were opposed to the American League-backed proposal.

"The general feeling is that it would be best not to disturb the type of divisional play we have now," said Walter O'Malley, board chairman of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"Nothing much was accomplished," said John McHale, president of the Montreal Expos. "Everything is status quo."

That meant that when Allan H. "Bud" Selig, president of the Milwaukee Brewers, got up today to recommend strongly a plan by which American League clubs would oppose National League clubs in regular season play, he was already starting under a handicap.

Selig, American League President Joe Cronin, National League President Chub Feeney and Francis Dale, board chairman of the Cincinnati Reds, are members of the special inter-league committee.

Selig and Cronin favor inter-league games. Dale and Feeney oppose them.

The leagues were scheduled to meet in joint session this morning and then adjourn to separate rooms for individual meetings. While inter-league play was high on the agenda, the owners were also expected to attend to certain "housekeeping chores" and pay more than passing notice to the San Diego situation.

San Diego area officials were scheduled to go to the California Supreme Court today to seek an injunction against the sale and movement of the Padres to Washington. Similar requests have been turned down in two lower courts.

Receiver Richardson In Court

SOUTH EUCLID, Ohio (UPI) — Wide receiver Gloster Richardson of the Cleveland Browns is to appear in municipal court Aug. 21 in connection with a variety of traffic violations and for possession of marijuana.

Richardson, 31, of Chicago, is charged with leaving the scene of an accident, driving without a license, driving while intoxicated and the drug charge. He was freed on personal bond, following the incident last Sunday.

When told of the episode involving one of his players, Browns' owner Art Modell said, "I have no comment on the incident at this time, if at all at a later date."

Police Capt. Harold Kopf announced Tuesday that Richardson was arrested shortly after he allegedly sped away from the accident after his car slammed into the rear of another auto.

Lee Scores 36; Paradise Romps

Dave Lee scored 36 points Tuesday night to lead Paradise Pharmacy to a 93-77 basketball romp over Perry's Poorboys in a Drake High School summer league adult division playoff game.

In another game Tuesday, Buresh, Vallarino, Costamagna and Claxton beat Cain's Tires behind 26 points by Paul Holmes. Will Garner scored 24 for the losers.

The playoffs continue tonight.

Student Games Open With Ceremonies

MOSCOW (UPI) — Nearly 4,200 athletes will begin carrying the colors of 73 countries today at the opening ceremonies of the seventh edition of the World University Games, an event that the host Russians are calling "the greatest sports spectacular" in this country's history.

Eighteen-year old Cathy Carr of Albuquerque, N.M,. a two-time gold medal winner in the 1972 Summer Olympics at Munich, will carry the Stars and Stripes of the United States, which boasts the games' largest delegation—over 300 student-athletes.

Eligibility for the games, which originated at Turin, Italy, in 1959 and have been held at four-year intervals ever since, is restricted to college, junior college and graduate students not past the age of 28.

There are nine different sports — with the U.S. entered in all—basketball, track and field, swimming, fencing, volleyball, water polo, gymnastics, wrestling and tennis.

Typically, the U.S. will bear its strongest aggregations in basketball (led by North Carolina State All America David Thompson), track and swimming (led by Miss Carr and Amateur Athletic Union champions Mark Chatfield of Glendale, Calif., and Steve McFarland of Amarillo, Tex.

Three straight days of rain over this capital city dampened any hopes the athletes had of training outdoors under normal conditions.

Seals Will Remain, Sale Or No Sale

OAKLAND (AP) — The California Golden Seals will remain in Oakland next season — whether or not owner Charles O. Finley sells out, National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell reaffirmed Tuesday.

"We have never moved a franchise and we will not permit the Seals to be moved," Campbell said in a telephone interview from Montreal. Noting that the 1973-74 schedule already has been released.

Finley has expressed interest in selling the team, claiming he has lost $2 million in three years of ownership.

Asked what the NHL might do if Finley challenged the league by moving the franchise without its permission, Campbell said: "If he moves, who will he play?"

3 Good Showings In Minor Leagues

Three Marinites enjoyed good weeks at bat and improved their averages in minor league baseball last week, with Novato's Tom Thomas prodding his season's mark up to .304.

Thomas, Fairfax' Mike Parnow and Marin City's Clifford Hall comprised the trio, while Novato's John Dolinsek and Kentfield's Tom Olson slumped, according to Player Periscope statistical service of Novato.

Both Marin pitchers, Russ Dillon of Novato and Dewey Forry of San Rafael, suffered defeats in their lone appearances.

Thomas, the Pittsburgh Pirate property playing for Salem, Va., in the Class A Carolina League, smacked seven hits in 22 times up for a .318 week, and drove in two runs. He has 11 home runs and 75 RBIs for the year.

Hall had an even better week, going six for 15 (a .400 pace) to improve his average to .267 for Quincy, Ill., in the Class D Midwest League, a Chicago Cub affiliate.

Parnow hit .292 (seven for 24) and drove in three runs for the Los Angeles Dodgers' Ogden, Utah, farm in the Pioneer rookie league. His average for the year is .226.

Dolinsek hit a homer and drove in six runs for Denver in the Class AAA American Association, but was only seven for 29 overall and his average dropped to .294. He has nine homers and 53 RBIs for the Houston farm.

Olson, who was flirting with .300 earlier, slipped to .284 with a two-for-13 week for Marion, Va., a New York Mets farm in the rookie Appalachian League.

Dillon, pitching for the Atlanta Braves' Class AA Southern League farm in Savannah, Ga., was touched for seven hits and a walk in five innings and absorbed a defeat. For the year, he is 3-6 with a 5.70 earned run average.

Forry also lost in a three-inning stint with Bakersfield in the Class A California League, but his record stands at 7-3 with a 3.06 ERA for the Los Angeles farm.

Frustration Overwhelms Jenkins

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The frustration has been building all year for Ferguson Jenkins, and it finally boiled over Tuesday.

After being knocked from the box en route to his sixth loss in his last seven decisions, the Chicago Cubs' star right-hander exploded, throwing four bats from the dugout to the playing field, one at a time.

The Cubs went on to lose to Atlanta, 6-2.

"I don't know," Jenkins said. "It just seemed everything had built up since the beginning of the year, and I had to let off steam."

Jenkins, who has won 20 games each of the past six years, is 10-12 this year. He walked three of the six batters he faced in the fifth inning, allowed a two-run single to Mike Lum, and was roundly booed by the Chicago fans.

In other National League games, St. Louis beat Houston 9-5, San Diego blanked New York 9-0, Los Angeles edged Montreal 4-3, Philadelphia nipped San Francisco 4-3 and Cincinnati defeated Pittsburgh 5-4.

In American League games, Oakland edged Boston 1-0, Kansas City tripped Cleveland, 8-5, New York slammed California, 7-2, Milwaukee downed Chicago, 5-4, Minnesota routed Detroit, 12-1 and Baltimore upended Texas, 12-10.

Bernie Carbo, Ted Simmons and Joe Torre drove in two runs apiece to lead St. Louis, which broke an eight-game losing streak.

Andy Kosco and Pete Rose singled home two runs in the ninth inning as the streaking Reds beat Pittsburgh for their sixth victory in the last seven games.

Pinch-hitter Ken McMullen slammed a two-out homer in the bottom of the ninth inning to give the Dodgers their victory over Montreal, keeping Los Angeles 2½ games ahead of Cincinnati in the NL West.

Nate Colbert and rookie Dave Winfield each hit three-run homers in the fifth innings as the Padres and Randy Jones blanked New York.

Craig Nettles belted a two-run homer to trigger a five-run eighth inning rally in the Yanks' win over the Angels.

American League batting leader Rod Carew crashed four singles and a double, good for three RBI and his 1,000th major league hit in leading Minnesota over Detroit. The five hits raised Carew's batting average to .360.

George Scott slashed a one-out ninth inning homer to lift Milwaukee over Chicago.

Fran Healy socked a three-run double in his first at bat in a week and Lou Piniella hit a solo homer to carry Kansas City over the Indians.

Hot-hitting Don Baylor pounded out five straight hits and drove in four runs to lead Baltimore over Texas.

Collins Buick Gets 18-4 Softball Win

A nine-run sixth inning powered Don Collins Buick to an 18-4 victory Tuesday night over Charcoal Pit in a San Rafael Recreation Department Adult Softball League game at Albert Field.

In other games Tuesday night, Valley Realty upended Wesco Cabinet, 14-8, and Holiday Magic scored a 14-7 win over Apacne Signs.

Brewers Rehire Del Crandall As Manager

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Del Crandall, the Milwaukee Brewers' manager, has been rewarded with a new one-year contract through 1974 for taking a 250-1 shot and leading it into first place in the American League East—at least temporarily.

Crandall guided the Brewers to the top for the first time in their four-year expansion history on May 1 and although they have fallen back since, they still rank s baseball's surprise team of the year.

The Brewers now are in fifth place but are only seven games off the pace. "Naturally, I am very pleased to be coming back for another season," said the 43-year old Crandall, who succeeded Dave Bristol on May 29th, 1972. The club finished last a year ago.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Basic Knowledge For Ropes, Knots

Many boatmen seem to believe that it's necessary to take some kind of a course in knot-tying before one dares handle the lines on a pleasure boat. They give the impression that there is a great mystery to knots and rope handling.

How many of us have seen a person on a dock pick up a line from a boat, handle it gingerly for a few seconds, then hand it to someone else rather than tie it around the closest cleat, ring or post? They don't want to appear conspicuous because they can't do a proper job.

This is so unnecessary, because it's quite possible to get by in most boating activities just by knowing one knot — the bowline — and it can be learned in two minutes.

There's quite a foggy area of knowledge concerning ropes and knots as some of our questions indicate:

Q. I have an anchor rope that is 10 years old. It appears strong, but how can I be sure?

A. An anchor "line" or "rope" 10 years old should be discarded just on principle. Use it some other place where your life may not depend on it. A simple way to check an old rope that's grey and frayed on the outside is to twist the strands so that the inside fibers show. If they are brown and young-looking the rope is probably still useful.

Q. Which type of rope material is the strongest?

A. The synthetics, such as nylon, are stronger by far. A nylon rope has almost three times the breaking strength of a natural fiber rope of the same size.

Q. I bought some cheap rope made of hemp. Is it any good?

A. It is not as good as manila, which is the best natural fiber. Other fibers used in rope making are sisal, jute, linen and cotton. Synthetic fibers are nylon, dacron, polyethylene and polypropylene. The latter two float.

Why is water ski tow rope braided?

A. Braided rope resists kinking better than ordinary rope laid in twists. It's more springy, too.

Q. I notice many boating people seem to use the words rope and "line" interchangeably. Is this proper?

A. When you buy it from the marine store in a coil or roll, you call it rope. But once a piece of rope is put to work in a specific way it becomes a line — such as mooring line, heaving line, anchor line. Or it may become a halliard or a sheet on a sailboat. Good boatmen never use the word rope when they mean a specific line. However, the word rope is retained in bell-rope, bolt rope, etc.

Q. Is a knot as strong as a splice?

A. Never. A good splice can attain a breaking strength of 90 per cent of the unbroken rope. A knot seldom achieves a breaking strength of 65 per cent.

Q. Is mildew harmful to rope?

A. It ruins natural fiber rope. The mildew is a fungus which feeds on the fibers. However, it doesn't attack synthetic fibers; that's why synthetics are so popular. They can be stored wet. Mildew thrives in warm, wet places.

Eggleston Hopes For His 'Normal Game'

(Fourth in a series)

"If I shoot my normal game, I have a chance," says Byron Eggleston, Mill Valley Municipal golf champion, who referring to the seventh annual Marin County Men's Tournament of Champions Sunday at 8 a.m. at Indian Valley.

"If you're putting good and keeping the ball in play, you have a good chance of winning," said the seven handicapper who is making his third tourney appearance.

Short game and consistency are Eggleston's chief golfing virtues, and he has been tuning up mainly on weekends. "I'm a weekend golfer," said the Novatan who learned the game as a caddy 46 years ago in Oakland.

Eggleston, 60, favors Mat Palacio Jr. of Marin Country Club in the seventh annual event that will also include: defending champion Jack Sterley, Peacock Gap; Al Randig, Indian Valley; Roy Hruska, San Geronimo National; and George Frazer, Meadow Club.

The six will be facing a hilly course that necessitates "accuracy. The long ball won't mean that much," Eggleston states.

He adds, "Just staying out of trouble will be enough. A par 71 or thereabouts should win it. And to get that kind of score, you have to concentrate and be accurate. Of course, a hot round can put you under par."

Eggleston is a member of Napa Municipal Golf Course where he won the club title in 1970 and 1972. He has won the Mill Valley title four times. In 1961, Eggleston won the Marin County Amateur Championship and the Mill Valley City Championship.

Two-Time Champion 'Playing Miserably'

(Fifth in a series)

The two-time winner of the Marin County Women's Tournament of Champions is "playing miserably now," but Laura Cann is not worried. Maybe her golf opponents will be.

"I'm not scoring well, but I might get it back together," said Mrs. Cann of Meadow Club regarding her chances in the sixth annual event scheduled Friday at 9 a.m. at Marin Country Club in Novato.

The five handicapper won in 1969 and 1970 and finished second last year behind Cookie Baer of Peacock Gap. Mrs. Cann, the perennial Meadow Club champion, sees Tillie Gondak, Marin Country Club champion, as the favorite.

"It's her course, and she is a long-ball hitter," said Mrs. Cann who has been playing golf 18 years. Mrs. Cann has been champion of the Meadow Club course near Fairfax for 11 consecutive years.

Mrs. Cann believes "it will take a 77 or 78 or so to win." And she is capable of that. She considers herself a poor putter but hits the woods well. "If I don't hit my irons well to the green," she cautions, "then I'm in trouble."

If her game falls into place, Mrs. Cann is certainly able to add a third Tourney of Champs trophy to her collection. She will be facing Mesdames Gondak and Baer along with Terry Nichols of Mill Valley, Nancy Gapinski of San Geronimo and Virginia May of Indian Valley.

Tomales, St. Vincent Alumni Gridders Meet

An alumni football game between Tomales High School and St. Vincent of Petaluma will be held Friday at 8:30 p.m. at Santa Rosa Junior College.

Admission is $2 for adults, $1 for students and free for children under 12, and tickets may be purchased at the gate.

Ex-Baseball Star Duren Wins Battle With Alcohol

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

STOUGHTON, Wis. (UPI) — "I am an alcoholic."

Ryne Duren says that simply and openly.

The former New York Yankee relief ace isn't trying to shock anybody. That's not his purpose. All he's trying to do is help someone else.

Ryne Duren's big trouble in baseball always was control. He never could get the ball over the plate. But he had a way of being direct. He'd always look you straight in the eye when he talked to you. He still does.

"Once you're an alcoholic, you're always an alcoholic," says the 44-year-old former fireballer for the New York Yankees. "I believe that 100 per cent. I remember the first time I got drunk. I was 13 years old, and it was on wine. I felt sick as hell. The next day I said I'd never do it again.

"No, I never did it again — much," Duren mocks himself. "The amount and frequency of my drinking increased so I hardly noticed it. I'd drink before high school dances, out of feelings of inferiority, guilt feelings, anything. I ran scared all my life.

"People ask me how far down alcohol pushed me. I'll tell you how far. One time it landed me in jail. Another time I would up in a mental hospital for nearly three months. I worked in the kitchen there, so you could say I went from the big leagues to assistant pot scrubber in less than two years.

"I had a business, a service station in San Antonio, and that collapsed on me. My wife sued me for divorce. Alcohol denied me the beauty of seeing my son, Steve, grow up. I was a degraded person, a zombie, a vegetable. I hated people and I hated myself. I wasn't really living. I was existing."

Ryne Duren can talk this way freely now.

He hasn't taken a drink in more than five years and has rehabilitated himself so magnificently that he has pulled himself up to become one of baseball's most beautiful people.

Ryne Duren isn't a doctor, but as director of alcoholic rehabilitation of small but effective Stoughton Community Hospital here in suburban Madison he's helping many so-called "recovered alcoholics" like himself.

"It's the very least I can do," says the stocky one-time relief ace. "I owe my life to others very similar to these people we have here in our program. By their example, they gave me the faith that I, too, could overcome my illness.

"Alcoholism is a disease, the same as heart trouble or any other. An alcoholic is no more to blame for his illness than any other afflicted person. One of the problems is that alcoholism is a stigma disease. Nobody wants to say he's an alcoholic; nobody wants to say anybody in his family is."

Duren put in time with the Orioles, Angels, Phillies, Reds and Senators as well as the Yankees during his eight-and-a-half seasons in the majors.

The one thing he always could do was throw hard, extraordinarily so. His strikeout ratio per inning actually was better than such hall of famers as Walter Johnson, Lefty Grove and Carl Hubbell, that's how hard he threw. He pitched in two world series and was named on four all-star teams.

"Washington was the last club I played for in 1965," says Duren. "I really hit the juice hard after that. Most people thought all it took was 2 or 3 beers to get me drunk, but actually you generally saw me with five times what you thought I was drinking. I was sneaking the drinks. First you'd see me at one end of the bar, then the other. I'd have a drink going at each end."

Duren remembers one night in San Antonio. It was New Year's night and he felt like celebrating the fact he hadn't gone out the evening before.

So he got himself all nice and juiced up, staggered somehow to his car and drove it smack on to a railroad track.

"I just parked it and left it right there," he says. "I saw this guy running a switch engine, and said to him, 'Go ahead and hit it, you big bastard! You big guys are always shoving us little guys around."

Pretty soon the cops came along and hauled "Little" Ryne Duren, 6-2 and 200 pounds, off to jail.

Sometime later Duren entered San Antonio State Hospital and remained there 82 days.

"I got out in March of 1966 — just in time for Spring training," he smiles wryly. "I stayed sober 11 months, then began drinking again. I was fired as a heavy truck salesman in Milwaukee. In no time at all I became a basket case."

The turning point for Ryne Duren came during the spring of 1968. He remembers the date, May 2.

"That's the day I went into Depaule Rehabilitation Hospital in Milwaukee, the same day I had my last drink," he says.

While in the hospital, Duren began training as an alcoholism counselor. He went to the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee extension, and took a number of psychology courses. Soon he was working at the Norris Foundation for delinquent and dependent boys at Mukwonago, Wis., and a year ago the administrator at Stoughton community hospital came to him and convinced him how much good he could do there.

Ryne Duren is doing so much good that a documentary film about his life is being produced now by the University of Wisconsin's tele-communications unit.

New Fuel System Set Up By USAC

(By U.P. INTERNATIONAL)

INDIANAPOLIS — The United States Auto Club Tuesday decided to permit championship cars next season to carry 50 gallons of fuel — 10 gallons more than now allowed but still well under the capacity permitted earlier this year at the ill-fated Indianapolis 500.

USAC directors announced creation of a research and development group assigned the task of implementing for 1974 "installation of a new fuel system designed as a total fire control system which is the equivalent of a cell within a cell and will handle 50 gallons of fuel."

Reynold C. MacDonald, Chicago, USAC President, said the new fuel system will make USAC race cars the safest in the world from the standpoint of fuel systems.

Tennis

MADRID — Andres Gimeno, 36, one of the four players who made Spain one of the strongest tennis nations, today announced his retirement from top flight competition.

Basketball

MONTICELLO, N.Y. — Putting the politics of pro basketball merger talks aside for the moment, 20 stars played in the 15th annual Maurice Stokes Memorial Game Tuesday night with Jo-Jo White leading the Red Auerbach-coached team to a 105-89 victory over the Willis Reed-coached squad.

Football

BALTIMORE — John Unitas Tuesday filed a $725,000 suit against the Baltimore Colts, the team he quarterbacked to fame and three world championships during his 17 years here.

Unitas, 39, traded to the San Diego Chargers last year, accused the Colts of "malicious breach" of a 10-year contract and with "publicly humiliating" him.

Golf

NEW YORK — Jack Nicklaus, $45,000 richer by virtue of his victory in the Professional Golfers Association championship last week, moved into second place on the tour's top winners race.

Bruce Crampton, the runner-up in the PGA, added $25,000 to his bulging bankroll that now reads $270,841. Nicklaus has won $245,424 this year.

WESTFIELD CENTER, Ohio — Rod Funseth sank a 50-foot eagle putt on the final hole in carving a five-under par 67 Tuesday to win the $50,000 Youth Insurance Classic at Westfield Country Club.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

High Or Low Card Can Be A Signal From The Defender

When a defender is just following suit, not trying to win the trick he can often indicate something by the size of the card he plays. A higher card than necessary signals encouragement; the lowest possible cars signals disouragement.

Opening lead — ♡ Q

DECLARER BLUNDERED

West Opened the queen of hearts, and declarer blundered horribly by playing dummy's low heart. This gave East the chance to signal.

If Easy wanted a heart continuation, he could play the nine or the eight. The encouraging signal asks partner to lead the suit again.

OTHER THINGS

As it happened, East ahd better things in mind. He therefore played the deuce of hearts, the lowest possible card. This was a discouraging signal, asking West to try a different suit.

EASILY READ

The signal was easily read. West could see he was being asked to switch either to diamonds or to clubs. There couldn't be much nourishment in the diamonds, so West very properly led a club.

This gave East the chance to take two club tricks. He could then sit back and wait for his sure trump trick, defeating the contract.

COULD HAVE SAVED

South could have saved himself by playing the king of hearts from the dummy at the first trick. East would have to win the trick and would therefore be unable to have a club led through dummy's king.

East would probably return a low heart, and South would ruff. Declarer would then lead out the two top trumps and begin the diamonds. If East ruffed, declarer would get back to dummy with the jack of trumps; and if East failed to ruff, South would get rid of two clubs.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠- J 9 2
♥- K 5
♦- K Q 10 9 6
♣- K 9 2.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

With 12 points in high cards and a strong five-card suit you have a borderline opening bid. You are discouraged, however, by the facts that your long suit is a minor and that your hand is aceless.

Being Nervous Is Universal Problem

NEW YORK (UPI) "Being nervous or anxious is a universal experience," according to psychiatrist Charles R. Tartaglia.

The Georgetown University authority says this about being nervous: "It can be useful in keying up alertness or it can inhibit and overwhelm." No one can avoid it or anxiety altogether. It can be made worse by bad weather and fatigue. He suggests as an RX: "Shoot down phantoms which feed anxiety and try to face the facts instead."

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Congratulations on their birthdays should be given today to these well-known personalities: Princess Anne, 23, daughter of England's Queen Elizabeth II, Julia Child, 61, public television's "The French Chef" and Jim Lange, over 21, radio and television entertainer.

Today's teaser involves a successful couple, still busy making the world go round despite the fact they're in their 80s. Can you guess who they are?

Mr. Who pioneered public relations in America. Now 81, he also admits he was among the first to encounter the women's liberation movement and deal with it effectively. Fifty years ago he met a remarkable young woman who influenced his life. The lady is now Mrs. Who, who reported for the old New York "Tribune" in 1914.

Mrs. Who wanted to make a trip abroad with her husband. But the U.S. State Department issued her a passport in her husband's name. She demanded that it be made out in her maiden name — and got it. That was in the early 1920s.

Both have prospered with their public relations firm. They still operate it in Cambridge, Mass., even as she celebrated her 82nd birthday (July 18) and he his 81st (Nov. 22). They have been advisers to Calvin Coolidge, Dwight Eisenhower, Thomas A. Edison, and others. (Answer: Edward and Doris Bernays).

Destructive Weevil Honored In Art

ENTERPRISE, Ala. (UPI) — This community's monument dedicated to the boll weevil has been added to the national register of historical places. The monument, erected in December, 1919, consists of a three-foot female figure of cast lead holding an aluminum boll weevil.

The monument was erected because the boll weevil nearly decimated cotton farming around Enterprise, forcing the residents to turn to other crops and seek industry for the community.

Six Are Freed; Drug Warrants Said Improper

Improper search warrants led to the release Tuesday of six persons being prosecuted on drug charges in Marin, and a seventh has been freed following a ruling he was denied a speedy trial.

In separate cases Tuesday, Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court dismissed charges against five persons caught in a drug sweep in San Geronimo and against a Mill Valley. man.

For Raymond Anthony Hossbach, 25, of Mill Valley, it was the second time his case has been thrown out.

Judge Robert A. Smallman dismissed the case against Hossbach Aug. 2, but he was immediately rearrested and recharged.

Also freed by Smith were five persons arrested by agents who raided a San Geronimo home after being tipped off by an ex-convict.

They are Elizabeth Anderson, 25, of Woodacre; Elizabeth Ann Basham, 24, of San Geronimo, Richard Howard Agee, 33, of Whitehorn, Sonoma County; Dennis E. Poling, 28, of Mill Valley, and Donald Jay Brandt, 26, of San Anselmo.

The case against David Griffin Taft, 25, of Larkspur, was dismissed Friday by Superior Court Judge David Menary Jr., who ruled the Marin district attorney's office and the state Attorney General negligently failed to prosecute him within legal time limits.

In the San Geronimo and Hossbach cases, Judge Smith declared that the informants who pointed the finger at alleged drug operations were not proven to be reliable.

It was an ex-convict and drug user for 23 years who told Marin sheriff's deputies about alleged drug traffic at Mrs. Basham's house at 465 Meadow Way, San Geronimo.

Judge Smith said deputies made no attempt to corroborate the reliability of the informant, Felipe Ramirez Goycochea, 37, of San Grancisco.

Goycochea, who himself was arrested on suspicion of stealing $1,000 and a gun from the Basham house, could have been "simply trying to buy his way out" of the arrest by turning informer, said attorney Theodore C. Lachelt, who represented Miss Anderson.

Goycochea's theft case still is pending in municipal court.

Smith took three factors into account in dismissing the case against Hossbach, accused of possessing 10 pounds of a powerful depressant, PCP, when he walked into a Ross house that was being searched by police July 19:

The reliability of the informant, the sufficiency of the affidavit which led to the search warrant and the absence of probable cause to believe the house contained drugs.

Fifth Car Rallye Scheduled Saturday

The Marin Rallye Association will sponsor the fifth in a series of car rallyes Saturday, beginning at the Corte Madera Shopping Center between 6 and 9 p.m.

Nicknamed "Super Fly," the navigational-gimmick rallye costs $3.50 per car, with a 50-cent discount to association members.

Poll Says Nixon A Loser Today

NEW YORK (UPI) — If the 1972 presidential election were held again today, Sen. George McGovern would win, edging President Nixon by 51 per cent to 49 per cent, a nationwide poll indicated Tuesday.

The poll, conducted for the National Broadcasting Co. by Oliver Quayle and Co., also indicated most Americans no longer trust the President or have any confidence in him.

The survey further indicated Nixon should bear the major responsibilty for Watergate and that the bugging scandal was dirtier than usual politics.

Stocks Rise While Dollar Rallies Too

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, encouraged by the dollar's best rally in two months on overseas markets, moved ahead today following two weeks of declines. Trading on the New York Stock Exchange was slow.

Behind the dollar's current strength, observers said, is a feeling the currency has been devalued too long. But most analysts were uncertain how long the dollar would hold its recent gains.

The stock market responded positively to the dollar's strength, nonetheless, and took the occasion to do some selective bargain-hunting following two weeks of steady declines. Analysts noted inflation and rising interest rates continued to keep buying sentiment cautious.

Saxon Industries, which reported lower earnings Tuesday, was the volume leader, unchanged at 5 ¼ on 78,500 shares.

On the American Stock Exchange, prices moved narrowly higher in light activity. Syntex led the actives, up 1 ¼ to 100 ½ on 19,300 shares.

Among Big Board issues, Norton Simon rose a point. The company reported earnings of $1.86 a share for the year ended June 30, compared with $1.62 a share the previous year.

A number of glamors and gold mining issues posted gains after recent losses. Asa Ltd. added 1 ¼, Polaroid 1 ¾, Schlumberger 1 ⅝, Xerox 1 ¼, and Avon Products 1 ⅛.

Honeywell rose 2 ⅜, IBM 1 ⅞, Burroughs 1 ¼, Fairchild Camera and Control Data a point each.

Furniture Upholstery Shop Slates Opening In San Anselmo

A furniture upholstery shop will open about Sept. 1 at 1606 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo, near Lucky Market at the San Anselmo-Fairfax boundary.

Lee E. Morris of Woodacre, owner of the new shop, will call it Lee Morris Custom Upholstery. A resident of Marin for 14 years, the last six and one-half years in Woodacre, Morris has been doing custom upholstery and re-upholstery work for the past five years.

The store will have a showroom with samples so that customers can sit down and work out plans for refurbishing their furniture.

AL MORKUNAS of San Rafael has been assigned by Digital Telephone Systems Inc. as field sales engineer in the marketing department.

Working out of the San Rafael headquarters in Northgate Industrial Park, Morkunas will assist Dick Heine, western regional manager, in serving customers in the northwestern part of the United States.

Morkunas joined DTS in 1970 and was responsible for automated testing of the various component parts of all DTS products.

GEORGE W. CISCO has been appointed national sales manager for the E. D. Bullard Co. of Sausalito, manufacturer of industrial safety equipment. K. F. Keefe, president of the company, said Cisco will be responsible for all company sales functions nationwide, except in the state of California.

Cisco was national sales manager of Chicago Eye Shield Co. before joining the Bullard Company. He and his family plan to move to Marin from their home in Kansas City, Mo.

CAL PACIFIC DISTRIBUTING of San Rafael, which specializes in barbecue and fireplace equipment, is in the process of moving to new and larger quarters at 360 Gate 5 Road in Sausalito, near the Bank of Marin. The company expects to be in full operation in Sausalito on Sept. 1.

Morkunas Cisco

Herbert and Ilse Sherr of Tiburon, co-owners, said the new location will more than double the office and warehouse space to handle expanding business.

Cal Pacific Distributing is Northern California distributor of the Weber barbecue kettle and the Broilmaster gas barbecues. It also carries a complete line of accessories and fireplace equipment. The company was established six years ago on Duffy Place and has been at 38 Lisbon Street in San Rafael for the past three years.

CALMER V. OLSON of San Rafael, sales manager for the Redwood Empire District of the Prudential Insurance Co., celebrated his 20th anniversary with the firm. A native of Norway, Olson began his career with the company in 1953. He won special commendation from Kenneth C. Foster, company president, for "two decades of outstanding service."

MARSHALL E. BASKIN, who plans to move from Cincinnati to Marin, has joined Larry D. Smith and Co. Inc. in San Francisco as vice president. He will be senior consultant specializing in corporate real estate, shopping center, and related retail-oriented projects. Larry Smith and Co. are consultants in land use and development of real estate.

Baskin formerly worked for Larry Smith in Chicago, then joined Federated Department Stores in Cincinnati in 1971 as area research director and is now returning to the Larry Smith office in San Francisco. He and his family plan to live in Marin

FRINGE BENEFIT Boutique in San Anselmo at 510 Red Hill Avenue next to the House of Kwan Yin salon, is operating as usual under the sole ownership of interior designer Jane Wray of San Rafael.

Capriccio designs, which was mentioned in this column last Friday, is no longer associated with Fringe Benefit. Miss Wray explained that Patrice T. Smith of San Anselmo had been allowed to show her Capriccio designs at the shop on a trial basis but Mrs. Smith is no longer affiliated with Fringe Benefit as of this week.

All of the styles and decorations at Fringe Benefit are by Miss Wray, who started the store in March of 1972.

Miss Wray was a commercial interior designer in Honolulu, Seattle and San Francisco for 15 years. She did the interior design for the aircraft carrier Midway, Squaw Valley Ski Lodge and San Francisco-Oakland Helicopter. She was also interior stylist for H. Liebes in San Francisco for two and one-half years, operated a boutique on the S.S. Lurline and conducts fashion shows at the Marin Art and Garden Center.

Fringe Benefit features custom-made clothing and specializes in one-of-a-kind items.

MARGARET McMAHAN of San Rafael and PAMELA A. McMILLAN of Sausalito were promoted at American Forest Products Corporation in San Francisco.

Miss McMahan, executive secretary to General Manager E. H. Williams, was assinged new additional responsibilities as sales service coordinator in the company's American Box Division.

Miss McMillan was appointed assistant advertising manager to Philip L. Landman, advertising and sales promotion manager.

WALTER C. KANE and JOHN HASTINGS, both of San Rafael, were promoted by P&O, the British cruise line in San Francisco.

Kane, who has been with P&O and its agents for 27 years, was named shipboard services manager. He will be responsible for passenger accommodations, catering, bars, shops, entertainment and other shipboard functions.

Hastings, with P&O for 19 years, was named reservations supervisor. He served in tour planning and then as sales representative before the promotion.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Warrants Attractive Because Of Leverage

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. What stocks are safe for an old lady to hold? I would like issues whose dividends have been raised consistently and which are safe. — C.R.

A. I have selected five stocks which represent a variety of industries and are trading at no more than 10 times estimated 1973 earnings. These issues have 5-year annual earnings growth rates of 7 per cent to 14 per cent. Dividend growth in the past five years has averaged 5 per cent to 8 per cent annually, with the payment upped in each of the last five years.

In each case the current payout is below that averaged in the 1968-72 base period, allowing room for further dividend boosts. All five trade on the New York Stock Exchange. They are: American Brands, Hawaiian Electric, National Service Industries, Southern Indiana Gas & Electric, National Service Industries, Southern Indiana Gas & Electric and U.S. Tobacco. The current indicated yields are all in excess of 5 per cent.

Q. I've been trying to build up my knowledge of the stock market. Just what are warrants and what is your opinion of them as a speculative medium? — M.M.

A. Warrants represent the right to buy a given stock at a certain price, sometimes with no time limit but usually within a specified period. Aside from this right, warrants are worthless unless convertible into a partial share as in the case of Commonwealth Edison A & B warrants (NYSE).

They represent no ownership in a company and they pay no dividends. Stock warrants are pretty much the same as real estate options which give the holder the right to acquire property under specified conditions.

The speculative attraction in warrants is that they normally sell well below the price of the stock to which they are related, giving the investor greater leverage. There is another side of the coin, of course. If the stock falls, you are likely to suffer a far greater percentage loss in your warrants than in the related shares themselves. Money is made in warrants but mostly by experienced investors who are able to devote time to studying this medium.
